Supreme Court Building 🔶 201 South Carson Street, Suite 250 🔶 Carson City, Nevada 89701 🔶 (775) 684-1700 - Fax (775) 684-1723

- Life/Death Pretrial Practice Work Group
 - Mr. Chris Lalli presented each section of the draft "Criminal Settlement Conferences" rules.
 - Attendees discussed sections (1) and (2) of the document.
 - Justice Hardesty asked whether the work group discussed canvassing the defendant for approval. Attendees agreed with adding this to the rule.
 - Discussion was held regarding the need for written waiver or a canvas on the record; a comment was made that a written consent would be most efficient.
 - Justice Stiglich commented that this conflicts with the implication of the language in section (1); attendees agreed to change "order" to "recommend" in section (1).
 - Attendees agreed to add "defendant shall consent on the record" language into section (1).
 - Justice Stiglich commented that coercion could be avoided by changing the language to indicate the parties' interest in participating in a settlement conference rather than the judge recommending the participation.
 - Mr. Prengaman suggested the addition of language allowing either party to decline participation in the settlement conference so one party cannot bind the other to participate; there was discussion as to whether this is addressed by section (1).
 - Attendees discussed section (4) of the document.
 - There was confusion over the purpose of subsection (c); Justice Hardesty requested that Mr. Lalli follow-up with Judge Herndon regarding the intent behind this section.
 - Attendees briefly discussed possibilities for settlement judge withdrawal from the process.
 - Attendees agreed to separate (c) into two separate subsections; withdrawal of the settlement judge will be subsection (d).
 - Mr. Jackson suggested that "trial court" and "trial judge" terminology be changed for clarity and consistency; the group agreed to choose one term and use it throughout.
 - Attendees discussed section (5) of the document.
 - Justice Stiglich asked whether there is a practical impediment to having a settlement judge take a plea.
 - Attendees discussed processes for settlement case assignment. In the Eighth JD, the assignment is random; setting cases on a "different track" would be "uncomfortable" for attorneys.
 - Attendees discussed the potential issues with a settlement judge handling the sentencing and the delay between the agreement and sentencing.
 - Attendees discussed constitutional issues and implications of Marsy's Law in the process and the timing.
 - Justice Hardesty suggested that the document include a requirement that the prosecution disclose that it has informed the victim consistent with Marsy's Law. Attendees discussed the language of Marsy's Law; the right is "triggered" upon the victim's request. Justice Hardesty commented that, should the victim make the request, there needs to be some assurance that the requirement is met.
 - ✤ A suggestion was made that the plea agreement include this assurance.

- Attendees discussed the "writing of settlement" and how it is meant to function. Is this meant to serve as the guilty plea agreement and, if so, how binding is it until it is accepted in court?
- Justice Hardesty commented that the subsection language should incorporate a reference to the statute (NRS 174.063); attendees agreed that the writing is the guilty plea agreement but either party can withdraw from the agreement before the trial court takes the plea. Once the agreement is negotiated, the matter goes to the trial judge.
- Attendees discussed section (6) of the document.
 - Attendees discussed the need for this section to serve as a "safeguard" in case the trial judge does not adhere to the guilty plea agreement.
 - There was brief discussion on when the parties can withdraw.
- Justice Hardesty requested that Mr. Lalli update the document to reflect the changes approved but the commission and forward to Ms. Gradick to distribute to the Commission for review.
 - Justice Hardesty proposed that each Commission member review the updated document and reply to Ms. Gradick with a "yes" or "no" vote in response to whether they approve the motion to recommend that the Nevada Supreme Court hold a public hearing and consider adopting the criminal settlement conference rules.
 - Justice Hardesty clarified that the petition would also ask the court to approve the SCR 250 language modification approved during the previous meeting.
 - Justice Hardesty commented that the petition will clarify that this is being done to purposefully adopt a rule that exempts felony cases from Cripps.
 - Attendees discussed which categories of cases this would include; a suggestion was made to apply this to all felony cases. Voting members in attendance were in agreement with this change.
 - ✤ The proposal was accepted.
- V. Proposed Statewide Rules: Structure/Outline Discussion
 - Mr. Prengaman presented the local rules comparison document.
 - Justice Hardesty asked attendees from the Eighth Judicial District if any rules have been left out of the document and requested that all attendees review the document for completeness.
 - Mr. Jackson commented that this document highlights the statewide inconsistencies. Rule 8, for example, was an issue area for the initial work group.
 - Attendees reviewed and discussed Rule 2: Case Assignment
 - Justice Hardesty asked for input from Second Judicial District and Eighth Judicial District practitioners in attendance.
 - Mr. Prengaman explained the case assignment practice in the Second Judicial District; it is a random, one-judge approach unless there is a special circumstance to warrant assigning a different judge. If a defendant has "touched" a department in some manner, it breaks the case out of the random assignment and he/she goes back to that department.
 - Mr. Imlay and Mr. Lalli explained the case assignment practice in the Eighth Judicial District. Cases originating in justice court track randomly into designated district courts; consolidated cases to the lowest/oldest case number. It is not uncommon to have a single defendant with multiple cases appear in multiple departments. It is different for the rural Clark County courts.

- Attendees commented that the actual practice does not follow the rule in the Eighth Judicial District.
- Attendees expressed concern regarding this approach and issues with vertical representation and forum shopping.
- Ms. Rasmussen commented that counsel can ask for transfer or consolidation (when appropriate) to keep cases for one defendant in the same department.
- Justice Hardesty commented that the lack of formality in the process is part of the problem; practitioners new to the jurisdiction may not be aware of the informal process.
- Mr. Imlay expressed concern regarding losing vertical representation in defense if cases are consolidated; Justice Hardesty commented that the rules could be set for the 98.5% of criminal cases that are not resolved by jury trial.
- Justice Stiglich suggested the Commission focus agreeing developing principles and leave the details to be set by administrative orders consistent with those principles.
- > Attendees briefly discussed case assignment practices in the rural jurisdictions.
 - Many of these issues do not exist in the rural jurisdictions; however, case assignment is random in those rural jurisdictions that have more than one district court department.
- VI. Additional Potential Areas for Commission Review
 - This item was tabled for discussion at a future meeting.
- VII. Other Items/Discussion
 - In preparation for the next meeting, Justice Hardesty requested that Commission members from the Eighth Judicial District review the local rules document and send any missing rules to Ms. Gradick for inclusion in the next meeting's materials.
 - Justice Hardesty requested that Mr. Imlay and Mr. Lalli meet with Judge Herndon and "bring him up to speed" on Commission's discussion from this meeting.
 - Justice Hardesty requested Commission members review pages 44-53 and footnotes 356-366 of the Boyd School of Law's paper for discussion at the next meeting.
- VIII. Next Meeting
 - Justice Hardesty requested that Ms. Gradick survey the Commission membership for availability and schedule a meeting for next month.
- IX. Adjournment
 - The meeting was adjourned at 2:00 p.m.

Blue = CRIMINAL RULES OF PRACTICE FOR THE SECOND JUDICIAL DISTRICT COURT OF THE STATE OF NEVADA

Green = Part III, "Criminal Practice," of the RULES OF PRACTICE FOR THE EIGHTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT COURT OF THE STATE OF NEVADA

Purple = RULES OF PRACTICE FOR THE SECOND JUDICIAL DISTRICT COURT OF THE STATE OF NEVADA

Notes:

Under the prevailing scheme of court rules, the Rules of the District Courts of the State of Nevada (D.C.R.) "cover the practice and procedure in all actions in the district courts of all districts where no local rule covering the same subject has been approved by the supreme court. Local rules which are approved for a particular judicial district shall be applied in each instance whether they are the same as or inconsistent with these rules." D.C.R. 5. The D.C.R. address subjects such as the form of papers to be filed (D.C.R. 12), motions generally (D.C.R. 13, 15), motions for continuance (D.C.R. 14), and stipulations (D.C.R. 16).

The Second Judicial District has adopted the Rules of Practice for the Second Judicial District Court of the State of Nevada (WDFCR) and the Criminal Rules Of Practice For The Second Judicial District Court Of The State Of Nevada (L.C.R.). The WDFCR do not apply to "[c]riminal matters, except as otherwise expressly stated." WDFCR 1(2)(c). These Rules do contain a number of express provisions that apply to criminal matters. The L.C.R. "govern all criminal actions in the Second Judicial District Court of the State of Nevada." L.C.R. 1.

The Eighth Judicial District has adopted the Rules of Practice for the Eighth Judicial District Court of the State of Nevada (EDCR). These Rules "govern the procedure and administration of the Eighth Judicial District Court and all actions or proceedings cognizable therein." In terms of criminal practice, EDCR 1.10. Part I, "Organization of the Court and Administration," includes provisions for a criminal presiding judge (EDCR 1.31, "Presiding judge – family/civil/criminal divisions"), criminal division masters (EDCR 1.48), the assignment of criminal cases (EDCR 1.64), and the calendaring of criminal trial (EDCR 1.74). Part III, which includes Rules 3.01 through 3.80, specifically addresses criminal practice. Part VII, "General Provisions," is "applicable to all actions and proceedings commenced in the Eighth Judicial District Court" "[u]nless otherwise stated," EDCR 7.01, and addresses matters such as the form of papers for filing (EDCR 7.20), the service of order and other papers (EDCR 7.26), the custody of exhibits and records (EDCR 7.28), motions for trial continuances (EDCR 7.30), sanctions (EDCR 7.60), and voir dire examination (EDCR 7.70).

Taking the Second Judicial District as an example, there are three sets of rules that could potentially apply to a given situation in a criminal case – the D.C.R., the WDCR, and the L.C.R. The D.C.R. could apply if there is "no local rule covering the same subject" in the WDCR or L.C.R. The WDCR, which only applies to criminal matters if "expressly stated," does contain a number of provisions that expressly apply to criminal cases and therefore would preempt any corresponding provision of the D.C.R. The L.C.R. apply exclusively to criminal matters, but there is overlap with the WDCR, albeit incomplete, in the coverage of certain areas – jury instructions and continuances, for example. A careful practitioner in Washoe County would want to work from the L.C.R. to the WDCR to the D.C.R. to find and ensure compliance with any potentially applicable rule. The Statewide Rules of Criminal Procedure: A 50 State Review article criticized this type of overlap for the ambiguities and associated problems it creates for practitioners:

Eight of the Nevada's eleven judicial districts have their own local procedural rules that either directly, or "if applicable" apply to criminal matters. The Second judicial district is the only district with separate criminal procedure rules. The ambiguity within local district rules creates even more problems for practitioners as it is not clear what civil/general local rules apply to criminal proceedings.¹

It is suggested that it would be most useful to consolidate all district court rules that address procedures in criminal matters in a single set of rules, that any provisions touching upon criminal matters be eliminated from other sets of rules such as the D.C.R., the WDCR, and the EDCR, and that the scope of the other sets of rules, such the D.C.R. and EDCR, be expressly limited to civil matters or, in the alternative, that they expressly exclude criminal matters from their scope. Both practitioner and judge alike would then know that, as far as district court procedural rules are concerned, there is only one source to be consulted.

 $^{^{1}}$ Statewide Rules at p.4.

Rule 1. Scope, purpose and construction

8th Rule 3.01. Scope of rules.

The rules in Part III govern the practice and procedure in all criminal proceedings except in juvenile cases expressly provided for in Title 5 of NRS.

2nd CR Rule 1. Scope, purpose and construction.

These rules govern all criminal actions in the Second Judicial District Court of the State of Nevada. They are intended to provide for the just determination of every criminal proceeding. They shall be construed to secure simplicity in procedure, fairness in administration and the elimination of unjustifiable expense and delay. They shall be cited as "L.C.R." For good cause shown and when the interest of justice requires, the district court may modify these rules by court order, either pursuant to the motion of a party or sua sponte, to fit the facts and circumstances of a particular case pending before the court.

Comment: The purpose of these criminal rules is to provide uniformity in practice among the various judicial departments, however, each individual judge (should) retain discretion over how cases ultimately proceed in their courtroom. This rule strikes a balance between uniformity and judicial discretion. These rules do not apply to juvenile proceedings, post-conviction proceedings or habeas corpus actions. The statement of the purpose and construction of the rules parallels Rule 2 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure.

Rule 2. Case assignment.

8th Rule 3.10. Consolidation and reassignment.

- (a) When an indictment or information is filed against a defendant who has other criminal cases pending in the court, the new case may be assigned directly to the department wherein a case against that defendant is already pending.
- (b) Unless objected to by one of the judges concerned, criminal cases, writs or motions may be consolidated or reassigned to any criminal department for trial, settlement or other resolution.
- (c) In the event of negotiations being reached as to multiple cases having the same defendant, defense counsel and the prosecution may stipulate to having all of the involved cases assigned to the department having the oldest case with the lowest case number, and the court clerk shall then so reassign the involved cases. If the negotiations later break down, then the court clerk will again reassign the involved cases back to their respective department(s) of origin. The objection provision of subparagraph (b) hereinabove does not pertain to this present subparagraph (c).

2nd CR Rule 2. Case assignment.

Each criminal action shall be randomly assigned to a department of the court and shall remain in such department until final disposition of the action, unless:

- (a) the action is brought against a defendant who is the subject of another pending or prior action in this court, in which case the action shall be assigned to the department of the most recent other action; or
- (b) as otherwise ordered by the chief judge consistent with a plan of courtwide case management.

Comment: To the extent possible, cases involving a defendant who is the subject of another case in this district shall be assigned to the department of the other case. Otherwise, cases shall be randomly assigned.

2nd LR Rule 2. Organization of the court; chief judge; court administrator.

- 1. All civil and criminal cases shall be randomly assigned.
- 2. The district judges shall elect from among the general jurisdiction division and family court division judges a chief judge for a term of 2 years. The chief judge is the presiding judge as referred to in NRS 3.025 and the chief judge referred to in Supreme Court Rule 8.

Rule 3 Appearance and Withdrawal of Attorneys

Rule 7.40. Appearances; substitutions; withdrawal or change of attorney.

- (a) When a party has appeared by counsel, the party cannot thereafter appear on the party's own behalf in the case without the consent of the court. Counsel who has appeared for any party must represent that party in the case and shall be recognized by the court and by all parties as having control of the case. The court in its discretion may hear a party in open court although the party is represented by counsel.
- (b) Counsel in any case may be changed only:
 - (1) When a new attorney is to be substituted in place of the attorney withdrawing, by the written consent of both attorneys and the client, which must be filed with the court and served upon all parties or their attorneys who have appeared in the action, or
 - (2) When no attorney has been retained to replace the attorney withdrawing, by order of the court, granted upon written motion, and
 - (i) If the application is made by the attorney, the attorney must include in an affidavit the address, or last known address, at which the client may be served with notice of further proceedings taken in the case in the event the application for withdrawal is granted, and the telephone number, or last known telephone number, at which the client may be reached and the attorney must serve a copy of the application upon the client and all other parties to the action or their attorneys, or
 - (ii) If the application is made by the client, the client must state in the application the address at which the client may be served with notice of all further proceedings in the case in the event the application is granted, and the telephone number, or last known telephone number, at which the client may be reached and must serve a copy of the application upon the client's attorney and all other parties to the action or their attorneys.
- (c) No application for withdrawal or substitution may be granted if a delay of the trial or of the hearing of any other matter in the case would result.

Rule 7.42. Appearances in proper person; entry of appearance.

- (a) Unless appearing by an attorney regularly admitted to practice law in Nevada and in good standing, no entry of appearance or pleading purporting to be signed by any party to an action may be recognized or given any force or effect by any district court unless the same is signed by the party, with the signer's address and telephone number, if any. Except when otherwise specifically provided by rule or statute, pleadings need not be verified or accompanied by affidavit.
- (b) A corporation may not appear in proper person.

Rule 7.44. Presence of local counsel required.

(a) Unless otherwise allowed by the court, no attorney who is not a resident of Nevada and has not been admitted to the State Bar of Nevada may appear as counsel in any cause pending in this district without the presence of associated Nevada counsel.

(b) If foreign counsel is associated, all pleadings, motions and other papers must be signed by Nevada counsel, who shall be responsible to the court for their content. Nevada counsel must be present during oral arguments and must be responsible to the court for all matters presented.

2nd LR Rule 3. Criminal trials; appearance and withdrawal of attorneys.

- 1. Judges shall set all criminal trials in accordance with their own individual calendars. Such cases shall be randomly assigned to each department, and shall stay with that department through final disposition, unless the case is reassigned by that judge with the concurrence of the court to which it is reassigned. All related cases on the same defendant shall be assigned to the same judge. This random assignment system shall also apply to all criminal appeals, material witnesses and all other miscellaneous criminal matters.
- 2. If more criminal trials are scheduled on any day than an individual judge can handle that judge shall find another department willing to take the overflow. If the calendar overflow problem cannot be resolved by the individual judge the matter shall be referred to the chief judge who shall assign the overflow trials to other judges as necessary.
- 3. Criminal arraignments shall be set by the individual judges. If a judge is conducting a criminal jury trial, criminal arraignments, motions, and other criminal matters which are also assigned to that department may be referred by that judge to a department which does not have a trial.
- 4. Criminal arraignments, motions, pleas, sentencing hearings, and other proceedings, shall be heard by each court department in accordance with their own individual calendars at a time and date specified by each department.
- 5. Except as may be otherwise ordered by the judge in writing all motions for probation revocation shall be set to be heard by the court as soon as possible and no later than 10 days after the incarceration of the defendant.
- 6. Attorneys representing defendants in criminal cases shall promptly serve written notice of their appearances upon the district attorney, and file the same with the filing office. When desiring to withdraw from a case, attorneys shall serve a motion upon the district attorney and their client, file the same with the filing office, and set the motion for hearing.
- 7. Effective January 2, 1992, any status conference and/or "Motions to Confirm" shall be held 1 week prior to the trial date. This will provide at least 5 days' notice of the status of a pending trial to all parties and the jury office. Prior to January 2, 1992, any such status conferences shall be held at least 3 days prior to trial.

Rule 23. Appearances; substitutions; withdrawal or change of attorneys.

1. When a party has appeared by counsel, that individual cannot thereafter appear on his/her own behalf in the case without the consent of the court. Counsel who has appeared for any party shall represent that party in the case and shall be recognized by the court and by all parties as having control of the client's case, until counsel withdraws, another attorney is substituted, or until counsel is discharged by the client in writing, filed with the filing office, in accordance with SCR 46 and this rule. The court in its discretion may hear a party in open court although the party is represented by counsel.

- 2. Counsel in any case may be changed:
 - (a) When a new attorney is to be substituted in place of the attorney withdrawing, by the written consent of both attorneys and the client, all of which shall be filed with the court and served upon all parties or their attorneys who have appeared in the action; or
 - (b) By order of the court, upon motion and notice as provided in these rules, when no attorney has been retained to replace the attorney withdrawing;
 - (1) If such motion is made by the attorney, counsel shall include in an affidavit the address, or last known address, at which the client may be served with notice of further proceedings taken in the case in the event the application for withdrawal is granted, and counsel shall serve a copy of such motion and supporting papers upon the client and all other parties to the action or their attorneys; or
 - (2) If such motion is made by the client, the client shall state therein the address at which the client may be served with notice of all further proceedings in the case in the event the application is granted, and shall serve a copy of the application upon the attorney and all other parties to the action or their attorneys.
- 3. Any form of order permitting withdrawal of an attorney submitted to the court for signature shall contain the address at which the party is to be served with notice of all further proceedings.
- 4. Except for good cause shown, no application for withdrawal or substitution shall be granted if a delay of the trial or of the hearing of any other matter in the case would result. Discharge of an attorney may not be grounds to delay a trial or other hearing.
- 5. A corporation may not appear in proper person.

Rule 4. Initial appearance and arraignment.

2nd CR Rule 3. Initial appearance and arraignment.

- (a) At the initial appearance of the defendant before the district court, the court shall:
 - supply the defendant a copy of the indictment or information unless the charging document has previously been made available to the defendant through e-filing;
 - (2) if necessary, determine whether the defendant qualifies for appointed counsel and, if so, appoint counsel to represent the defendant. In such event, newly appointed counsel shall be given an extension of time of at least 5 days before entry of plea;
 - (3) arraign the defendant upon all charges in the indictment or information;
 - (4) subject to the conditions set forth in NRS 178.4853,² determine appropriate conditions for the defendant's release from custody or that detention is warranted;
 - (5) if the defendant enters a plea of not guilty, set the dates for trial, pretrial motions, evidentiary hearings or status conferences;
 - (6) specify any discovery obligations of the parties beyond those contained in Chapter 174 of the Nevada Revised Statutes.

The office shall be open for that purpose from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon, Tuesday through Thursday. All other calendaring shall be done by appointment. If any department wishes to deviate from this procedure it shall be responsible for setting its own calendar in a manner and at a time specified. The times and procedures for such calendaring shall be advertised by each department.
- 2. If any case may not be heard because of another case or the unavailability of the judge, it shall be the primary responsibility of that judge or the administrative assistant to arrange a transfer to another department with the agreement of the new department. In the event that the department cannot successfully transfer the case the matter shall be referred to the chief judge for resolution.
- 3. In every civil case, within 30 days after the last answer is filed, the parties must obtain a date for trial unless the judge waives this requirement for good cause shown. If the parties fail to obtain a trial date, the court may set the case for trial at its discretion.
- 4. All cases shall be set for trial within 12 months of the date that the setting occurs, unless ordered otherwise by the trial court.
- 5. Contested matters shall be set by each court department on dates agreeable to counsel. At the time fixed in the notice, with showing of service upon all parties, a court department shall set the case for trial at a time certain. If fewer than all parties appear before a court department on an application for setting, and file with the court department a conformed copy of written notice to appear for setting at that hour and day, a court department shall set the matter to be heard on a date satisfactory to the counsel present. Time shall be computed as provided in N.R.C.P. 6. An individual court department may dispense with these procedures if necessary. Matters which cannot be heard in the department in which set because of a conflict with a prior matter, shall be assigned to another department, if one is available, by the affected department, to be heard at the same time as originally set. If a matter cannot be heard at the time originally set because of conflicts in all other departments, the matter shall be continued by order of the affected department. Thereafter, such matters shall be entitled to priority for resetting in accordance with the judge's individual calendar. Each court department shall determine the maximum allowed time that a matter can be set out on the calendar, subject to the 12-month setting rule.

- 9. All applications for setting shall be made on a printed form designated "Application for Setting," copies of which shall be available at each court department, unless this requirement is waived by the department. The applicant shall file the original and serve a copy upon counsel for each other party.

- (b) If the court deems the defendant to be an appropriate referral, the court shall,
 - (1) at arraignment, where legally permissible, transfer the case to Drug Court for all further proceedings. A defendant seeking entry into the Drug Court program must obtain conditional approval prior to assignment;
 - (2) pursuant to the provisions of NRS Chapters 453 and 458, at sentencing, transfer the case to the Second Judicial District Specialty Court; or

These may include anticipated delays in the provision of legal documents, the need for a restitution hearing, or lengthy testimony of witnesses. Except as otherwise required by law, counsel for all parties should be privy to any communications or materials submitted in mitigation or aggravation of sentence.  - (5) That the application is made in good faith and not merely for delay.
- (c) Except in criminal matters, if a motion for continuance is filed within 30 days before the date of the trial, the motion must contain a certificate of counsel for the movant that counsel has provided counsel's client with a copy of the motion and supporting documents. The court will not consider any motion filed in violation of this paragraph and any false certification will result in appropriate sanctions imposed pursuant to Rule 7.60.²⁴
- (d) No continuance may be granted unless the contents of the affidavit conform to this rule, except where the continuance is applied for in a mining case upon the special ground provided by NRS 16.020.
- (e) No amendments or additions to affidavits for continuance will be allowed at the hearing on the motion and the court may grant or deny the motion without further argument.
- (f) Trial settings may not be vacated by stipulation, but only by order of the court. The party moving for the continuance of a trial may obtain an order shortening the time for the hearing of the motion for continuance. Except in an emergency, the party requesting a continuance shall give all opposing parties at least 3 days' notice of the time set for hearing the motion. The hearing of the motion shall be set not less than 1 day before the trial.
- (g) When application is made to a judge, master or commissioner to postpone a motion, trial or other proceeding, the payment of costs (including but not limited to the expenses incurred by the party) and attorney fees may be imposed as a condition of granting the postponement.

(h) Motions or stipulations to continue a civil trial that also seek extension of discovery dates must comply with Rule 2.35.

2nd CR Rule 10. Continuances.

- (a) The timing of proceedings as directed by the court at the initial appearance shall not be enlarged except upon a showing of good cause.
- (b) Stipulations or requests for the continuance of any proceeding shall be in writing, signed by counsel and the defendant, and submitted to the court as soon as practicable but in no event later than 4:00 p.m. on the judicial day immediately preceding the event. The court may waive the signature of the defendant provided counsel certifies he or she has obtained the consent of the defendant to the continuance.

Comment: Continuances of any criminal proceeding are not favored, but, if requested, shall be presented to the court under the terms of this rule.

2nd LR Rule 13. Continuances.

- 1. No continuance of a trial in a civil or criminal case shall be granted except for good cause. A motion or stipulation for continuance shall state the reason therefor and whether or not any previous request for continuance had been either sought or granted. The motion or stipulation must certify that the party or parties have been advised that a motion or stipulation for continuance is to be submitted in their behalf and must state any objection the parties may have thereto.
- 2. If a continuance of any trial is granted, the parties must appear in the individual court department within 5 days and reset the case, unless the court waives this requirement. Failure to follow this rule may result in the court setting the trial date.

Rule 16. Sanctions.

Rule 7.60. Sanctions.

- (a) If without just excuse or because of failure to give reasonable attention to the matter, no appearance is made on behalf of a party on the call of a calendar, at the time set for the hearing of any matter, at a pre-trial conference, or on the date of trial, the court may order any one or more of the following:
 - (1) Payment by the delinquent attorney or party of costs, in such amount as the court may fix, to the clerk or to the adverse party.
 - (2) Payment by the delinquent attorney or party of the reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees, to any aggrieved party.

 - (5) Fails or refuses to comply with any order of a judge of the court.

2nd LR Rule 21. Sanctions for noncompliance.

If a party or an attorney fails or refuses to comply with these rules, the court may make such orders and impose such sanctions as are just, including, but not limited to the following:

- 1. Hold the disobedient party or attorney in contempt of court.
- 2. Continue any hearing until the disobedient party or attorney has complied with the requirements imposed.
- 3. Require the disobedient party to pay the other party's expenses, including a reasonable attorney's fee, incurred in preparing for and attending such hearing.

The following areas of inquiry are not properly within the scope of voir dire examination by counsel:

- (b) Questions touching on anticipated instructions on the law.
- (c) Questions touching on the verdict a juror would return when based upon hypothetical facts.
- (d) Questions that are in substance arguments of the case.

Rule 18. Court interpreters.

Rule 7.80. Court interpreters.

(a) Counsel must notify the court interpreter's office of a request for interpreter not less than 48 hours before the hearing or trial is scheduled. In criminal cases when the defendant has been declared an indigent, and in civil cases when a determination of indigency has been made pursuant to NRS 12.015, there may be no charge for available court interpreters. In all other cases, the party requesting the interpreter must pay any reasonable fees as may be set by the chief judge to the clerk in advance for the services of a court interpreter.

In exceptional cases, the fee schedule may be waived, increased or decreased, at the discretion of the court. When it is necessary to employ interpreters from outside Clark County, actual and necessary expenses shall also be paid by the party requesting the interpreter.

(b) An interpreter qualified for and appointed to a case must appear at all subsequent court proceedings unless relieved as interpreter of record by the court.

Rule 19. Appeals from municipal and justice courts.

2nd LR Rule 19. Appeals from municipal and justice courts.

If a trial setting is continued by order of the court, the case shall be reset within 60 days of the date of the order for continuance.
- 2. If multiple settings for appeal trials in any one court department exceed the capacity of that department, settings shall be made in the designated department scheduled to handle the overflow. If that court's calendar becomes full, assignment shall be made to any other available department.
- 3. Appeals in criminal cases shall be set for trial on Thursdays and Fridays, unless the trial judge or the chief judge grants permission to make such settings on other judicial days.
- 4. In civil appeals from the justice court, appellant shall file within 30 days after the filing of a notice of appeal a written brief containing a statement of the errors committed in the justice court with accompanying authorities which shall not exceed 5 pages. - (a) In General.—Upon the appearance before a judicial officer of a person charged with an offense, the judicial officer shall issue an order that, pending trial, the person be—

- (b) Release on Personal Recognizance or Unsecured Appearance Bond.-

(c) Release on Conditions.—

- (1) If the judicial officer determines that the release described in subsection (b) of this section will not reasonably assure the appearance of the person as required or will endanger the safety of any other person or the community, such judicial officer shall order the pretrial release of the person—
 - (A) subject to the condition that the person not commit a Federal, State, or local crime during the period of release and subject to the condition that the person cooperate in the collection of a DNA sample from the person if the collection of such a sample is authorized pursuant to section 3 of the DNA Analysis Backlog Elimination Act of 2000 (42 U.S.C. 14135a); 1 and

 - (i) remain in the custody of a designated person, who agrees to assume supervision and to report any violation of a release condition to the court, if the designated person is able reasonably to assure the judicial officer that the person will appear as required and will not pose a danger to the safety of any other person or the community;

- (xii) execute a bail bond with solvent sureties; who will execute an agreement to forfeit in such amount as is reasonably necessary to assure appearance of the person as required and shall provide the court with information regarding the value of the assets and liabilities of the surety if other than an approved surety and the nature and extent of encumbrances against the surety's property; such surety shall have a net worth which shall have sufficient unencumbered value to pay the amount of the bail bond;
- (xiii) return to custody for specified hours following release for employment, schooling, or other limited purposes; and
- (xiv) satisfy any other condition that is reasonably necessary to assure the appearance of the person as required and to assure the safety of any other person and the community.

In any case that involves a minor victim under section 1201, 1591, 2241, 2242, 2244(a)(1), 2245, 2251, 2251A, 2252(a)(1), 2252(a)(2), 2252(a)(3), 2252A(a)(1), 2252A(a)(2), 2252A(a)(3), 2252A(a)(4), 2260, 2421, 2422, 2423, or 2425 of this title, or a failure to register offense under section 2250 of this title, any release order shall contain, at a minimum, a condition of electronic monitoring and each of the conditions specified at subparagraphs (iv), (v), (vi), (vii), and (viii).

- (2) The judicial officer may not impose a financial condition that results in the pretrial detention of the person.
- (3) The judicial officer may at any time amend the order to impose additional or different conditions of release.
- (d) Temporary Detention To Permit Revocation of Conditional Release, Deportation, or Exclusion.— If the judicial officer determines that—
 - (1) such person—
 - (A) is, and was at the time the offense was committed, on-
 - (i) release pending trial for a felony under Federal, State, or local law;
 - (ii) release pending imposition or execution of sentence, appeal of sentence or conviction, or completion of sentence, for any offense under Federal, State, or local law; or

 - (2) such person may flee or pose a danger to any other person or the community;such judicial officer shall order the detention of such person, for a period of not more than ten days, excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays, and direct the attorney for the Government to notify the appropriate court, probation or parole official, or State or local law enforcement official, or the appropriate official of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. If the official fails or declines to take such person into custody during that period, such person shall be treated in accordance with the other provisions of this section, notwithstanding the applicability of other provisions of law governing release pending trial or deportation or exclusion proceedings. If temporary detention is sought under paragraph (1)(B) of this subsection, such person has the burden of proving to the court such person's United States citizenship or lawful admission for permanent residence.

(e)Detention.—

- (1) If, after a hearing pursuant to the provisions of subsection (f) of this section, the judicial officer finds that no condition or combination of conditions will reasonably assure the appearance of the person as required and the safety of any other person and the community, such judicial officer shall order the detention of the person before trial.
- (2) In a case described in subsection (f)(1) of this section, a rebuttable presumption arises that no condition or combination of conditions will reasonably assure the safety of any other person and the community if such judicial officer finds that—
 - (A) the person has been convicted of a Federal offense that is described in subsection (f)(1) of this section, or of a State or local offense that would have been an offense described in subsection (f)(1) of this section if a circumstance giving rise to Federal jurisdiction had existed;
 - (B) the offense described in subparagraph (A) was committed while the person was on release pending trial for a Federal, State, or local offense; and
 - (C) a period of not more than five years has elapsed since the date of conviction, or the release of the person from imprisonment, for the offense described in subparagraph (A), whichever is later.
- (3) Subject to rebuttal by the person, it shall be presumed that no condition or combination of conditions will reasonably assure the appearance of the person as required and the safety of the community if the judicial officer finds that there is probable cause to believe that the person committed—
 - (A) an offense for which a maximum term of imprisonment of ten years or more is prescribed in the Controlled Substances Act (21 U.S.C. 801 et seq.), the Controlled Substances Import and Export Act (21 U.S.C. 951 et seq.), or chapter 705 of title 46;
 - (B) an offense under section 924(c), 956(a), or 2332b of this title;
 - (C) an offense listed in section 2332b(g)(5)(B) of title 18, United States Code, for which a maximum term of imprisonment of 10 years or more is prescribed;
 - (D) an offense under chapter 77 of this title for which a maximum term of imprisonment of 20 years or more is prescribed; or
 - (E) an offense involving a minor victim under section 1201, 1591, 2241, 2242, 2244(a)(1), 2245, 2251, 2251A, 2252(a)(1), 2252(a)(2), 2252(a)(3), 2252A(a)(1), 2252A(a)(2), 2252A(a)(3), 2252A(a)(4), 2260, 2421, 2422, 2423, or 2425 of this title.
- (f)Detention Hearing.—The judicial officer shall hold a hearing to determine whether any condition or combination of conditions set forth in subsection (c) of this section will reasonably assure the appearance of such person as required and the safety of any other person and the community—
 - (1) upon motion of the attorney for the Government, in a case that involves-
 - (A) a crime of violence, a violation of section 1591, or an offense listed in section 2332b(g)(5)(B) for which a maximum term of imprisonment of 10 years or more is prescribed;

- (B) an offense for which the maximum sentence is life imprisonment or death;
- (C) an offense for which a maximum term of imprisonment of ten years or more is prescribed in the Controlled Substances Act (21 U.S.C. 801 et seq.), the Controlled Substances Import and Export Act (21 U.S.C. 951 et seq.), or chapter 705 of title 46;
- (D) any felony if such person has been convicted of two or more offenses described in subparagraphs (A) through (C) of this paragraph, or two or more State or local offenses that would have been offenses described in subparagraphs (A) through (C) of this paragraph if a circumstance giving rise to Federal jurisdiction had existed, or a combination of such offenses; or
- (E) any felony that is not otherwise a crime of violence that involves a minor victim or that involves the possession or use of a firearm or destructive device (as those terms are defined in section 921), or any other dangerous weapon, or involves a failure to register under section 2250 of title 18, United States Code; or
- (2) upon motion of the attorney for the Government or upon the judicial officer's own motion in a case, that involves—
 - (A) a serious risk that such person will flee; or
 - (B) a serious risk that such person will obstruct or attempt to obstruct justice, or threaten, injure, or intimidate, or attempt to threaten, injure, or intimidate, a prospective witness or juror.

The hearing shall be held immediately upon the person's first appearance before the judicial officer unless that person, or the attorney for the Government, seeks a continuance. Except for good cause, a continuance on motion of such person may not exceed five days (not including any intermediate Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday), and a continuance on motion of the attorney for the Government may not exceed three days (not including any intermediate Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday). During a continuance, such person shall be detained, and the judicial officer, on motion of the attorney for the Government or sua sponte, may order that, while in custody, a person who appears to be a narcotics addict receive a medical examination to determine whether such person is an addict. At the hearing, such person has the right to be represented by counsel, and, if financially unable to obtain adequate representation, to have counsel appointed. The person shall be afforded an opportunity to testify, to present witnesses, to cross-examine witnesses who appear at the hearing, and to present information by proffer or otherwise. The rules concerning admissibility of evidence in criminal trials do not apply to the presentation and consideration of information at the hearing. The facts the judicial officer uses to support a finding pursuant to subsection (e) that no condition or combination of conditions will reasonably assure the safety of any other person and the community shall be supported by clear and convincing evidence. The person may be detained pending completion of the hearing. The hearing may be reopened, before or after a determination by the judicial officer, at any time before trial if the judicial officer finds that information exists that was not known to the movant at the time of the hearing and that has a material bearing on the issue whether there are conditions of release that will reasonably assure the appearance of such person as required and the safety of any other person and the community.

(g) Factors To Be Considered.—The judicial officer shall, in determining whether there are conditions of release that will reasonably assure the appearance of the person as required and the safety of any other person and the community, take into account the available information concerning—

- the nature and circumstances of the offense charged, including whether the offense is a crime of violence, a violation of section 1591, a Federal crime of terrorism, or involves a minor victim or a controlled substance, firearm, explosive, or destructive device;
- (2) the weight of the evidence against the person;
- (3) the history and characteristics of the person, including—
 - (A) the person's character, physical and mental condition, family ties, employment, financial resources, length of residence in the community, community ties, past conduct, history relating to drug or alcohol abuse, criminal history, and record concerning appearance at court proceedings; and
 - (B) whether, at the time of the current offense or arrest, the person was on probation, on parole, or on other release pending trial, sentencing, appeal, or completion of sentence for an offense under Federal, State, or local law; and
- (4) the nature and seriousness of the danger to any person or the community that would be posed by the person's release. In considering the conditions of release described in subsection (c)(1)(B)(xi) or (c)(1)(B)(xii) of this section, the judicial officer may upon his own motion, or shall upon the motion of the Government, conduct an inquiry into the source of the property to be designated for potential forfeiture or offered as collateral to secure a bond, and shall decline to accept the designation, or the use as collateral, of property that, because of its source, will not reasonably assure the appearance of the person as required.
- (h) Contents of Release Order.—In a release order issued under subsection (b) or (c) of this section, the judicial officer shall—
 - (1) include a written statement that sets forth all the conditions to which the release is subject, in a manner sufficiently clear and specific to serve as a guide for the person's conduct; and
 (2) advise the person of
 - (2) advise the person of—
 - (A) the penalties for violating a condition of release, including the penalties for committing an offense while on pretrial release;
 - (B) the consequences of violating a condition of release, including the immediate issuance of a warrant for the person's arrest; and
 - (C) sections 1503 of this title (relating to intimidation of witnesses, jurors, and officers of the court), 1510 (relating to obstruction of criminal investigations), 1512 (tampering with a witness, victim, or an informant), and 1513 (retaliating against a witness, victim, or an informant).
 - (i) Contents of Detention Order.—In a detention order issued under subsection (e) of this section, the judicial officer shall—
 - (1) include written findings of fact and a written statement of the reasons for the detention;
 - (2) direct that the person be committed to the custody of the Attorney General for confinement in a corrections facility separate, to the extent practicable, from persons awaiting or serving sentences or being held in custody pending appeal;
 - (3) direct that the person be afforded reasonable opportunity for private consultation with counsel; and
 - (4) direct that, on order of a court of the United States or on request of an attorney for the Government, the person in charge of the corrections facility in which the person is confined deliver the person to a United States marshal for the purpose of an appearance in connection with a court proceeding.

The judicial officer may, by subsequent order, permit the temporary release of the person, in the custody of a United States marshal or another appropriate person, to the extent that the judicial officer determines such release to be necessary for preparation of the person's defense or for another compelling reason.

(j) Presumption of Innocence.— Nothing in this section shall be construed as modifying or limiting the presumption of innocence.

STATEWIDE RULES OF CRIMINAL PROCEDURE: A 50 STATE REVIEW

Nevada Law Journal Staff*

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The Federal Criminal Procedure Rules "provide for the just determination of every criminal proceeding, to secure simplicity in procedure and fairness in administration, and to eliminate unjustifiable expense and delay."¹ To emulate that same goal, forty-seven states have implemented some form of statewide governing procedural rules for criminal cases.² Particularly, thirty-four states have adopted statewide criminal procedure rules, seven states have promulgated statewide criminal procedural rules for the varying levels of courts, and six state legislatures have enacted all-encompassing criminal procedure statutory codes.

Nevada is one of three states without statewide criminal procedure rules, resulting in both an increased likelihood of unfair, inconsistent, and misapplication of procedures. Practitioners must review the state's procedural statutes, statewide rules of district courts, supreme court rules, case law, and local district court rules to determine how to proceed in each criminal case. Eight of Nevada's eleven judicial districts have their own local procedural rules that either directly, or "if applicable" apply to criminal matters. The Second judicial district is the only district with separate criminal procedure rules. The ambiguity within local district rules creates problems for practitioners as it is not clear what civil/general local rules apply to criminal proceedings. With the ease of travel and technology, attorneys are no longer tied to one county, but the unfamiliarity of the next county's rules may, in effect, tie a practitioner's hands.

The Nevada Law Journal would also like to thank Professor Anne Traum for her guidance and support. Conclusions in this White Paper are based primarily on the text of the state's statute, rule, or code section governing criminal procedures. The authors acknowledge that some information may be incomplete despite the authors' best efforts given the complex nature of each state's court structures, judicial decisions, statutes, and rules regarding criminal procedure. This White Paper seeks to provide an insight on the breadth, variations, and structures of each state's criminal procedure rules.

 $^{^{2}}$ The benefits of criminal procedure rules are only effective if they are actually followed and enforceable; however, that inquiry is beyond the scope of this White Paper.

Additionally, without statewide criminal procedure rules, and due to the difficult legislative process with Nevada's biennial legislature, criminal procedural rules are regularly created through case law. Absent specific criminal procedures, Nevada courts are granted wide discretion to "proceed in any lawful manner not inconsistent with this title or with any other applicable statute." This may result in overly particular procedural rules because they are created based on the circumstances of that specific case. Rules and standards should primarily be centralized and generally applicable regardless of the facts to allow practitioners to advocate and judges to interpret how a rule applies to each case, instead of crafting new precedential standards in each case.

This White Paper intends to compare the varying states' criminal procedure rules, to provide Nevada's legal community with an awareness of how rules can be structured, what rules are included, and how rules interact with statutes and other court rules. If Nevada chooses to follow in the path of the forty-seven states and develop statewide criminal procedure rules, this White Paper also offers some considerations as to the potential applicability, depth, and specifics of statewide criminal procedure rules. For example, Nevada could either expand its criminal procedure statutes, filling in the day-to-day gaps, and develop a criminal procedure code. Or, alternatively, in a process similar to creating Nevada's Rules of Civil Procedure, the legislature could grant the Nevada Supreme Court power to adopt statewide rules. Regardless of the method, the goal remains the same: promote fairness, regularity, and transparency regardless of where in the state a criminal case is being adjudicated and who adjudicates the case.

INTRODUCTION

According to the United States Supreme Court, the "interest of the United States in criminal prosecution is not that it shall win a case but that justice shall be done."³ The two-fold aim of justice, "that guilt shall not escape nor innocence suffer,"⁴ is aided when a uniform set of procedures and practices govern cases with consistency and sound administration.⁵ To this end, the United States Supreme Court originally adopted the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure ("FRCP") in 1944, which were subsequently approved in 1946.⁶

⁴ Berger v. United States, 295 U.S. 78, 88 (1935).

As one of the three states without statewide criminal procedure rules or codes, Nevada practitioners must review the state's procedural statutes,⁷ statewide rules of district courts,⁸ supreme court rules,⁹ case law, and local district court rules to determine how to proceed in each criminal case. Eight of the Nevada's eleven judicial districts have their own local procedural rules that either directly, or "if applicable" apply to criminal matters.¹⁰ The Second judicial district is the only district with separate criminal procedure rules. The ambiguity within local district rules creates even more problems for practitioners as it is not clear what civil/general local rules apply to criminal proceedings. Additionally, absent specific criminal procedures, Nevada courts are granted wide discretion to "proceed in any lawful manner not inconsistent with this title or with any other applicable statute."¹¹

In early 2015, the Nevada Supreme Court sought to resolve growing concerns regarding the lack of statewide criminal procedure rules by convening an administrative docket and commission¹² to consider statewide rules.¹³ Concerns

These rules shall be liberally construed to secure the proper and efficient administration of the business and affairs of the court and to promote and facilitate the administration of justice by the court. These rules cover the practice and procedure in all actions in the district courts of all districts where no local rule covering the same subject has been approved by the supreme court. Local rules which are approved for a particular judicial district shall be applied in each instance whether they are the same as or inconsistent with these rules.

¹⁰ The Fifth, Sixth, and Eleventh Districts do not have any documented rules of practice or rules of criminal procedure. The Second District is the only district with separate rules for criminal practice but their rules of practice have additional criminal rules. The First and Ninth District Rules of practice are often very similar and both apply to criminal cases when applicable. The Eighth District's rules of practice are extensive, but Part III is specifically for criminal cases, while the rest of the rules are said to apply to "all" cases in the district. The Third, Fourth, Seventh, and Tenth Districts do not state whether the rules of practice apply to criminal cases, or only if applicable, but some rules explicitly mention their application to criminal cases. about the lack of statewide rules stem from the desire to ensure fairness in the judicial system¹⁴ and, as a practical matter, to reduce confusion and misapplication of rules, as practitioners are currently required to review a number of sources to determine what criminal procedure rules apply in each case and in each local jurisdiction.¹⁵ The Nevada Supreme Court's Commission was created to address the lack of uniformity of criminal procedure rules throughout the state.¹⁶ "The Commission is ultimately tasked with ascertaining whether the problems facing the criminal justice system are structural in nature, where the statutes of NRS need to be altered or amended, or if it is something the Court can accomplish within the Supreme Court's Rules."¹⁷

To assist in this matter, the Nevada Law Journal at the William S. Boyd School of Law at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas has prepared this White Paper. It is primarily a fifty-state review of criminal procedure and practices, comparing and contrasting several criminal procedural topics. Though not a fully comprehensive review, this White Paper focuses on the core procedural topics, with a specific focus on the Commission's committee topics: jury instructions,¹⁸ motion practice,¹⁹ discovery,²⁰ and life and death practices.²¹

First, this White Paper details the different ways that states create, implement, and construct criminal procedural rules. The next section is an overview

The Nevada Law Journal has also created a chart, attached as Appendix, for an easy reference to many of the topics discussed throughout this White Paper and additional background on statewide criminal procedure rules generally.

A. A Brief History of Procedural Rules

Constructing procedural rules is not a new practice for states. It flows from our common-law ancestry in England.²³ The judiciary in England determined the "procedure to be followed in the courts."²⁴ However, beginning in the nine-teenth century, the American justice system began moving away from case law and moving towards set rules.²⁵ State legislatures began regulating court procedures and civil practice.²⁶ The zenith, reached by the New York State Legislature, occurred after it adopted the "Field Code" for civil procedure in 1848²⁷ with twenty-four states following by 1870.²⁸

States began to consider criminal procedure rules in 1925 when the American Law Institute ("ALI") began to draft a model code of criminal procedure.²⁹ After the ALI's promulgation of the Model Code of Criminal Procedure of 1930, twenty-nine states adopted the ALI model rule sections in full, in part, or in substance.³⁰

²² For reference, the following Nevada District Court Local Rules are cited as follows: First District Court Rules of Practice cited as FJDCR. Seventh District Court Rules of Practice cited as 7JDCR. Eighth District Court Rules of Practice cited as EDCR. Ninth District Court Rules of Practice cited as NJDCR. Tenth District Court Rules of Practice cited as 10JDCR. The Fifth, Sixth, and Eleventh districts do not have documented rules of practice or rules of criminal procedure.

On the federal level, scholars, lawyers, judges, and government officials came together to create the FRCP in 1938.³¹ Eight years later, the FRCP went into effect.³² Rather than pursuing Congressional involvement, (although Congress passed enabling legislation),³³ the Court used the same process that created the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure to draft the federal criminal rules.³⁴ Former Attorney General Homer Cummings called it a "democratic process in that they represent[ed] the thought and labor of the legal profession of the whole."³⁵

Although the ALI and other institutions have created model rules,³⁶ nearly half the states used the FRCP to model their own rules.³⁷

States continue to engage in reform efforts to ensure that their rules are uniform, clear, and helpful to courts and practitioners. Most recently, after starting the process in 2004, Mississippi adopted new rules of criminal procedure to take effect on July 1, 2017³⁸ with the goal of having them "be uniform from district to district and from court to court."³⁹ Idaho just recently adopted newly formatted statewide criminal procedure rules in an effort to "simplify, clarify and modernize the language, and to create a consistent structure and format along with a more useful table of contents."⁴⁰ Reform and revision is vital to maintaining standards that are effectively applied and applicable statewide.

This is true for Nevada as well. In 1965, the Legislature passed Assembly Concurrent Resolution 9 calling on the legislative commission "to study the entire area of substantive criminal law" and to "prepare a new criminal code."⁴¹ Before this, the criminal law statutes had not been reviewed since 1911.⁴² The legislative commission created a subcommittee comprised of legislators, judges, and lawyers.⁴³ The commission narrowed their study to penalties and procedures.⁴⁴ Their policy goal for criminal procedure was to adopt in statutory form the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure.⁴⁵ Since then, these criminal law statutes have set the foundation for proceedings in Nevada and have been amended periodically.

B. Criminal Procedure Rules-Generally

State criminal procedure rules fall into four categories. The first, and largest category, includes states that have adopted statewide rules of criminal procedure that govern all criminal proceedings.⁴⁶ Almost every one of these states also have statutes governing criminal proceedings. However, states supplemented those generally bare statutes with statewide rules to ensure criminal proceedings across the state were governed by a uniform set of procedural rules. These statewide rules are either promulgated by the state's supreme court, or adopted by the state's legislature. This category will be referred to as "statewide rules" herein.

Second, six states have chosen to incorporate the intricate details of statewide procedural rules into their existing criminal procedure statutes, creating one location—a criminal procedure code—to govern all criminal proceedings within the state. These codes were created by the states' legislatures and, in substance and application, are similar to the first category. This category will be referred to as "code" states throughout.

Third, seven states do not have statewide procedural rules that apply to all criminal matters throughout the state; instead, these states have a separate set of procedural rules for each level of court within the state. These states may have a distinct set of criminal procedure rules for their state circuit courts, superior court, supreme court, and/or trial court that apply to all criminal cases throughout the state within that specific court. For example, Delaware has a distinct set of criminal procedure rules for their Superior, Supreme, Common Pleas, and Justice of the Peace courts.⁴⁷ This category will be referred to as "by court" rules herein.

⁴⁶ Please note that almost all states have exceptions to this application, especially for appellate procedures and juvenile criminal proceedings. Often, separate statewide rules govern these specific criminal cases.

Fourth, the last and smallest category, includes states that do not have criminal procedure rules either statewide, by court, or code. These states, like Nevada, have statutes and sporadic court rules, but do not have any statewide governing rules. While these states have criminal procedure statutes, those statutes are unlike the code states because the statutes do not provide the guidance and direction necessary to generate consistent applications of procedures across the state.

Further, more than half of the states with statewide rules⁴⁸ and five of the six states with criminal procedure codes⁴⁹ also allow counties, circuits, and/or district courts to implement local criminal procedure rules, so long as the rules do no conflict with the statewide procedures. Two of the seven states with by court statewide rules allow individual counties, circuits, and/or district courts to utilize local criminal procedure rules.⁵⁰ Lastly, all three states without any statewide rules or codes allow local counties, circuits, and/or district courts to establish criminal procedure rules.⁵¹ These local rules are usually very short, focus on day-to-day procedural details, and/or are only created by the state's largest counties, circuits, and/or district courts.

C. The Scope and Purpose of Statewide Criminal Procedure Rules

Most states include a scope, analogous to FRCP 1, which states, "these rules govern the procedure in all criminal proceedings" The scope provision, or applicability provision, informs practitioners what cases in which the rules apply.⁵² All states with criminal procedure codes and by court rules contain statements of scope. Of the states with statewide rules, only Indiana and Oregon⁵³ do not have statements of scope.

Usually, a purpose or construction rule appears alongside a scope or applicability statement. As demonstrated by the federal purpose rule, FRCP 2, "[t]hese [rules of criminal procedure] are to be interpreted to provide for the just determination of every criminal proceeding, to secure simplicity in procedure and fairness in administration, and to eliminate unjustifiable expense and delay."⁵⁴ This rule serves as a "polestar" for interpreting the purpose, construction, and effect of the criminal procedure rules.⁵⁵ As interpreted by the United States Supreme Court, the FRCP was never intended to be "a rigid code [with] inflexible meaning irrespective of the circumstances."⁵⁶

Generally, criminal procedure rules are intended to be interpreted according to their plain meaning, while remaining open to constructions that would avoid unjust outcomes. The clear majority of states have an analogous rule that is identical or nearly identical to the federal rule.⁵⁷ One reason most states model the federal rule may be that the federal rule comes with "a body of judicial precedent far more complete and rapidly developed than would be available for a standard unique to the state."⁵⁸

Some states include additional language to avoid unjust outcomes, such as including the protection of the rights of individuals while preserving the public welfare.⁵⁹ Minnesota's procedural rules are to be construed to ensure the rules are applied without discrimination to everyone, despite "race, color, creed, religion, national origin, sex, marital status, public-assistance status, disability, in-

⁵² For example, Alaska's criminal procedure rules "govern the practice and procedure in the superior court in all criminal proceedings..." ALASKA R. CRIM. P. 1.

⁵³ Oregon is slightly unusual in that it adopted a set of rules called the Uniform Trial Court Rules, containing chapter 4 devoted to criminal procedure rules. Chapter 4 itself does not have a scope or applicability provision, but the Uniform Trial Court Rules Chapter 1, General Provisions, does detail that the Uniform Trial Court Rules apply to all circuit court proceedings.

cluding disability in communication, sexual orientation, or age."⁶⁰ Tennessee's rules note that the rules should be interpreted in a manner to avoid the unnecessary claim on the time of jurors.⁶¹

Whereas the additions just mentioned may be interpreted as further protection for criminal defendants, Illinois' criminal procedure statutes has a prosecutorial focus stating that the rules should be construed to "ensure the effective apprehension and trial of persons accused of crime."⁶² Texas takes the prosecutorial focus even further by noting that their criminal procedure code should be interpreted to promote a just determination and little delay with the primary objective of "the prevention and prosecution of offenses."⁶³

D. The Scope and Purpose of Nevada's Criminal Procedure Local Rules and Statutes

Nevada's constitutional due process clause requires procedures in criminal proceedings to be fair.⁶⁴ Without statewide rules governing all criminal proceedings, some of Nevada's districts have developed local rules to supplement the state's criminal procedure statutes. Nevada's criminal procedure statutes "govern[] the procedure in the courts of the State of Nevada and before magistrates in all criminal proceedings."⁶⁵ Although Nevada has no statewide rules, district court rules often apply to criminal proceedings. The Second District Court's criminal procedure rules were created to "provide uniformity" while allowing "each individual judge [to] retain discretion over how cases ultimately proceed in their courtroom."⁶⁶ Additionally, Part III of the Eighth Judicial District's rules govern criminal proceedings within the district except in juvenile cases, expressly provided for in Title 5 of NRS.⁶⁷ In the absence of specific rules on point, the district court has wide discretion "in many facets of" criminal trial procedures and case law has helped to develop procedural rules.⁶⁸

I. BAIL AND PRE-TRIAL RELEASE

Bail and pre-trial release rules focus on what offenses are bailable, if and how assessments are utilized, what conditions of release may be employed, and the amount for bail. Of the thirty-four states with statewide rules, all but two address bail: Colorado and South Carolina.⁶⁹ Most states, such as California, have ratified bail and pretrial rules both in statute and provide additional guidance in their statewide criminal procedure rules.⁷⁰

Statewide rules vary in their specificity of bail and pretrial release. Some state procedural rules simply note that a defendant has a right to bail and that the bail amount will be determined at the arraignment hearing when the defendant's plea is entered.⁷¹ Other states' statutes include more, such as a detailed outline of the process for securing cash bail,⁷² and directing the court to consider the defendant's financial condition when imposing bail amount.⁷³ Other common variations include using pretrial risk assessments to guide the judge in determining bail amounts, releasing the defendant on their own recognizance,⁷⁴ outlining crimes where a defendant is ineligible for bail,⁷⁵ and providing other non-monetary pretrial release options in lieu of bail such as house arrest.⁷⁶

A. Bail and Pre-Trial Release in Nevada

Nevada's constitution affords a defendant the right to bail, except for capital cases or murders punishable by life imprisonment.⁷⁷ Nevada's statutes supplement the constitution's language, providing that bail is not afforded to a person arrested for first-degree murder,⁷⁸ and adds that a person arrested for a felony whose sentence has been statutorily suspended or subject to residential confinement may not be granted bail unless certain statutory conditions are met.⁷⁹ Additionally, Nevada's statutes dictate that a defendant may not have a right to bail for a period of time, usually twelve hours, for certain domestic violence and driving under the influence offenses.⁸⁰

Further, Nevada's constitution forbids excessive bail.⁸¹ When a defendant appears before a judge, "bail must be set at an amount which . . . will reasonably ensure the appearance of the defendant" and the safety of the community.⁸² Statutory factors a judge can use in setting a bail amount include the nature of the offense, the financial ability of the defendant, the character of the defendant, length of residence, employment status, relationships between friends and family, and members of the community who would vouch for the defendant.⁸³

Although Nevada's statutes provide factors for a judge to consider when setting a bail amount, some local jurisdictions have chosen to implement bail schedules, creating wildly different bail regimes throughout the state. For example, the Las Vegas Justice Court bail schedule specifies that: Category A felonies must be set in court;⁸⁴ Category B felonies range from $5,000 to $10,000 or to $20,000 depending on the prison term;⁸⁵ Category C felonies are set at $5,000⁸⁶ and Category D and E felonies are set at $3,000.⁸⁷ The bail schedule in Churchill County is set up significantly differently. It details a bail amount for each different crime. For instance, voluntary manslaughter has a set bail of $25,000, false imprisonment is set at $5,000, and burglary is $10,000.88 Most other districts in Nevada do not have bail schedules, or provide any guidance beyond the statutory factors for setting bail. The Second District previously had a uniform bail schedule for anyone arrested within Washoe County, but the schedule has been suspended during a Pretrial Risk Assessment Tool pilot program.⁸⁹ A lack of uniform bail rules have resulted in significantly different bail amounts depending on where the defendant's case is located, and if no bail schedule is set, then which judge the defendant is before may alter the bail amount significantly under the more discretionary statutory considerations.

In addition to bail amount determinations, judges in Nevada have the statutory authority to impose reasonable conditions of release on the defendant as necessary to "protect the health, safety and welfare of the community."⁹⁰ However there is no comprehensive list for what conditions a judge may consider when determining a defendant's release conditions. Statutes provide a short list of possible conditions, including requiring the defendant to stay in the state or a certain county, stopping the defendant from contacting someone, precluding the defendant from going to a certain geographic area, and preventing the defendant from hurting himself or another person.⁹¹ But the Second District's rules supplement the statutory list of conditions by providing fourteen possible conditions a judge may impose, with the last condition acting as a catch-all.⁹² The Eighth District is silent on providing guidance on possible conditions.

Except for supplementing the state's constitution regarding what offenses may limit a defendant's right to bail, Nevada's statutes provide little guidance on determining whether to release defendants who have not been charged with crimes described in the statute. The Second District's rules have attempted to supplement this statutory deficiency by stating that a judge shall release a defendant on his personal recognizance, with the implementation of conditions, unless the court is concerned that the defendant will not appear or endanger the safety of the community.⁹³ The Eighth District's rules allow a judge to take unilateral action and release a defendant accused of a misdemeanor, gross misdemeanor, non-violent felony, or some combination thereof on his own recognizance or reduce the standard bail amount.⁹⁴ However, in violent felony offenses or an arrest on a bench warrant for a violent felony offense, the judge must allow the district attorney the opportunity to assert the state's position prior to release or a bail reduction.⁹⁵ Without a single list of possible conditions for release, while all not mandatory, may still result in a defendant receiving wildly different release conditions. Similarly, the lack of a standard procedure for a judge to follow in determining release may cause significant differences in case outcomes.

B. Bailable and Non-Bailable Offenses

Forty-one state constitutions afford defendants the right to bail.⁹⁶ Most states typically have additional statutes and/or procedural rules affording a defendant bail as a matter of right with exceptions for capital offenses and instances where the defendant would pose a danger to themselves or others.⁹⁷ It is common for states to discuss bail in sections devoted to warrants⁹⁸ or arraignment hearings,⁹⁹ while other states provide independent rules or statutes on both bail and pretrial release.

Some state statutes discuss at length instances when a defendant is ineligible to be released on bail. For example, Colorado's statutes detail that bail is denied to: (1) defendants accused of committing a crime of violence while on parole or bail, (2) defendants with a history of two felony convictions or one felony conviction for a violent crime, (3) defendants with prior felony convictions that are now charged with possession of weapon, and (4) defendants with sexual assault charges.¹⁰⁰ Arizona's statewide rules categorizes offenses as bailable or non-bailable offenses.¹⁰¹ Arizona judges must release a person charged with a bailable offense on their own recognizance during the defendant's initial appearance.¹⁰² In its criminal procedure code, Texas also classifies which violent offenses¹⁰³ are ineligible for bail, and imposes additional criteria for defendants with mental illness,¹⁰⁴ cases of domestic violence,¹⁰⁵ cases involving a child victim,¹⁰⁶ and provides additional instructions for defendants with an AIDS or HIV diagnosis.¹⁰⁷ Similarly, some statewide rules direct law enforcement to "release [defendants] on citation"—a practice reserved for misdemeanor cases and offenses not punishable by incarceration.¹⁰⁸

In this regard, states generally provide the right to bail while either assigning a court broad discretion to determine whether to release a defendant on bail or their own recognizance, or providing strict guidelines for the court to utilize to determine which crimes automatically disqualify a defendant from bail. States also employ statutes to establish guidelines and then use the procedural rules to provide further direction and process to the courts.

C. Bail Amounts

State procedural rules vary on how courts determine bail amounts. Some states establish a bail amount floor and begin by presuming that the defendant is eligible for release on bail with the least restrictive conditions and "lowest amount necessary to ensure the defendant will reappear."¹⁰⁹ Alternatively, other states set a bail amount ceiling. For example, the Texas procedural code section for fixing bail amount states, "[t]he bail [amount] shall be sufficiently high" with the caveat that bail is "not to be so used as to make it an instrument of oppression."¹¹⁰ Some states, like Alabama, provide a detailed bail schedule in their statewide procedural rules.¹¹¹ Despite differences amongst the states, and given the national discourse on a defendant's right to counsel at bail hearings, it is important for states to set reasonable guidelines for determining bail amounts consistent with Eighth Amendment due process protections.¹¹²

D. Pre-trial Risk Assessments

Most statewide rules require a judge to rely on "clear and convincing evidence" when deciding to deny bail or release a defendant as directed by the procedural rules.¹¹³ Across all states, courts consider at least whether a defendant is a flight risk, likely to reappear for trial, and poses a threat of harm to the community or themselves.¹¹⁴ In California, and most states, the prosecutor presents this evidence, not subject to the rules of evidence,¹¹⁵ regarding these considerations based on the defendant's previous criminal history.¹¹⁶ Some states allow the defendant to provide a statement on his or her behalf during a bail determination hearing, while others allow the defense attorney (assuming the defendant has counsel) to inform the court of the defendant's desire to be released.¹¹⁷

While some states establish pre-trial risk assessments in their procedural rules, others, like Colorado, have pre-trial risk assessment procedures in statute.¹¹⁸ To better assist the judge in making pre-trial release determinations, many states have created pretrial release services or agencies who present their findings after a risk assessment of the defendant.¹¹⁹ "[P]retrial services programs [support] the work of the court and evidence-based decision-making in determining the type of bond and conditions of release."¹²⁰ The assessments assign the defendant a "risk score" based on certain considerations to assist the judge in assessing the defendant's flight risk and potential danger to the community, and whether to impose additional release conditions to ensure the defendant returns to court.¹²¹ Colorado's statutes encourage individual counties and cities to develop their own evidence-based pretrial risk assessment tools by working with a community advisory board, members of the judiciary, and rep-

An emerging area of pretrial policy involves use of risk assessment to evaluate the risk posed by an individual defendant and the likelihood that he or she will commit a new offense or fail to appear. While empirical risk assessment tools are used around the country by local jurisdictions, it is only recently that lawmakers have provided statewide, statutory guidance on their use. Fifteen states—Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, Illinois, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, New Jersey, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Vermont, Virginia and West Virginia—authorize courts to consider the results of a risk assessment when making the pretrial release decision. Six States—Delaware, Colorado, Kentucky, New Jersey, South Carolina and West Virginia require risk assessments for all defendants. Kansas and Oklahoma assessments apply to defendants who will potentially be supervised by pretrial services program. Maine and Louisiana require assessments for domestic violence offenses. In Hawaii and Virginia, assessments are utilized at the court's discretion.

resentatives from the bond industry.¹²² Pretrial risk assessments have been successful in reducing the pretrial detention population, minimizing the negative psychological, social, and financial consequences a defendant faces because of pretrial detention, and assisting courts to correctly deny bail to violent offenders.¹²³

E. Conditions of Release

Judges often rely on statutory guidance, the procedural rules, and pre-trial risk assessments to impose conditions on a defendant's release. Conditions of release ensure that the defendant will reappear for trial, protect the community and defendant, and "avoid unnecessary pretrial incarceration."¹²⁴ Some statewide rules consider the "individual characteristics of each person in custody, including the person's financial condition," employment status, social support systems, housing arrangements, character and reputation, the sentence the defendant is likely to receive, criminal record, and the defendant's likelihood to flee when determining whether a defendant should be released, with or without conditions.¹²⁵ Common conditions for release include supervised release, temporary restraining orders, if the defendant is charged with drinking under the influence of alcohol, to abstain from drinking alcohol, supervision under a pretrial services organization, drug and alcohol testing, mental health and substance abuse counseling, electronic-monitored house arrest, bail, or pretrial work release.¹²⁶ Texas' procedural code lists different conditions a judge can order based on the specific crime. For example, a judge can order a defendant in a family violence case to wear a global-positioning-device and stay away from the child's school.¹²⁷

F. Conclusion on Bail and Pre-Trial Release

Uniformity in bail and pre-trial release procedures is necessary to ensure fairness across the state. Simply providing a court with a non-exhaustive list of considerations in determining the bail amount can result in inconsistent determinations if there is no standard, presumption, or process for direction. While procedural uniformity with bail and pre-trail release determinations is difficult, providing courts with standard considerations, risk assessments, or bail schedules may result in more uniform determinations. Additionally, having a uniform bail schedule will likely make courts more efficient by eliminating the time required to determine the bail amount.

Pre-trial risk assessments provide valuable information to help guide the court to more consistent decisions by utilizing data to distinguish between highrisk and low-level offenders. This likely results in more fair proceedings across the state, and may reduce overcrowded jails and maximize limited criminal justice resources. Pre-trial risk assessments also have the added value of insulating low-level offenders from additional negative consequence of pretrial detention by allowing the defendant to maintain his or her job, custody of children, home, and medical care and commitment to the court while waiting for their case to proceed.

II. PRE-TRIAL MOTIONS

Procedural rules for pre-trial motions primarily address what types of motions can and must be filed prior to trial, the time for filing these motions, which party can file certain motions, and the process for handling these motions. States with more developed pre-trial motion rules detail the possible pleas a defendant can make and explain that failure to raise any issues pre-trial constitutes a waiver of those issues. Defined pre-trial motion rules are important because the parties are moving the court for significant, case-altering requests, such as whether evidence may be suppressed, defenses are properly raised to be preserved for appeal, and defendants' cases are joined or severed.

Thirty-two of the thirty-four states with statewide rules have a defined section for pre-trial motions.¹²⁸ Neither Michigan and New York have specific motion rules in their statewide rules. Notably, Arkansas and Oregon have very limited motion practice rules, focusing almost solely on motions to suppress evidence.¹²⁹ All six states with criminal procedure codes have pretrial motion rules.¹³⁰ Of those thirty-eight states with pre-trial motion rules, twenty-three¹³¹ states' rules effectively mirror FRCP 12.¹³² The remaining states either provide very detailed rules,¹³³ or only have a general statement and list different motions that may be brought in various sections.¹³⁴ California's rules are an outlier because its pre-trial motion practice includes only two brief sections regarding filing and service.¹³⁵

Generally, states mirror the FRCP and then add additional state specific distinctions or preferences. Most of the pre-trial motion procedural rules commonly focus on the defense's filings, rather than prosecution's filings. This can likely be explained by considering that in a criminal case, the defendant is most often the movant, filing for any possible relief with the court prior to trial.

Like the FRCP, Alabama and Colorado's pre-trial motion rules define criminal pleadings and motions, as well as defenses and objections, which can or must be raised by motion. Any defense or objection capable of determination without the trial of general issue may be raised by motion.¹³⁶ The rules list defenses and objections that must be raised prior to trial. This includes defenses and objections based on defects in the institution of the prosecution or the indictment or information or complaint, or summons and complaint.¹³⁷ Alabama's pre-trial motions rule includes a comment from the committee stating that "[t]his rule is designed to simplify the procedure and avoid the technical distinctions that serve as traps for the unwary... the form or styling of the motion is not important, and substance shall govern over form."¹³⁸

A. Nevada's Pre-Trial Motion Practice

In the absence of statewide criminal procedure rules, Nevada courts and practitioners rely on the minimal applicable statutes, districts' local rules, case law, and the statewide district court rules, which provide little to no guidance on criminal pre-trial motions. Nevada's criminal procedure statutes have substantive pre-trial motion procedures similar to FRCP 12,¹³⁹ and are more specific than any local applicable rule. Specifically, the statutes detail which motions must be made before trial,¹⁴⁰ including motions to suppress evidence, requests for transcripts of previous proceedings, for a preliminary hearing, for severance of joint defendants, for withdrawal of counsel, or any motion, if granted, that would delay the start of trial.¹⁴¹ The deadlines for filing motions are also detailed in statute, which is determinative of the number of judges in the judicial district.¹⁴²

Without clear statutory guidance on criminal pre-trial motions, local districts have developed rules to help guide judges and practitioners.¹⁴³ Only the Second District's criminal procedure rules has distinct rules for pre-trial motions.¹⁴⁴ The Eighth District also has criminal motion rules, including a separate discovery rule and motion in limine rule.¹⁴⁵ The general motion rule provides for the timing of motions,¹⁴⁶ including that motions must be served and filed not less than fifteen days before the start of trial unless the movant can demonstrate good cause.¹⁴⁷ Oppositions are due seven days after service of the motion.¹⁴⁸

In contrast of FRCP 12, Nevada's districts' rules on motion practices that may apply to criminal proceedings, if applicable,¹⁴⁹ do not list the defenses, objections, and/or requests that must be raised before trial. Instead, the rules focus on deadlines to file the motion, opposition, and reply,¹⁵⁰ list that a memorandum with the motion setting forth the points and authorities relied on to support

The First and Third judicial districts, both have motion rules for civil cases only; there are no criminal motion rules. the motion is required,¹⁵¹ procedures on how to request a hearing on the motion,¹⁵² and in certain cases, procedures on how to request that the court review the motion.¹⁵³ Specifically, pre-trial motions must be served and filed no later than twenty days before trial. The opposition is due ten days later (and no later than ten days before trial), and the reply is due three days later (and no later than seven days before trial.)¹⁵⁴ The movant then notifies the court it is time to rule on the motion.¹⁵⁵

Practitioners are left uncertain as to what rules apply to criminal cases, especially in terms of filing deadlines. As an example of inconsistent rules, compare Nevada's statutes on motions in limine with Nevada's Eighth and Second Judicial Districts' local rules.

NRS 174.125 states in pertinent part:

1. All motions in a criminal prosecution to suppress evidence, ... and all other motions which by their nature, if granted, delay or postpone the time of trial must be made before trial,

3. In any judicial district in which two or more judges are provided:

(a) All motions subject to the provisions of subsection 1 must be made in writing not less than 15 days before the date set for trial, except that if less than 15 days intervene between entry of a plea and the date set for trial, such a motion may be made within 5 days after entry of the plea.

EDCR 3.28, entitled Motions in Limine states:

All motions in limine to exclude or admit evidence must be in writing and noticed for hearing not later than calendar call, or if no calendar call was set by the court, no later than 7 days before trial. The court may refuse to consider any oral motion in limine and any motion in limine which was not timely filed.

LCR 7, titled pretrial motions states, in part:

(a) Except as otherwise ordered by the court, all pretrial motions, including motions in limine, shall be served and filed no later than 20 days prior to trial. Computation of time as set forth in this rule shall be in calendar days. If a pretrial motion is filed within 30 days prior to trial, it shall either be personally served upon the opposition on the date of filing or be e-filed.

(c) All motions shall be decided without oral argument unless requested by the court or party.

As demonstrated by the above excerpts, there is no clear rule as to when a motion to suppress, which is comparable to a motion in limine, is to be filed. By statute such motion must be made fifteen days prior to trial, in the Eighth Judicial District it must be made before calendar call, or seven days, and in the Second Judicial District it must be made at least twenty days prior to trial.

There does not appear to be a specific reason why each rule requires a different deadline, but a practitioner is left with little direction on when to file a motion in limine.

III. DISCOVERY

Detailed and defined discovery procedures are vital for efficient proceedings and to protect a defendant's due process rights. Ambiguity or inconsistency in governing discovery rules may result in non-disclosure of critical mitigating and/or aggravating evidence. Currently, there is no consistent approach across the states for discovery rules, as "[d]iscovery systems range from mandatory to discretionary and from mutual to reciprocal."¹⁵⁶

Almost every state has a section of their criminal procedure rules, codes, or statutes dedicated to discovery.¹⁵⁷ Generally, states' discovery rules follow the FRCP format,¹⁵⁸ but some states chose to expand the scope of the FRCP by including more detailed rules¹⁵⁹ and specify remedies for a party's failure to follow the discovery requirements. Most states separate their discovery rules by the defense's obligations and the prosecution's obligations.¹⁶⁰ A few states expand beyond these obligations, implementing offense specific discovery procedural rules. For instance, implementing special discovery rules for crimes against children.¹⁶¹ Overall, most states' rules tend to be more thorough than the FRCP.¹⁶²

¹⁵⁷ Delaware, Indiana, and Nevada do not have statewide procedural discovery rules. Some states use the term "disclosure" in place of, or in addition to the term "discovery." For example, Arizona exclusively uses "disclosure," Mississippi uses "disclosure and discovery," and Montana uses "production of evidence."

¹⁵⁸ Several of those states model their discovery rules after FRCP 16 in both structure and substance. These states include Alaska, Arizona, Hawaii, Iowa, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Utah, West Virginia, and Wyoming.

¹⁵⁹ See, e.g., ARIZ. R. CRIM. P. 15.1–15.9. Arizona's criminal procedure rules are more detailed than the FRCP, discussing the prosecutor's obligations, then the defendant's, and then includes several rules on procedural specifics. The rules also specify sanctions that can be brought against a party who fails to disclose as well as procedures for appointment of investigators and expert witnesses for indigent defendants. Id. 15.7, 15.9. The procedural rule for the appointment of experts and investigators includes (1) the application for appointment; (2) ex parte proceeding restrictions; (3) mitigation specialists; and (4) deadlines for capital cases. Id.

¹⁶⁰ Although, a few states, including Maine and Texas do not distinguish the states' and the defense's obligations.

¹⁶¹ For example, Texas includes specific discovery rules on evidence in child abuse and child sexual exploitation cases. California, too, has a specific rule on disclosure in child pornography cases. Texas does not allow the defense to copy or duplicate images of child pornography. TEX. CODE CRIM. PROC. §§ 39.15, 39.151. The state is only required to make the evidence "reasonably available" to the defense. The evidence is considered reasonably available if the state allows "ample opportunity for the inspection...and examination of the property" by the defense or any expert qualified for trial. Id. § 39.15(c)–(d). California prohibits any attorney from releasing copies of child pornography evidence to the defendant or the

There are three uniform disclosures required in every state: (1) the defendant's prior written statements, (2) the defendant's prior recorded statements, and (3) physical evidence to be used at trial.¹⁶³ Common additional disclosures include the defendant's oral statements, co-defendant statements, defendant's criminal record, witness statements, expert witness information, and grand jury testimony.¹⁶⁴ Another commonality in states' discovery rules is procedures to protect privacy of those involved in discovery.¹⁶⁵

Further, the states generally fall into two broad categories depending on whether the parties must request discovery¹⁶⁶ or whether discovery, at least some disclosures, are automatic.¹⁶⁷ Depending on how rigid the rules requiring request or automatic disclosures are, there appears to be a difference in philosophy of discovery. One end promotes cooperation¹⁶⁸ and the other end utilizes detailed schemes and specifies the process for court intervention.

Unique among the states, California's criminal discovery procedures are governed by its Constitution. In 1990, California voters passed Proposition 115 to establish constitutional discovery.¹⁶⁹ The California Constitution states: "[i]n

A. Nevada's Discovery Rules

A defendant's right to discovery is generally linked to the protection of a defendant's constitutional right, like the right to confrontation.¹⁷² With no statewide criminal discovery rules, practitioners must look to the discovery statutes and determine whether a local districts' rules are applicable.¹⁷³ While the prosecutor is still bound by their disclosure requirements mandated by Nevada's Constitution and the United States Constitution, Nevada's statutes require both the state and defendant to request discovery; there is no requirement for automatic discovery.¹⁷⁴ The statutes, much like FRCP 16, provide specific rules for disclosures by the prosecuting attorney¹⁷⁵ and defendant.¹⁷⁶ All parties have a continuing duty to disclose previously requested material that is subject to discovery.¹⁷⁷ Nevada's discovery statutes also establish various rules for discovery matters, such as when a defendant intends to establish an alibi,¹⁷⁸ or if a party intends to use an expert witness.¹⁷⁹ Additionally, both the prosecutor and defendant must disclose all witnesses each side plans to call during the case-in-chief.¹⁸⁰

¹⁷¹ CAL. PENAL CODE, tit. 6, ch. 2. California has criminal procedural rules in both court rule and codified in the penal code. See 50 State Rule Chart, Appendix. California's detailed discovery statute lays out not only the prosecution's and defense's obligations, but also procedures from everything to time for disclosure to disclosure of special categories, such as privileged information, work product, and post-conviction writ of habeas proceedings. CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 1054.8–9. California's criminal procedural rules by court rule do not address procedure for discovery, that procedure appears to be entirely left to the California Constitution and the California Penal Code.

¹⁷² See, e.g., Higgs v. State, 222 P.3d 648, 664 (Nev. 2010) ("This court has observed that a defendant's right to discovery is tangentially related to the right of confrontation.").

The Second and Eighth criminal discovery rules' process and philosophy differ significantly. The Second District's discovery rule does not address the requirement that the parties must request discovery, and the rule appears to promote some form of automatic discovery in stating, "The parties, through their counsel, without order of the court, shall timely provide discovery of all information and materials permitted by any applicable provision of the Nevada Revised Statutes."181 This rule is intended to promote timely disclosure and "eliminates the need for a discovery order unless the court orders discovery beyond that required by the statutes of Nevada."¹⁸² Alternatively, the Eighth District's rules only discusses discovery on how a defendant may make an oral motion for a court order requiring the state to produce their statutory required disclosures.¹⁸³ These two districts' rules impose different duties upon both the state and defendant. The Second District appears to promote cooperation and discourages the need for a court order requesting statutorily required discovery, while the Eighth District appears to promote the use of court orders to make the state disclose the requirements listed in statute.

IV. COMPETENCE OF A DEFENDANT TO STAND TRIAL

The United States Supreme Court has established that trying an incompetent criminal defendant violates his or her fundamental right to due process.¹⁸⁴ A defendant is incompetent when he is "unable to understand the proceedings against him or properly to assist in his own defense."¹⁸⁵ Issues regarding whether a defendant is competent to stand trial may be raised at any time.¹⁸⁶ While every state has a statute, code provision, or rule regarding this right, not all states have codified procedures in their statewide rules of criminal procedure. Thirty-two states have some procedural rules addressing competency.¹⁸⁷

In general, most states' statutes detail the procedures for determining competency.¹⁸⁸ While most states' statutes control competency procedures,¹⁸⁹ it is common for procedural rules to dictate how to compute time to protect a defendant's speedy trial rights if competency is at issue¹⁹⁰ and raising the insanity defense.¹⁹¹ Although, several states employ their statewide criminal procedure rules to detail competency determinations. For example, California has thorough competency procedures in its criminal procedure rules.¹⁹² Even more detailed is Arizona's statewide rules on competency, which has specific rules discussing experts, hearing procedures, records, and disclosure of mental health evidence.¹⁹³

A. Competency Determinations in Nevada

In Nevada, a defendant is deemed competent to stand trial if he has a "sufficient present ability to consult with his lawyer with a reasonable degree of rational understanding" and "a rational as well as factual understanding of the proceedings against him."¹⁹⁴ Consistent statewide determination procedures are essential due to the risk that a defendant's fundamental due process right may be violated if a competency determination is not accurate or appropriate.

¹⁸⁷ The states that have procedure rules addressing a defendant's competency to stand trial include: Alabama, Arizona, California, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin, and Wyoming. While the preceding states have rules of criminal procedure that specifically address competency, the remaining states may have codified competency issues in their state statutes. For this paper, only the Rules of Criminal Procedure for each state were evaluated.

¹⁸⁸ For instance, New Mexico's criminal procedure competency statutes are broken down into the following subsections: raising the issue, evaluation and determination, commitment, reports, ninety-day review, continuing treatment, evidentiary hearing, hearing to determine mental retardation, mental examination, criminal trials, plea and verdict of guilty but mentally ill, and sentence upon plea or verdict of guilty but mentally ill. The Texas Code of Criminal Procedure have broken competency down into the following subsections: General Provisions, Examination, Incompetency Trial, Procedures After Determination of Incompetency, Civil Commitment: Charges Pending, Civil Commitment: Charges Dismissed. The Arizona Rule of Criminal Procedure Rule 11 has broken competency down into the following subsections: definition and effect of incompetency, motion to have Defendant's mental condition examines, appointment of experts, disclosure of mental health evidence, hearing and orders, subsequent hearings, privilege, records. N.M. STAT. 31 § 9.

This issue is completely governed by statute and none of Nevada's local districts' rules discuss competency proceedings.¹⁹⁵ A judge can suspend proceedings at any time after a defendant is arrested if there is doubt about the defendant's competence¹⁹⁶ and the court must appoint a certified mental health professional to help determine whether a defendant is competent to stand trial.¹⁹⁷ If the defendant is found competent, the trial or judgment proceeds.¹⁹⁸ Otherwise, the defendant receives treatment to become competent.¹⁹⁹ If there is a substantial probability that the defendant will not attain competence in the foreseeable future, the proceedings must be dismissed.²⁰⁰

B. Raising the Issue of Competency

At common law, the issue of competency may be raised at any time during a criminal proceeding, either by observation of the court or by suggestion from a party.²⁰¹ Most procedural rules reiterate this right and detail the procedures to be followed once an issue of competency has been raised. Generally, either a party or judge may raise the issue of competency,²⁰² usually by way of a motion in which "the facts upon which the mental examination is sought."²⁰³ For example, in Arizona, once a motion is filed, the court must be provided with all of the defendant's medical and criminal history within three days.²⁰⁴ A preliminary hearing is then scheduled to help the judge decide whether reasonable grounds exist to evaluate the defendant's competency.²⁰⁵ Similarly under Texas's criminal procedure code, a judge may hold an informal inquiry to decide if the defendant's competence is at issue.²⁰⁶ If issues regarding a defendant's competence decision is made.²⁰⁷ Though either the judge or the parties may raise the issue, the ultimate determination is left to the judge.²⁰⁸

Generally, all states' rules on continuances allow for a delay in proceedings for competency determination proceedings. Once the court decides that a defendant's competence is at issue, proceedings are suspended until competence is determined.²⁰⁹ In some states, such as California, this may impact speedy trial requirements. To preemptively combat issues with a defendant's speedy trial rights, the state's rules set forth guidelines and timelines for how to deal with this issue.²¹⁰

C. Determining Competence

Once the issue of competency is raised, the court must determine whether the defendant is or is not competent to stand trial. States' procedural rules often require the appointment of at least one expert to compile a report and make a recommendation.²¹¹ Arizona, has even set a ten-day deadline from the time the expert's exam of the defendant to the time when the completed report must be available to the court and the parties.²¹²

Rules appear to vary on how many experts a court may appoint, and whether the parties may recommend or appoint their own experts. For example, in California, once competency proceedings have begun, the judge must ask the defendant whether he is seeking a finding of mental incompetence.²¹³ If the defendant is seeking a determination then the court must appoint at least one expert;²¹⁴ but the court must appoint at least two experts if defense counsel does not seek a determination of competence.²¹⁵ Regardless of the number of experts

⁽²⁾ In misdemeanor cases, speedy trial requirements are tolled during the suspension of criminal proceedings for mental competency evaluation and trial. ⁽³⁾In felony cases, speedy trial requirements are tolled during the suspension of criminal proceedings for mental competency evaluation and trial. If criminal proceedings are reinstated, unless time is waived, time periods to commence the preliminary examination or trial are as follows:

the court ultimately appoints, the experts must come from a court approved list.²¹⁶ In contrast, in Arizona, the defense and the prosecution may provide a list of three experts to the court, which the court may then choose from.²¹⁷ Texas' competency statute states that the court must appoint "disinterested" experts.²¹⁸ This language does not specify whether the parties may suggest experts. Some states' procedural rules also include details on what qualifications are required of the experts.²¹⁹ Ultimately, the court has the discretion as to choose the appointed expert(s). Additionally, some states' rules, like Texas', provide factors that experts should consider when examining the defendants.²²⁰

D. Holding a Competence Proceeding

Once an expert completes and provides the report of the defendant's exam to the judge and the parties, generally, states then hold either a competency hearing or trial. Some states, like Arizona and Texas, require a hearing within thirty days of the expert's submission of the report.²²¹ At the hearing, parties may introduce additional evidence regarding the defendant's mental condition. California's procedural rules state that the defendant is presumed competent at the time of the trial, placing the burden on the moving party to prove that the defendant is not competent by a preponderance of the evidence.²²² At the trial or hearing, the experts may be called to testify and examined by both the defense and prosecution.²²³ New Mexico is unlike its surrounding states in this issue because its statutory procedural rules only require a hearing when the case has not been dismissed and when the defendant is charged with certain specified felonies.²²⁴ If these factors²²⁵ are not present then the case shall be dis-

Instead of a hearing, both California and Texas also allow a jury to determine whether the defendant is competent to stand trial, though neither state requires a jury to make the determination.²²⁷ However, if a jury is used, the jury verdict relating to the defendant's competence must be unanimous.²²⁸

V. JURY INSTRUCTIONS

Nevada is one of only three states that do not have pattern criminal jury instructions.²²⁹ Jury instructions are often referred to as pattern, standard, or model instructions²³⁰ and are designed to provide attorneys with a comprehensive list of criminal law and procedure jury instructions. Most states encourage, but do not require parties to utilize these jury instructions.²³¹ States differ in how pattern jury instructions are created, who creates them, where and how the instructions are located, and whether the highest court in the state adopts them. Of the remaining forty-seven states, the authors of the state's jury instructions are divided into three categories. First, twenty-eight states have jury instructions drafted by a court created committee.²³² Though a large majority of state jury instructions are drafted by court-made committees, very few state courts have "approved" or directly supported the pattern instructions. Second, fifteen states' jury instructions were drafted by the state bar.²³³ Third, four states' jury instructions were drafted by miscellaneous organizations.²³⁴

²³⁰ For continuity, the term "pattern" will be used throughout. See Chart 50 State Rule Chart, Appendix, for details.

²³² The twenty-eight states include: Alaska, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Utah, Virginia, and Washington.

Most states offer these pattern instructions on the court's website or through LexisNexis or Westlaw. Some states even offer PDF and word-fillable versions.²³⁵ Other states' pattern instructions are published in a book, requiring attorneys to regularly purchase the latest edition. Further, the drafter or drafting organization of state pattern instructions differ from state to state. There are essentially three categories of authors: state bars, supreme court committees, and miscellaneous drafters, which includes individual authors, non-descriptive "state court" authors, and even law schools.²³⁶

The forty-seven states with criminal jury instructions also differ in how accessible the instructions are to both attorneys and the public. Twenty states do not offer free public access to the pattern jury instructions,²³⁷ requiring users to either purchase a physical book, purchase Westlaw or LexisNexis, or be a member of state bar associations to obtain access to the information. Ten of the fifteen state bar drafted pattern criminal jury instructions,²³⁸ nine court committee drafted instructions,²³⁹ and one miscellaneous drafter's instructions require payment.²⁴⁰

Jury instructions should be clear and unambiguous.²⁴⁴ Nevada's district courts have broad discretion to settle jury instructions, and the Nevada Supreme Court reviews a district court's decision regarding a jury instruction for an abuse of that discretion or judicial error.²⁴⁵ Instructions that correctly state the law and summarize the statutory definition of the specific crime will most likely be a sufficient instruction.²⁴⁶ Additionally, the district court must not instruct a jury on theories that misstate the applicable law, and may refuse an instruction of the defendant's trial theory if it is substantially covered in other instructions.²⁴⁷ When reviewing criminal jury instructions, the Nevada Supreme Court often turns to other states' instructions for guidance.²⁴⁸ Because of the common use of inconsistent or misstated instructions, entities have previously petitioned the Nevada Supreme Court for "an order [] prohibiting the respondent district judge from giving certain jury instructions in future criminal trials."249 However, the Nevada Supreme Court has determined that a petition is not the appropriate avenue for such a request and directed that the Nevada Rules on the Administrative Docket provided appropriate procedures.²⁵⁰ Pattern jury instructions, compiled by and with input from the community, would likely solve the problems of inconsistent and inaccurate instructions because every judge would have a single location of accurate and appropriate instructions, that can then be modified if necessary.

VI. CRIMINAL APPEALS

Though the United States Supreme Court has long held that the Constitution does not guarantee a right to an appeal in criminal cases,²⁵¹ once a state decides to allow criminal appeals, this right must be made available to all con-

However, the United States Supreme Court, through common law, has established some procedural rights for defendants appealing criminal convictions that apply to all states. For example, an indigent appellant has the right to a transcript—furnished by the state—at no cost.²⁵⁶ A criminal appellant also has the right to legal representation for their first appeal,²⁵⁷ but there is no right to legal representation for supplementary appeals²⁵⁸ or collateral attacks.²⁵⁹ Additionally, a criminal appellant does not have the right to represent himself on appeal from conviction.²⁶⁰ While the United States Supreme Court has not ruled on appellate rights waivers, every Circuit Court recognizes and enforces valid appellate rights waivers.²⁶¹

Every state has granted the right to appeal criminal convictions by statute, court rule, or state constitution.²⁶² Arkansas, Virginia, and West Virginia are the only states without a specific constitutional or statutory right to a criminal appeal, but their court rules allow a process to appeal.²⁶³ Arkansas' appellate court criminal rules give defendants the right to appeal.²⁶⁴ In Virginia, non-felony offenders in district court have a right to appeal their criminal conviction.²⁶⁵ While there is no automatic right to appeal felonies in Virginia, every defendant has the right to file a petition for appeal.²⁶⁶ The procedure to determine whether the court will hear an appeal in Virginia is essentially equivalent to the full-scale review available in other states.²⁶⁷ The courts in West Virginia derive a right to appeal from its state constitution's due process clause.²⁶⁸ However, the due process provision has been interpreted to just provide defendant's ²⁶² See, e.g., Griffin v. Illinois, 351 U.S. 12, 18 (1956) ("All of the States now provide some method of appeal from criminal convictions, recognizing the importance of appellate review to a correct adjudication of guilt or innocence."). See generally 4 AM. JUR. 2D, Appellate Review § 222. State supreme courts have postulated several different theories to explain their appellate powers. Some courts concede that if the legislature does not authorize an appeal, it is powerless to create that rule on its own. See, e.g., State v. Arnold, 183 P.2d 845, 845 (N.M. 1947). State case law explains that appellate claims are constitutional in nature, but derived from a statutory right. See, e.g., Gaines v. Manson, 481 A.2d 1084, 1089 (Conn. 1984). While other courts find that the right to appeal is rooted in both statutory and constitutional law. See, e.g., Howell v. United States, 455 A.2d 1371, 1372 (D.C. 1983); Blackmon v. State, 450 N.E.2d 104, 107 (Ind. Ct. App. 1983) ("Any person convicted of a criminal offense in Indiana may, as a matter of statutory and constitutional right, appeal the judgment against him."). Other courts find that the right to appeal is authorized by statute and appellate court rules of procedure. See, e.g., State v. Wilson, 693 S.E.2d 923, 924 (S.C. 2010). In reviewing each state's criminal appellate proves, most state courts derive their appellate power from statute, but additional details, such as the deadline to submit a notice of appeal, are often promulgated by statute or court rules. See 50 State Rule Chart, Appendix.

with the right to apply for appeal.²⁶⁹ States also vary in how their rules or procedures for appeals are organized. Some states have entire separate websites dedicated to criminal appeals, while other states incorporate their appellate procedures in their designated criminal procedure rules or statutes.

A. Appellate Court Structures

Effective appellate courts detect errors and correct or uphold trial court decisions, while providing timely,²⁷⁰ consistent, and fair resolutions to criminal appeals.²⁷¹ "The ability to administer both quality and efficiency is affected by resources, rules, procedures, legal culture, and court structure."²⁷² States have created various appellate court structures to implement this state-given right to defendants.²⁷³ Appellate courts operate within either 1-tier or 2-tier structures and hear appeals either by right or by permission. States with one-tier systems have one appellate court—the court of last resort ("COLR")—whereas states with 2-tier systems have at least one intermediate appellate court ("IAC") and a COLR.²⁷⁴

²⁶⁹ State v. Legg, 151 S.E.2d 215, 218 (W. Va. 1967) ("One convicted of a criminal offense is not entitled to a writ of error as a matter of right. The Constitution and statutes create an absolute right merely to apply for a writ of error.").

²⁷⁰ Time standards for criminal appeals are "used as an administrative goal to assist in achieving case flow management that is efficient, productive, and produces quality results." NAT'L CTR. FOR STATE COURTS, MODEL TIME STANDARDS FOR STATE APPELLATE COURTS 3 (2014), http://cosca.ncsc.org/~/media/Microsites/Files/COSCA/Web%20documents/Model-Time-Standards-August-2014.ashx [https://perma.cc/C9PN-9XSM] (citation omitted). In 2010, 40 percent of the states had state-specific criminal appellate time standards in place. Nicole L. Waters & Kathryn Genthon, Achieving Timely Resolution for Criminal Appeals in State Courts, 21 NAT'L CTR. FOR ST. CTS., May 2016, at 2, http://cdm16501.contentdm.oc lc.org/cdm/ref/collection/criminal/id/275 [https://perma.cc/MYV4-FRPY]. "Time standards apply differentially depending on whether the COLR is part of a 1-tier or 2-tier review system and whether the court's review of a case is by permission (discretionary) or by right (mandatory)." Id. In appellate structures that rely on appeals by permission, COLRs rendered a decision to grant or deny further review within 98 days in 1-tier systems and 140 days in 2tier systems. Id. at 3. In appellate systems that rely on appeals by right, COLRs rendered a decision to grant or deny further review within 482 days in 1-tier systems and 558 days in 2tier systems. Id. Clearly, COLRs in discretionary systems grant or deny review much faster than COLRs in mandatory systems.

²⁷³ Ten states and the District of Columbia do not have intermediate appellate courts: Delaware, District of Columbia, Maine, Montana, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont, West Virginia, and Wyoming.

²⁷⁴ There are essentially seven different categories of appellate court structures utilized today. NICOLE L. WATERS ET AL., BUREAU OF JUSTICE STATISTICS, CRIMINAL APPEALS IN STATE COURTS, NCJ 248874, at 3 (2015), https://www.bjs.gov/content/pub/pdf/casc.pdf [https://per ma.cc/R4HB-TJ2L]. (1) The mandatory COLR structure consists of only one appellate court, a COLR, that hears appeals by right. Eight states have this mandatory COLR structure: Delaware, Montana, Wyoming, North Dakota, South Dakota, Rhode Island, Vermont, Maine. Id. Prior to the creation of Nevada's appellate court, Nevada had a mandatory COLR structure. (2) The discretionary COLR structure consists of only one appellate court, a COLR, that hears appeals by permission. Two states have this discretionary COLR structure: New Appellate courts are highly influenced by whether an appeal is one "as of right" or "by permission." An appeal "as of right" is guaranteed by statute or some underlying constitutional or legal principle. An appellate court cannot refuse to listen to this type of appeal. Whereas, an appeal "by permission" allows the appellate court to choose to grant or deny the appeal for further review. Depending on the type of appeals heard, states differ widely on other appellate court features, including: mandatory or discretionary jurisdiction, court size, panel usage, geographical divisions, and division between criminal and civil jurisdiction by court.

B. Notice Deadlines for Criminal Appeals

It behooves a defendant to be aware of the notice requirement, but varying rules prove determining them difficult.²⁷⁵ Some states have different notice requirements depending on where the appeal is to be heard and whether the conviction is a misdemeanor, felony, or capital. States permit defendants anywhere from five to ninety days to file their notice of appeal.²⁷⁶ More than half of the states have chosen to give appellants thirty days to appeal.²⁷⁷ Pennsylvania requires defendants to file a post-sentence motion within ten days, then allows thirty days for defendants to file their notice of appeal.²⁷⁸ Rhode Island only allows a defendant five days to file a notice of appeal.²⁷⁹ Missouri, Oklahoma,

²⁷⁸ PA. R. CRIM. P. 720.

Hampshire and West Virginia. (3) In the deflective structure, appeals are filed, usually fully briefed, and submitted with the COLR, which then decides whether to retain the appeal or transfer to an IAC. Four states have this deflective structure: Idaho, Iowa, Mississippi, and Nevada. (4) In the discretionary COLR and mandatory IAC, the COLR hears appeals mostly by permission, and the IAC hears appeals mostly by right. Twenty-seven states have this discretionary COLR and mandatory IAC structure: Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Illinois, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Jersey, New Mexico, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon, South Carolina, Utah, Washington, and Wisconsin. This is the most common appellate court structure. (5) In the COLR and discretionary IAC structure, both the COLR and IAC hear appeals mostly by permission. Two states have this COLR and discretionary IAC structure: Louisiana, Virginia. (6) The IAC by subject matter includes states with more than one IAC that is distinguished by subject matter. Five states have this IAC by subject matter structure: Alabama, Indiana, New York, Pennsylvania, and Tennessee. (7) The COLR by subject matter structure allows states to have more than one COLR that is distinguished by subject matter. Two states have this COLR by subject matter structure: Oklahoma and Texas.

²⁷⁵ With this wide range in deadlines, there could be more expansive discussion regarding what the permissible time frame says about a jurisdiction's attitudes towards meaningful appellate review, however, this will not be explored here. See 50 State Rule Chart, Appendix, for a detailed list of the deadlines by state.

²⁷⁶ See 50 State Rule Chart, Appendix.

²⁷⁷ Thirty states allow defendants thirty days to file a notice of appeal: Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, and Wyoming. Id.

and South Carolina only allow defendants ten days to file their notice of appeal²⁸⁰ and Kansas and North Carolina allow defendants fourteen days to file a notice of appeal.²⁸¹ Minnesota allows a defendant ninety days to file a notice of appeal.282

C. Criminal Appeals in Nevada

Under Nevada's Constitution, the Nevada Supreme Court and Court of Appeals have jurisdiction "on questions of law alone in all criminal cases in which the offense charged is within the original jurisdiction of the district courts."283 On November 4, 2014, voters approved an amendment to the Nevada Constitution creating the Court of Appeals.²⁸⁴ The Nevada Rules of Appellate Procedure detail the types of cases heard between the Nevada Supreme Court and Court of Appeals.²⁸⁵ None of the local districts' rules have any criminal appellate procedures.²⁸⁶ The Nevada Supreme Court has jurisdiction over all direct and post-conviction appeals involving death penalty appeals and most serious felony convictions.²⁸⁷ The Court of Appeals can be assigned almost all other criminal appeals.²⁸⁸ If a party believes that the matter should be retained by the Nevada Supreme Court, it can provide reasons in the routing statement of its appeals brief.289

Nevada statutes provide a right to appeal criminal convictions.²⁹⁰ Generally, the defendant or the State must file a notice of appeal with the district court within thirty days after entry of the judgment or order being appealed.²⁹¹ The

The criminal appeals the appellate court can hear include all post-conviction appeals except death penalty cases and cases that involve a conviction of a Category A felony, any direct appeal from a judgment of conviction based on a guilty plea, guilty but mentally ill or nolo contendere (Alford) plea, direct appeals from a judgment of conviction that challenges only the sentence imposed or the sufficiency of the evidence, and any direct appeal from a judgment of conviction based on a jury verdict that does not involve a conviction for Category A or B felonies. Appellate Rules also allow the Nevada Supreme Court, by a majority of its members, to expedite criminal appeals by eliminating steps normally required in preparing the record and briefs, expediting the stenographic transcripts, prioritizing dates for oral arguments, utilizing court opinion or per curiam orders, and other measures reasonably calculated to expedite the appeal and promote justice.²⁹² Additionally, the Appellate Rules provide a fast-track procedure for all criminal appeals, except where the appeal challenges an order or a judgment involving a Category A felony, where the defendant was not represented by counsel, or where the defendant was sentenced to death or life imprisonment.²⁹³ The fast-track rules were initially implemented to address the growing backlog in cases and have them briefed and resolved quickly.²⁹⁴

Either the state or defendant can appeal orders from the district court granting a motion for acquittal or a motion in arrest of judgment, or granting or refusing a trial,²⁹⁵ and orders regarding whether a defendant is intellectually disabled.²⁹⁶ However, only the defendant can appeal from a final judgment or verdict.²⁹⁷ A defendant may not appeal a final judgment or verdict resulting from a voluntary plea of guilty, guilty but mentally ill, or nolo contendere unless "the appeal is based upon constitutional, jurisdictional or other grounds that challenge the legality of the proceedings."²⁹⁸ death penalty require the prosecutor to first file a notice of intent to seek the death penalty with a list of reasons or aggravating factors.³⁰¹ Once the court and defense counsel know the prosecution is seeking the death penalty, all states except Alabama require a jury to unanimously decide to give a defendant the death penalty.³⁰² The FRCP does not have procedural rules pertaining to the death penalty; the federal death penalty is governed entirely by statute and case law.³⁰³

While states' statutes detail which crimes are eligible for the death penalty as well as any aggravating or mitigating factors, this White Paper focuses exclusively on which states provide statewide criminal procedure rules applicable to the death penalty or capital cases. Of the thirty-two states with the death penalty, twenty have statewide rules of criminal procedure, four have criminal procedure rules by court, five have a code of criminal procedure, and three have no statewide rules or code. Within those states' procedural rules, the comments and notes section often include information on the applicability of the specific rule to death penalty cases.

In general, there are no uniform procedures or consistency in rules applicable to the death penalty. Some states have death penalty specific rules while others mention the death penalty throughout their rules and how seeking the death penalty may affect the procedure. However, most states, at the very least,³⁰⁴ have included rules on aggravating or mitigating circumstances attorneys may argue and jurors may consider, the effect of a potential juror's moral beliefs about the death penalty, unanimity of jury verdicts, and whether death sentences are automatically reviewed by a higher court in that state.³⁰⁵ Most states also address requirements for attorneys defending death penalty eligible

³⁰¹ See, e.g., COLO. R. CRIM. P. 32.1; ARIZ. R. CRIM. P. 15.1(g)(i).

³⁰² The Supreme Court held that a defendant has a Sixth Amendment right to let a jury, as opposed to a judge, decide whether to impose the death penalty. Ring v. Arizona, 536 U.S. 583, 589 (2002). As such, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Delaware, Georgia, Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, Nevada, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Washington, Wyoming all require a unanimous jury verdict.

³⁰³ See 18 U.S.C. §§ 3591–3599.

³⁰⁴ Despite some general similarities, there does not appear to be clear uniformity with how states outline their procedures for death penalty cases. Further, within the state sections with separate rules for dealing with death penalty cases, the states have chosen to focus on different areas. Some states, like California, deal with defense attorney qualifications, while Arizona, in contrast, deals with the procedures of sentencing hearings, while other states choose to focus on jury verdicts. These variations show what each state values as important or unique for death penalty cases.

 $^{^{305}}$ Most procedural rules mandate review of the sentence by the state's highest court. Though, the states' rules varied on which section this requirement was included in. See, e.g., ARIZ. R. CRIM. P. 26.15. Idaho's statutes, for example, state that before the death penalty sentence is final, the Superior Court of Idaho must first review and approve the sentence. IDAHO CODE § 19-2827. defendants.³⁰⁶ Further, if a state does have death penalty specific rules, it will likely be in the sentencing section of their statewide procedural rules.³⁰⁷

A. Different Forms of Rules for Death Penalty Proceedings

In several states, the criminal procedural rules either had separate death penalty sections, like Indiana,³⁰⁸ or mention the death penalty throughout the rules, like Arizona.³⁰⁹ Louisiana has more extensive rules of criminal procedure for the death penalty than most states. Louisiana's statewide criminal procedure rules, for example, requires the accuser to move for the death penalty³¹⁰ and a jury to find proof of at least one aggravating circumstance beyond a reasonable doubt.³¹¹ Additionally, the rules provide lists of both aggravating and mitigating circumstances attorneys may argue and jurors may consider, sets out the procedure for sentencing hearings in capital cases,³¹² states that the jury who returned the guilty verdict will also decide the sentence,³¹³ requires a unanimous verdict,³¹⁴ and requires automatic review of a death sentence by the Louisiana Supreme Court.³¹⁵ Similarly, Mississippi's criminal procedure statutes follow this model.³¹⁶

Montana's statewide criminal procedure code also follows this organization method and is similar to most other states whose death penalty rules of procedure are within the sentencing guidelines of the state's procedural rules.³¹⁷ Further, Montana's procedural code is detailed and organized, with death penalty procedural rules divided into clear categories.³¹⁸ Of all the states, Mon-

 $^{^{306}}$ California, Arkansas, and Pennsylvania's procedural rules all include a list of qualifications for an attorney representing a defendant in a death penalty case. See, e.g., CAL. R. CT. 4.117(d); ARK. R. CRIM. P. 37.5; PA. R. CRIM. P. 801. For instance, in California, lead counsel must have prior experience trying a serious felony and have taken at least two murder cases to a jury. CAL. R. CT. 4.117(d). Another unique rule comes out of Louisiana where the procedural rules only allow a defendant to plead guilty to a capital case if the courts stipulate to a sentence of life in prison without the possibility of parole or probation. tana's code and Louisiana's criminal procedure rules seem most practical for attorneys seeking the death penalty because there are specific rules of criminal procedure to guide death penalty cases through the process. In contrast, other states include death penalty exceptions to the general rules instead of making death penalty procedure rules an independent section, such as found in Arizona, Kansas, Kentucky, and Ohio.³¹⁹

B. Death Penalty Sentencing

Due to complexity, states' criminal procedure rules or codes have constructed separate sections for post-conviction procedures in death penalty cases. Texas follows this structure with separate trial and sentencing procedures, and penalty phase procedures³²⁰ for death penalty cases.³²¹ Arizona, for example, details the procedures for both a hearing on whether the defendant is eligible for the death penalty and whether to impose the death penalty.³²²

Other common themes in death penalty rules is the procedure for how the state notifies the highest state court³²³ and how defendant's counsel is appointed.³²⁴ Most procedural rules require prosecutors to file a written statement of intent to seek the death penalty, procedures for setting the date of the sentencing hearing, as well as discovery procedures for gathering evidence to be presented at the sentencing hearing.³²⁵ Generally, most states require specific procedures for sentencing hearings in death penalty cases.³²⁶ Though, states vary in the depth of their rules;³²⁷ some detail what constitutes an aggravating or mitigating factor,³²⁸ what evidence is admissible,³²⁹ and whether victim impact testimony is allowed.³³⁰

C. The Jury in Death Penalty Cases

States' rules differ significantly in the procedures for determining how to handle a jurors' opinions about the death penalty. Most states address the issue of juror qualifications for death penalty cases in statute. For example, Florida, Idaho, Kansas, and Montana's statutes preclude those whose beliefs about the death penalty would keep them from finding a defendant guilty in a death penalty eligible case.³³¹ A minority of states address juror qualifications in their statewide procedural rules. Common law has also significantly helped develop the standards and qualifications needed to sit on a death penalty jury.³³² Arkansas allows the same trial jury to conduct the capital sentencing phase.³³³ Arkansas requires the two alternative jurors from the trial to be placed in the jury box for the capital sentencing.³³⁴ If there are more than two alternative jurors the remaining are to be dismissed.³³⁵

Some states also provide both the state and defense counsel additional peremptory challenges in capital cases. For instance, Mississippi allows each party twelve peremptory challenges instead of six in non-capital cases.³³⁶ Montana, on the other hand, allows eight peremptory challenges,³³⁷ and Ohio allows six instead of four peremptory challenges.³³⁸

D. Nevada's Death Penalty Procedural Rules

Both statute and court rules detail procedures for death penalty cases in Nevada. Specifically, only the Fourth Judicial District local rules³³⁹ and the Nevada Supreme Court Rules provide any guidance for death penalty cases, with both providing the qualifications required of defense counsel.³⁴⁰ Unsurprisingly, the Nevada Supreme Court "places the highest priority on diligence in the discharge of professional responsibility in capital cases" by providing attorneys with detailed procedures, checklists for necessary legal research, and legal citations to relevant cases.³⁴¹

The Nevada Supreme Court's checklist provides relevant statutes and case law for each phase of a death penalty proceeding.³⁴² According to the rules and similar to other states' procedures, the prosecution must give notice no later than thirty days after filing an information or indictment that it is seeking the death penalty and must allege all the aggravating circumstances that the state plans to prove, including the specific facts that the state will rely on to prove it.³⁴³ A defendant who pleads not guilty to a capital offense must be tried by a jury³⁴⁴ and the verdict must be unanimous.³⁴⁵ A jury determines whether aggravating or mitigating circumstances exist³⁴⁶ and can only impose a death sentence if they find there are no mitigating circumstances that outweigh the aggravating circumstances.³⁴⁷ There are specific statutory aggravating circumstances for first degree murder³⁴⁸ along with mitigating circumstances.³⁴⁹ Appeals are automatically reviewed by the Nevada Supreme Court.³⁵⁰

VIII.NEVADA'S NEXT STEPS

"No person, neither the alleged victim nor the accused, should be placed at a substantial disadvantage in a criminal trial by the rules of procedure and evidence."³⁵¹ Inconsistencies and deficiencies in procedural rules may result in a violation of a defendant's constitutional rights, and cause significant confusion and misapplication of procedures by judges, practitioners, and defendants that the very rules are designed to guide. Discrepancies between local rules and state statutes can result in unfair procedures, violations of a defendant's due process rights, and confusion amongst practitioners, courts, and their clerks.³⁵²

For example, in Craine v. Eighth Judicial District Court, the petitioner sent a notice of appeal to the district court after being found guilty of sexual assault.³⁵³ Once received, the clerk of the court attempted to follow an Eighth Judicial District rule regarding papers not to be filed, but failed to follow the procedural rule by not sending a copy of the notice to the petitioner's counsel.³⁵⁴ The Court determined that because fairness is important to a defendant's right to appeal, the local Eighth Judicial District's rule did not apply to notices of appeal.³⁵⁵ The clerk should have followed the Court's directive in a case decided just months before regarding what actions a clerk should take in order to accurately document the date of the notice of appeal, which triggered the thirty-day appeal period.³⁵⁶ In holding this, the Nevada Supreme Court stated "We cannot allow the operation of a local rule of procedure or the actions of a court clerk to impair the right of any person to prosecute an appeal to this court."³⁵⁷

Similarly, in a case involving the filing deadlines of a notice to appeal, the Nevada Supreme Court determined that the deadline requirement in the Nevada Rules of Appellate Procedure superseded the deadline requirement in a criminal procedure statute.³⁵⁸ Because the judiciary has the inherent power to govern its procedures and the statutory right to promulgate appellate rules, a rule of procedure supersedes and controls over a conflicting pre-existing procedural statute.³⁵⁹

The Nevada Supreme Court has noted in various criminal cases the absence of procedural rules, requiring courts to look to other contexts and jurisdictions for guidance.³⁶⁰ Also, Nevada's courts are often confronted with interpreting vague rules, arguably allowing courts to broadly interpret and apply procedures affecting a defendant's constitutional rights differently, with no clear procedural guidance for future cases.³⁶¹ While "the district court certainly

Wilson, 760 P.2d 129, 130 (Nev. 1988) ("No Nevada statute or rule of procedure is specifically directed to the district court's power in criminal cases, following the jury's verdict of guilty, to dismiss the charges, acquit the defendant, or enter a judgment notwithstanding the verdict when the court deems the evidence insufficient to sustain the verdict.").

³⁶¹ Mack v. State, 367 P.3d 795 (Nev. 2010). The Court determined that Nevada law does not require the intricate and detailed requirements of FRCP 11, but that it generally follows the same scheme and purpose of the rule in determining whether a guilty plea was entered knowingly, voluntarily, and intelligently, arguably leaving future parties unsure how the rule and its case law may be persuasive or applicable. Id.

does not have an obligation to give the defendant specific warnings or advisements about every rule or procedure which may be applicable," a defendant should not be disadvantaged by scattered, unclear, and potentially conflicting rules.³⁶²

In the absence of statewide criminal procedure rules, and due to the significantly difficult legislative process with Nevada's biennial legislature, court procedural rules are regularly created through case law. While this process may be sufficient in some circumstances, both the State and defendant are burdened to be well versed in ever-changing and developing case law. For example, the Nevada Supreme Court has held that a prosecutor acted willful and consciously indifferent when he was very unprepared for a hearing and also failed to follow procedures for continuances that have been established through case law.³⁶³ "We believe these prior decisions establish simple, fair, nontechnical guidelines for seeking continuances, with which any lawyer acting in good faith can comply."³⁶⁴

Similarly, for decades, Nevada courts have considered various factors when determining a defendant's competency, including evidence of a defendant's irrational behavior, his demeanor at trial, any prior medical opinion, and even the defendant's counsel's opinion is considered given the close contact and relationship.³⁶⁵ Centralizing these factors—and others the court and/or leg-islature may deem appropriate—in statewide procedural rules may ensure accurate and uniform competency determinations across the state.

Nevada's recent move towards a statewide pre-trial risk assessment tool may reflect a general push towards statewide criminal procedure rules. Nevada's implementation of this tool can be seen as a response to the disjointed and disorderly bail system Nevada has "defaulted" into.³⁶⁶ Bail amounts differ across the state for similar offenses.³⁶⁷ This new pilot program hopes to bring uniformity and consistency across jurisdictions so that defendants are rated individually, and consistently by risk factors that are statistically proven to predict whether they are at risk for failing to appear at their next hearing or a risk to public safety.³⁶⁸ In 2015, the Nevada Judicial Council approved a resolution creating a committee to study the best practices of evidence-based pretrial release.³⁶⁹ The committee developed the tool³⁷⁰ and it is currently being tested in a twelve-month pilot program in Clark, Washoe, and White Pine counties.³⁷¹ The tool uses a questionnaire that looks at, among other things, the defendant's previous criminal history, the age at first arrest, prior failures to appear in court, and indications of substance abuse.³⁷² A defendant with a "risk score" between 0-4 is low risk, 5-10 points is moderate risk, and 11+ points is considered a high risk.³⁷³ While the results of the pilot program are yet to be determined, it is a sign towards unifying bail and pre-trial release standards.

A. Two Approaches to Creating Statewide Criminal Procedure Rules

Nevada is in the minority of states that do not have statewide rules of criminal procedure. If Nevada were to adopt statewide, comprehensive rules of criminal procedure, it would likely require legislative approval. The Nevada Constitution vests the "judicial power . . . in a court system, comprising a Supreme Court, a court of appeals, district courts and justices of the peace."³⁷⁴ Some states, such as Mississippi, have relied on similar vesting clauses³⁷⁵ as authority to promulgate criminal rules, even to the point that the rules override conflicting statutes.³⁷⁶ Arguably, the Nevada Supreme Court could make a similar claim in promulgating criminal rules; however, when Nevada adopted statewide Nevada Rules of Civil Procedure, it did so under legislative authority.³⁷⁷ The legislature passed an enabling act in 1951 authorizing the Supreme Court to "regulate original and appellate civil practice and procedure."³⁷⁸

If Nevada decides to create statewide criminal procedure rules, it may be beneficial to review and consider a few states that have recently adopted statewide criminal procedure rules. For example, Mississippi is the most recent state to implement statewide criminal procedure rules, which will be effective July 2017. Mississippi began considering statewide criminal procedure rules in 2004 when the chief judge appointed an independent committee to study and consider criminal procedure rules.³⁷⁹ Mississippi's Supreme Court promulgated the rules "[i]n order to promote justice, uniformity, and efficiency in our courts, we find it necessary and reasonable now to combine all of the requirements governing criminal procedure in the courts of this State into a singular set of rules.³⁸⁰ In an effort to inform the general public about the state's new rules, the rules committee released a memorandum generally explaining the new rules.³⁸¹

This Section will illustrate two ways Nevada could implement comprehensive statewide rules of criminal procedure. First, the legislature could delegate authority to the Nevada Supreme Court to promulgate statewide rules of criminal procedure. Or, the Nevada Legislature could adopt a comprehensive "code" of criminal procedure combining the state's current statutes with rules stemming from case law and local rules.

1. Nevada Rules of Criminal Procedure by Nevada Supreme Court

"Court rules, when not inconsistent with the Constitution or certain laws of the state, have the effect of statutes."³⁸² The Nevada Supreme Court adopted the Nevada Rules of Civil Procedure with the express authority from the Nevada Legislature.³⁸³ The legislature delegated the authority through statute allowing the Court to adopt rules to regulate original and appellate civil practice. The statute specifically allows the Court to regulate, "pleadings, motions, writs, notices and forms of process, in judicial proceedings in all courts of the State."³⁸⁴ The Nevada Supreme Court then established an advisory committee to draft the rules.³⁸⁵ The draft of the rules was published and distributed for comment; the comments and modifications were discussed and made before the final recommendation was submitted to the Court. The Court then adopted the rules by Court order.³⁸⁶

Nevada could follow the same format in creating statewide criminal procedure rules. However, one issue that Nevada would encounter through this approach are the already existing criminal procedure statutes in Title 14 of the NRS.³⁸⁷ The Nevada Rules of Civil Procedure dealt with existing statutes by stating that "[e]xisting statutes were deemed rules of court, to remain in effect until superseded."³⁸⁸ Thus, the Court could place the same statement in the rules of criminal procedure. The Nevada Supreme Court has also held that any procedural rules supersede conflicting statutes, because "the courts of this state have the power to make their own procedural rules."³⁸⁹ While the courts do have the authority to create procedural rules, Nevada would likely choose to follow precedent and seek the grant of authority through the legislature.

If the legislature were to grant the Nevada Supreme Court the authority to promulgate the rules of criminal procedure it would likely model the authority for the rules of civil procedure. The legislation could simply add a subsection to the already existing statute that grants authority for civil procedure rules:

NRS 2.120 Adoption of rules for government of courts and State Bar of Nevada; Adoption of rules for civil practice and procedure[.]; Adoption of rules for criminal practice and procedure.

1. The Supreme Court may make rules not inconsistent with the Constitution and laws of the State for its own government, the government of the district courts, and the government of the State Bar of Nevada. Such rules shall be published promptly upon adoption and take effect on a date specified by the Supreme Court which in no event shall be less than 30 days after entry of an order adopting such rules.

2. The Supreme Court, by rules adopted and published from time to time, shall regulate original and appellate civil practice and procedure, including, without limitation, pleadings, motions, writs, notices and forms of process, in judicial proceedings in all courts of the State, for the purpose of simplifying the same and of promoting the speedy determination of litigation upon its merits. Such rules shall not abridge, enlarge or modify any substantive right and shall not be inconsistent with the Constitution of the State of Nevada. preme Court which in no event shall be less than 60 days after entry of an order adopting such rules.³⁹⁰

Once the Nevada Supreme Court has the delegated authority from the Nevada Legislature, the Court could follow the same process that was used to adopt rules of civil procedure. This process would allow the Court to appoint an advisory committee and to receive comment from members of the public. The Court would then have the final review of the rules before adopting them by court order.

Several states with statewide rules still retain criminal procedure statutes. The statutes enacted by the legislature govern the procedures for certain topics, such as the death penalty, bail, and competency. If there are topics that the legislature determines to be of great concern to Nevada or better left to the representative body, then the legislature can maintain those procedures in statute.³⁹¹

An advantage of adopting the rules through the Nevada Supreme Court is the ability for the Court to reform and revise the rules in a timely manner. The rule making and revision process of court rules is quicker than waiting for the biennial legislative session and going through the law-making process. Most states with statewide rules have rules committees that meet regularly to update and amend the court rules. Further, as illustrated above, the Nevada Supreme Court has adopted several procedural rules through case law. These concepts and procedural rules would be more accessible, controlling, and directive if located in one place, with the Court retaining control over revising and explaining the procedural rules.

2. Nevada Code of Criminal Procedure, by the Nevada Legislature

Nevada could choose to adopt a comprehensive code of criminal procedure, by statute, like Texas. In 1965, after six years of work, the Texas legislature enacted the Code of Criminal Procedure.³⁹² Texas' code was the first overhaul of their criminal procedure in over 100 years.³⁹³

The Texas State Bar established a Committee for Revision of the Code of Criminal Procedure and Penal Code. The stated goals for the committee were:

[T]o eliminate unnecessary, unjust and outmoded technicalities in favor of the State, as well as of the defendants, to achieve an up-to-date code of trial and appellate procedure that would be comparable to the advance made by adoption of ³⁹⁰ Explanation of changes: matter in blue italics is new; matter between brackets [omitted material] is material to be omitted. This is consistent with bill drafts in the Nevada Legislature.

the Code of Civil Procedure; and to achieve justice by striking a balance between protection of society from criminals and the prevention of convictions of innocent persons.³⁹⁴

The enacted bill was 841 pages long.³⁹⁵ Only five other states have adopted their code of criminal procedure through their legislature.³⁹⁶ Unfortunately, these states lack an overview of the law-making process that they went through to enact the codes. Texas did attempt to establish rules of criminal procedure through the courts instead of through the legislature, but once unsuccessful, relied upon the legislature.³⁹⁷ Texas' code of criminal procedure took four years and two legislative sessions to pass.³⁹⁸ The resulting legislative history and information would be extremely helpful to Nevada if Nevada were to enact a code instead of rules.

Developing a criminal procedure code in Nevada may be ideal because the state's current statutes are relatively in-depth. Creating a code may likely fill in the gaps, taking rules from case law and local rules to supplement any missing provisions. However, as discussed above, in time, a code may result in a similar situation as Nevada currently faces where it is difficult to change current statutes to case law and local rules were needed for the rules to adapt to changing procedures. It may be possible for the legislature to enact a rules committee to combat this problem, but that likely will not yield an amending process as possible with court rules.

B. Various Considerations When Drafting Criminal Procedure Rules for Nevada

Ultimately, if Nevada decides to move forward with statewide criminal procedure rules this White Paper, and the accompanying chart, intends to provide insight to the various "types" of criminal procedural rules. There are three main distinctions to consider: applicability, depth, and specifics.

Drafters of Nevada's statewide rules or code would be able to determine the potential applicability of such rules. Nevada could follow states like Montana, South Dakota, and Texas by incorporating detailed statewide criminal procedure rules into its statutes and create a code of criminal procedure. Conversely, Nevada could develop separate and distinct statewide criminal procedure rules that could supersede all local district court rules and/or conflicting statutes, similar to Alabama, Florida, and Mississippi. Since Nevada does not have as complex a court system as states like Delaware and Georgia,³⁹⁹ it is likely unnecessary to develop statewide procedural rules for each level of court. Meaning, separate statewide criminal procedure rules for district courts and justice courts is likely ineffective to solve Nevada's current criminal procedure quandary.

If Nevada creates statewide criminal procedure rules, its drafters should consider whether additional rules related to criminal cases should be incorporated. For example, it must be determined how and if juvenile proceedings will follow the statewide criminal rules by way of including its application in the scope section or mentioning, in each specific rule, how it applies to juvenile proceedings. Alternatively, statewide juvenile criminal proceedings may be necessary.

Nevada would also need to define the potential depth of statewide rules or codes. Each state with statewide criminal procedure rules varies in the depth of its rules. For example, on one end of the spectrum, Nevada could follow Colorado, Hawaii, and Maine by promulgating or codifying extensive, detailed rules, that may go as far as detailing the preparation for clerk's minutes⁴⁰⁰ or the exact margins of pleadings.⁴⁰¹ On the other hand, Nevada could follow in Oregon's path and develop uniform trial rules that are, comparatively, extremely limited for criminal procedure rules, allowing state statutes to control most procedural rules.⁴⁰² Further, Nevada may need to consider whether it should incorporate modern rules like electronic filing procedures in its criminal procedure code, it recently created statewide procedures for electronic filing in criminal cases.⁴⁰⁴

Lastly, developing statewide rules would allow Nevada the opportunity to determine what specific rules should be included and what should be left to the legislature or local districts. Statewide rules can be standardized, by modeling the FRCP, or can be tailored to address the specific concerns or repeat problems in Nevada. Based on the procedural needs of the state, statewide criminal procedure rules can detail those concerns. For example, several states with statewide rules have a specific and detailed rule section devoted to ensuring a speedy trial.⁴⁰⁵ Alaska's speedy trial procedural rule states that a defendant shall be tried within 120 days, then details the time when trial begins.⁴⁰⁶ Alaska's procedural rules even allow for an absolute discharge if a defendant is not brought to trial before the running of the time for trial.⁴⁰⁷ Other states have similar detailed statewide speedy trail, or dismissal rule, rules, including: Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Indiana, Louisiana, Massachusetts, and Michigan. As another example, several states have detailed statewide rules on search and seizure procedures. While all states with statewide rules have some discussion of warrants, states like Hawaii, Maine, North Dakota, and Tennessee have thorough search and seizure procedural rules.⁴⁰⁸

CONCLUSION

The Arkansas Supreme Court said it best when they abolished all local rules and announced that "[a] member of the bar of this state, or a litigant representing himself or herself, should be able to go into any of our courts and know what to expect without having to read, in some instances, 50 pages of local rules trying to discern their effect."⁴⁰⁹ While this White Paper does not call for such an abolishment, confusion is sowed by forcing litigants to check various sources (which sometimes conflict with each other).⁴¹⁰ Uniform, simple, and statewide criminal procedure rules can alleviate this confusion. Forty-seven states have adopted rules of criminal procedure, either by rule, by code, or by court. This leaves Nevada as one of three states lacking comprehensive rules. Rules of criminal proceeding, to secure simplicity in procedure and fairness in administration, and to eliminate unjustifiable expense and delay."⁴¹¹

Nevada has several sources for rules of criminal procedure: Title 14 of the Nevada Revised Statutes, Nevada Supreme Court Rules, rules for each judicial district court, case law, and rules of practice for each court. Under this system, obtaining justice in our criminal justice system is truly a daunting task.⁴¹² Because there are so many sources, a defendant in Reno may have different procedural rules that apply to him than a defendant in Las Vegas. As illustrated above, there are also inconsistent rules throughout the many sources of criminal procedure. If Nevada were to adopt statewide comprehensive rules or a code of criminal procedure, Nevada could ensure the consistent, streamlined application of justice in our criminal system. One where "[n]o person . . . should be placed at a substantial disadvantage in a criminal trial by the rules of procedure."⁴¹³

TITLE I. APPLICABILITY

Rule 1 General Provisions and Scope

(a) General Provisions.

- 1. Title. This chapter shall be known and may be cited as the "Nevada Rules of Criminal Procedure" and may referenced as "Nev. Rules of Crim. Pro." and cited to as "NRCRP".
- 2. Intended Purpose. These rules shall govern the procedure in all criminal cases in the courts of this state except juvenile court cases. These rules are intended and shall be construed to secure simplicity in procedure, fairness in administration, and the elimination of unnecessary expense and delay.
- 3. Effective. These rules shall take effect on July 1, 2019. Thereafter, they shall govern all criminal proceedings commenced and, so far as just and practicable, all proceedings then pending. All statutes and rules in conflict therewith are repealed.

(b) Scope.

- 1. In General. These rules govern the procedure in all criminal proceedings in the Municipal Courts, Justice Courts, District Courts, Court of Appeals, and Supreme Court of the State of Nevada.
- 2. Excluded Proceedings: Proceedings not governed by these rules include:
 - i. The extradition and rendition of a fugitive (governed by NRS);
 - ii. Civil property forfeiture for violating a state or local law;
 - iii. Juvenile delinquency and dependency proceedings; and
 - iv. Other civil proceedings.

Rule 2 Interpretation

These rules are to be interpreted to provide for the just determination of every criminal proceeding, to secure simplicity in procedure and fairness in administration, and to eliminate unjustifiable expense and delay.

Rule 3 Preliminary Provisions

(a) "Bonds and undertakings in criminal actions."¹ In all criminal actions or proceedings, the following provisions apply:

- 1. Where a bond or other undertaking is required by the provisions of the Nevada Revised Statutes or by the Nevada Rules of Civil Procedure or the Nevada Rules of Appellate Procedure, the bond or undertaking shall be presented to the clerk, of the court in which the action or proceeding is pending, for the clerk's approval before being filed or deposited.
- 2. The clerk of the court may refuse approval of a surety for any bond or other undertaking if a power of attorney-in-fact, which covers the agent whose signature appears on the bond or other undertaking, is not on file with the clerk of the court.
- (b) "Jurisdiction over criminal offenses." These rules do not attempt to define jurisdiction of criminal offenses. Jurisdictional requirements are governed by the Nevada Revised Statutes.²
- (c) "Signature by mark." When a signature of a person is required by this title, the mark of a person, if the person cannot write, shall be deemed sufficient, the name of the person making the mark being written near it, and the mark being witnessed by a person who writes his or her own name as a witness.³
- (d) "Statutes of Limitation." These rules do not govern the Statutes of Limitations for bringing a criminal action. Statutes of Limitation are governed by the Nevada Revised Statutes.⁴
- (e) "Statutory Revisions." Superseding of criminal law is not a bar to punishment unless specifically expressed. The superseding of any law creating a criminal offense shall not be held to constitute a bar to the prosecution and punishment of a crime already committed, or to bar the trial and punishment of a crime where a prosecution has been already begun, for a violation of the law so superseded, unless the intention to bar such prosecution and punishment, or trial and punishment where a prosecution has been already begun is expressly declared in the superseding act.⁴

TITLE II. PRELIMINARY PROCEEDINGS

Rule 6 Prosecution Upon Citation

(a) Filing of Citation.⁶ The filing of a citation in the justice's court or municipal court initiates a criminal action for only misdemeanor offense(s). The citation shall be issued and served in conformance with the requirements of NRS 171.1771 et. seq.

- (b) Citation filed with court deemed complaint for purpose of prosecution.⁷ If the form of citation:
 - 1. Includes information whose truthfulness is attested as required for a complaint charging commission of the offense alleged in the citation to have been committed; or
 - 2. Is prepared electronically, then the citation when filed with a court of competent jurisdiction shall be deemed to be a lawful complaint for the purpose of prosecution.
- (c) Electronic Filing.⁸ A court clerk may accept a citation filed pursuant to this chapter that is filed electronically. The following governs the filing of an electronic Complaint in a criminal proceeding:
 - 1. A citation that is filed electronically must contain an image of the signature of the law enforcement officer who issued the citation.
 - 2. If a court clerk accepts a citation that is filed electronically pursuant to subsection 1, the court clerk shall acknowledge receipt of the citation by an electronic time stamp and shall electronically return the citation with the electronic time stamp to the prosecuting attorney.
 - 3. A citation that is filed and time-stamped electronically pursuant to this section may be converted into a printed document and shall be treated in the same manner as a citation that is not filed electronically.

- 2. Be made upon: Oath before a magistrate or a notary public; or By Declaration which is made subject to the penalty for perjury;

Rule 9 Warrants, Summons & Arrest

(a) Issuance of Warrant or Summons.¹¹ If it appears from the complaint or a citation issued pursuant to NRS 484A.730, 488.920 or 501.386, or from an affidavit or affidavits filed with the complaint or citation that there is probable cause to believe that an offense, triable within the county, has been committed and that the defendant has committed it, a warrant for the arrest of the defendant shall be issued by the magistrate to any peace officer. Upon the request of the district attorney a summons instead of a warrant shall issue. More than one warrant or summons may issue on the same complaint or citation. If a defendant fails to appear in response to the summons, a warrant shall issue.

(b) Content of Warrant:¹⁹ The warrant of arrest is an order in writing in the name of the State of Nevada which shall:

- 1. Be signed by the magistrate with the magistrate's name of office;
- 2. Contain the name of the defendant or, if the defendant's name is unknown, any name or description by which the defendant can be identified with reasonable certainty;
- 3. State the date of its issuance, and the county, city or town where it was issued;
- 4. Describe the offense charged in the complaint; and
- 5. Command that the defendant be arrested and brought before the nearest available magistrate.

(c) Content of Summons:¹⁸ The summons shall be in the same form as the warrant except that it shall summon the defendant to appear before a magistrate at a stated time and place. Upon a complaint against a corporation, the magistrate must issue a summons, signed by the magistrate, with the magistrate's name of office, requiring the corporation to appear before the magistrate at a specified time and place to answer the charge, the time to be not less than 10 days after the issuing of the summons.

(d) Execution and Service of Warrant or Summons. The execution and service of a warrant is governed by NRS 171.114 et. seq.

(f) Warrant of arrest by telegram authorized.¹⁵

1. A warrant of arrest may be transmitted by telegram. A copy of a warrant transmitted by telegram may be sent to one or more peace officers, and the copy is as effectual in the hands of any officer, and the officer must proceed in the same manner under it, as though the officer held an original warrant issued by the magistrate before whom the original complaint in the case was laid.

- 2. Every officer causing a warrant to be transmitted by telegram pursuant to subsection 1 must certify as correct a copy of the warrant and endorsement thereon, and must return the original with a statement of the officer's action thereunder.
- 3. As used in this section, "telegram" includes every method of electric or electronic communication by which a written as distinct from an oral message is transmitted.
- (g) Return of warrant after execution by arrest or issuance of citation; return of summons after service; cancellation by district attorney before execution or service; reissuance.
 - 1. The peace officer executing a warrant by arrest shall make return thereof to the magistrate before whom the defendant is brought pursuant to NRS 171.178 and 171.184. At the request of the district attorney any unexecuted warrant must be returned to the magistrate by whom it was issued and must be cancelled.

 - ii. Attach the warrant to the citation issued thereon; and
 - iii. Return the warrant and citation to the magistrate before whom the defendant is scheduled to appear.
 - 3. On or before the return day the person to whom a summons was delivered for service shall make return thereof to the magistrate before whom the summons is returnable.
 - 4. At the request of the district attorney made at any time while the complaint is pending, a warrant returned unexecuted and not cancelled or a summons returned unserved or a duplicate thereof may be delivered by the magistrate to a peace officer for execution or service.

Rule 10 Appearance Before Magistrate Following Arrest

(a) Appearance before magistrate.¹⁶

- 1. An arrested person shall be brought before the magistrate who issued the warrant or the nearest available magistrate empowered to commit persons charged with offenses against the laws of the State of Nevada. The magistrate must make a probable cause determination within 48 hours of arrest based upon a probable cause statement prepared by the arresting officer. If the magistrate determines that probable cause for the arrest existed, the magistrate may hold the individual for further proceedings after determining if the bail set in the matter is appropriate. If the magistrate determines that probable cause for the arrest did not exist, the magistrate shall release the individual.
- 2. If the magistrate determines that probable cause existed to justify the arrest, within 72 hours, excluding nonjudicial days, of that determination, the following shall occur: (1) The prosecuting agency, unless excused by the following subsection, must file a complaint before the magistrate setting forth the crime or crimes with which the person is charged; and (2) The person must be brought before the magistrate for an advisement hearing in which the person is advised of the person's right to counsel and the nature of the charges contained in the Complaint.
- 3. If the complaint is not filed within the 72 hours after arrest, excluding nonjudicial days, the magistrate:
 - i. Shall give the prosecuting attorney an opportunity to explain the circumstances leading to the delay and may allow additional time to file a Complaint; andii. May release the arrested person if the magistrate determines that the person was not brought before a magistrate without unnecessary delay.
- 4. When a person arrested under the terms of a warrant for arrest is brought before a magistrate, a complaint must be filed forthwith.
- 5. Except as otherwise provided in NRS 178.484 and 178.487, where the defendant can be admitted to bail without appearing personally before a magistrate, the defendant must be so admitted with the least possible delay, and required to appear before a magistrate at the earliest convenient time thereafter.
- 6. When a summons is issued in lieu of a warrant of arrest, the defendant shall appear before the court as directed in the summons.

(b) Proceedings before another magistrate.^{v} If the defendant is brought before a magistrate in the same county, other than the one who issued the warrant, the affidavits and depositions on which the warrant was granted, if the defendant insists upon an examination, must be sent to that magistrate, or, if they cannot be procured, the prosecutor and the prosecutor's witnesses must be summoned to give their testimony anew.

(c) Proceedings upon complaint for offenses triable in another county.¹⁸

1. When a complaint is laid before a magistrate of the commission of a public offense triable in another county of the State, but showing that the defendant is in the county where the complaint is laid, the same proceedings must be had as prescribed in these

Rules except that the warrant must require the defendant to be taken before the nearest or most accessible magistrate of the county in which the offense is triable, and the depositions of the complainant or prosecutor, and of the witnesses who may have been produced, must be delivered by the magistrate to the officer to whom the warrant is delivered.

- 2. The officer who executed the warrant must take the defendant before the nearest or most accessible magistrate of the county in which the offense is triable, and must deliver the depositions and the warrant, with the officer's return endorsed thereon, and the magistrate must then proceed in the same manner as upon a warrant issued by the magistrate.
- 3. If the offense charged in the warrant issued pursuant to subsection 1 is a misdemeanor, the officer must, upon being required by the defendant, take the defendant before a magistrate of the county in which the warrant was issued, who must admit the defendant to bail, and immediately transmit the warrant, depositions and undertaking to the justice of the peace or clerk of the court in which the defendant is required to appear.

(d) Proceedings upon discovery of another arrest warrant outstanding in another county.¹⁵

- 1. If a person is brought before a magistrate under the provisions of NRS 171.178 or 171.184, and it is discovered that there is a warrant for the person's arrest outstanding in another county of this State, the magistrate may release the person in accordance with the provisions of NRS 178.484 or 178.4851 if:
 - i. The warrant arises out of a public offense which constitutes a misdemeanor; and
 - ii. The person provides a suitable address where the magistrate who issued the warrant in the other county can notify the person of a time and place to appear.
- 2. If a person is released under the provisions of this section, the magistrate who releases the person shall transmit the cash, bond, notes or agreement submitted under the provisions of NRS 178.502 or 178.4851, together with the person's address, to the magistrate who issued the warrant. Upon receipt of the cash, bonds, notes or agreement and address, the magistrate who issued the warrant shall notify the person of a time and place to appear.
- 3. Any bail set under the provisions of this section must be in addition to and apart from any bail set for any public offense with which a person is charged in the county in which a magistrate is setting bail. In setting bail under the provisions of this section, a magistrate shall set the bail in an amount which is sufficient to induce a reasonable person to travel to the county in which the warrant for the arrest is outstanding.
- 4. A person who fails to appear in the other county as ordered is guilty of failing to appear and shall be punished as provided in NRS 199.335. A sentence of imprisonment imposed for failing to appear in violation of this section must be imposed consecutively to a sentence of imprisonment for the offense out of which the warrant arises.

Rule 11 Proceedings Before Justice of the Peace or Municipal Court Judge

(a) Rights of defendant at the advisement hearing.³⁰ The magistrate or master shall inform the defendant of the complaint and of any affidavit filed therewith, of the right to retain counsel, of the right to request the assignment of counsel if the defendant is unable to obtain counsel, and of the right to have a preliminary examination if any charge alleges a gross misdemeanor or felony crime or of the right to an arraignment if the charge or charges involve any misdemeanor crime. The magistrate shall also inform the defendant that the defendant is not required to make a statement and that any statement made may be used against him or her. The magistrate shall allow the defendant reasonable time and opportunity to consult counsel, and shall admit the defendant to bail as provided in these rules.

(b) Procedure for appointment of attorney for indigent defendant.²¹

- 1. Any defendant charged with a public offense who is an indigent may, by oral statement to the district judge, justice of the peace, municipal judge or master, request the appointment of an attorney to represent the defendant.
- 2. The request must be accompanied by the defendant's affidavit, which must state:
 - i. That the defendant is without means of employing an attorney; andii. Facts with some particularity, definiteness and certainty concerning the - defendant's financial disability.3. The district judge, justice of the peace, municipal judge or master shall forthwith consider the application and shall make such further inquiry as he or she considers necessary. If the district judge, justice of the peace, municipal judge or master:
 - i. Finds that the defendant is without means of employing an attorney; andii. Otherwise determines that representation is required, the judge, justice or
 - master shall designate the public defender of the county or the State Public Defender, as appropriate, to represent the defendant. If the appropriate public defender is unable to represent the defendant, or other good cause appears, another attorney must be appointed.
- 4. The county or State Public Defender must be reimbursed by the city for costs incurred in appearing in municipal court. If a private attorney is appointed as provided in this section, the private attorney must be reimbursed by the county for appearance in Justice Court or the city for appearance in municipal court in an amount not to exceed $75 per case.

(c) Certification of bail; discharge of defendant.²⁹ On admitting the defendant to bail, the magistrate shall certify on the warrant the fact of having done so, and deliver the warrant and recognizance to the officer having charge of the defendant.

(d) Preliminary examination: Waiver; time for conducting; postponement; burden of proof, introduction of evidence and cross-examination of witnesses by defendant; admissibility of hearsay evidence.³⁰

- 2. The magistrate may require the appearance of the defendant at the preliminary hearing.
- 3. If the defendant does not waive examination, the magistrate shall hear the evidence within 15 days of the advisement hearing, unless for good cause shown the magistrate extends such time.
- 4. Unless the defendant waives counsel, reasonable time must be allowed for counsel to appear.
- 5. Except as otherwise provided in this rule, if the magistrate postpones the examination at the request of a party, the magistrate may order that party to pay all or part of the costs and fees expended to have a witness attend the examination. The state has the burden of proof and shall proceed first with its case. The preliminary examination is confined to the issues relevant to the determination as to whether there is probable cause to believe that a crime was committed and that the defendant committed said crime. These rules do not abrogate the established case law of the appellate courts of this state regarding preliminary hearings.
- 8. The defendant may cross-examine witnesses against him or her and may introduce evidence in his or her own behalf.
- 9. Hearsay evidence consisting of an out of court statement made by the alleged victim of the offense is admissible at a preliminary examination conducted pursuant to this section only if the defendant is charged with one or more of the following offenses:

Rule 12 Appointment of Counsel

(a) Right to Counsel.³⁰ A defendant charged with a public offense has the right to self-representation, and if indigent, has the right to court-appointed counsel if the defendant faces a substantial probability of deprivation of liberty.

(b) Appointment of attorney other than public defender prohibited unless public defender disqualified.³¹ A magistrate, master or a district court shall not appoint an attorney other than a public defender to represent a person charged with any offense or delinquent act by petition, indictment or information unless the magistrate, master or district court makes a finding, entered into the record of the case, that the public defender is disqualified from furnishing the representation and sets forth the reason or reasons for the disqualification.

(c) Counsel in Capital Case.⁸⁹ In all cases in which counsel is appointed to represent an indigent defendant who is charged with an offense for which the punishment may be death, the court shall appoint two or more attorneys to represent such defendant and shall make a finding on the record based on the requirements set forth below that appointed counsel is proficient in the trial of capital cases. In making its determination, the court shall ensure that the experience of counsel who are under consideration for appointment have met the minimum requirements under SCR 250.

(d) Attorney Selection in Capital Case.³⁰ In making its selection of attorneys for appointment in a capital case, the court should also consider at least the following factors:

- 1. whether one or more of the attorneys under consideration have previously appeared as counsel or co-counsel in a capital case;
- the extent to which the attorneys under consideration have sufficient time and support and can dedicate those resources to the representation of the defendant in the capital case now pending before the court with undivided loyalty to the defendant;
- 3. the extent to which the attorneys under consideration have engaged in the active practice of criminal law in the past five years;
- 4. the diligence, competency and ability of the attorneys being considered; and
- 5. any other factor which may be relevant to a determination that counsel to be appointed will fairly, efficiently and effectively provide representation to the defendant.

(e) Counsel for Capital Case Appeal.³⁴ In all cases where an indigent defendant is sentenced to death, the court shall appoint one or more attorneys to represent such defendant on appeal and shall make a finding that counsel is proficient in the appeal of capital cases. To be found proficient to represent on appeal persons sentenced to death, the combined experience of the appointed attorneys must meet the following requirements:

³¹ NRS 7.115, NRS 260.065.

- 1. at least one attorney must have served as counsel in at least three felony appeals; and

(f) Counsel for Post-Conviction.³⁵ In all cases in which counsel is appointed to represent an indigent petitioner, the court shall appoint one or more attorneys to represent such petitioner at post-conviction trial and on post-conviction appeal and shall make a finding that counsel is qualified to represent persons sentenced to death in post-conviction cases. To be found qualified, the combined experience of the appointed attorneys must meet the following requirements:

- at least one of the appointed attorneys must have served as counsel in at least three felony or post-conviction appeals;
- 2. at least one of the appointed attorneys must have appeared as counsel or co-counsel in a post-conviction case at the evidentiary hearing, on appeal, or otherwise demonstrated proficiency in the area of post-conviction litigation;
- 3. at least one of the appointed attorneys must have attended and completed or taught within the past five years an approved continuing legal education course which dealt, in substantial part, with the trial and appeal of death penalty cases or with the prosecution or defense of post-conviction proceedings in death penalty cases;
- 4. at least one of the appointed attorneys must have tried to judgment or verdict three civil jury or felony cases within the past four years or ten cases total; and
- the experience of at least one of the appointed attorneys must total not less than five years in the active practice of law.
- (g) Grounds not Created by Rule.³⁶ Mere noncompliance with this rule or failure to follow the guidelines set forth in this rule shall not of itself be grounds for establishing that appointed counsel ineffectively represented the defendant at trial or on appeal.

(h) Fees of appointed attorney other than public defender.⁸⁷

- 1. Except as limited by subsections 2, 3 and 4, an attorney, other than a public defender, who is appointed by a magistrate or a district court to represent or defend a defendant at any stage of the criminal proceedings from the defendant's initial appearance before the magistrate or the district court through the appeal, if any, is entitled to receive a fee for court appearances and other time reasonably spent on the matter to which the appointment is made of $125 per hour in cases in which the death penalty is sought and $100 per hour in all other cases. Except for cases in which the most serious crime is a felony punishable by death or by imprisonment for life with or without possibility of parole, this subsection does not preclude a governmental entity from contracting with a private attorney who agrees to provide such services for a lesser rate of compensation.
- 2. Except as otherwise provided in subsection 4, the total fee for each attorney in any matter regardless of the number of offenses charged or ancillary matters pursued must not exceed:

NRS 7.125.

- i. If the most serious crime is a felony punishable by death or by imprisonment for life with or without possibility of parole, $20,000;
- ii. If the most serious crime is a felony other than a felony included in paragraph (a) or is a gross misdemeanor, $2,500;

- 4. If the appointing court because of:
 - i. The complexity of a case or the number of its factual or legal issues;
 - ii. The severity of the offense;
 - iii. The time necessary to provide an adequate defense; or
 - iv. Other special circumstances, deems it appropriate to grant a fee in excess of the applicable maximum, the payment must be made, but only if the court in which the representation was rendered certifies that the amount of the excess payment is both reasonable and necessary and the payment is approved by the presiding judge of the judicial district in which the attorney was appointed, or if there is no such presiding judge or if he or she presided over the court in which the representation was rendered, then by the district judge who holds seniority in years of service in office.

5. The magistrate, the district court, the Court of Appeals or the Supreme Court may, in the interests of justice, substitute one appointed attorney for another at any stage of the proceedings, but the total amount of fees granted to all appointed attorneys must not exceed those allowable if but one attorney represented or defended the defendant at all stages of the criminal proceeding.

(i) Reimbursement for expenses; employment of investigative, expert or other services.⁸⁸ The attorney appointed by a magistrate or district court to represent a defendant is entitled, in addition to the fee provided by NRS 7.125 for the attorney's services, to be reimbursed for expenses reasonably incurred by the attorney in representing the defendant and may employ, subject to the prior approval of the magistrate or the district court in an ex parte application, such investigative, expert or other services as may be necessary for an adequate defense. Compensation to any person furnishing such investigative, expert or other services must not exceed $500, exclusive of reimbursement for expenses reasonably incurred, unless payment in excess of that limit is:

- 1. Certified by the trial judge of the court, or by the magistrate if the services were rendered in connection with a case disposed of entirely before the magistrate, as necessary to provide fair compensation for services of an unusual character or duration; and
- 2. Approved by the presiding judge of the judicial district in which the attorney was appointed or, if there is no presiding judge, by the district judge who holds seniority in years of service in office.

 - The magistrate in cases in which the representation was rendered exclusively before the magistrate; and
 - ii. The district court in all other cases.
- 2. Each claim must be supported by a sworn statement specifying the time expended in court, the services rendered out of court and the time expended therein, the expenses incurred while the case was pending and the compensation and reimbursement applied for or received in the same case from any other source. Except as otherwise provided for the approval of payments in excess of the statutory limit, the magistrate or the court to which the claim is submitted shall fix and certify the compensation and expenses to be paid, and the amounts so certified must be paid in accordance with NRS 7.155.

(k) Payment of compensation and expenses from county treasury or money appropriated to State Public Defender.⁴⁰ The compensation and expenses of an attorney appointed to represent a defendant must be paid from the county treasury unless the proceedings are based upon a postconviction petition for habeas corpus, in which case the compensation and expenses must be paid from money appropriated to the Office of State Public Defender, but after the appropriation for such expenses is exhausted, money must be allocated to the Office of State Public Defender from the reserve for statutory contingency account for the payment of such compensation and expenses.

(l) Payment of compensation and expenses by defendant.⁴¹ If at any time after the appointment of an attorney or attorneys the magistrate or the district court finds that money is available for payment from or on behalf of the defendant so that the defendant is financially able to obtain private counsel or to make partial payment for such representation, the magistrate or the district court may:

- 1. Terminate the appointment of such attorney or attorneys; or
- 2. Direct that such money be paid to:
 - i. The appointed attorney or attorneys, in which event any compensation provided for in NRS 7.125 shall be reduced by the amount of the money so paid, and no such attorney may otherwise request or accept any payment or promise of payment for representing such defendant; or
 - ii. The clerk of the district court for deposit in the county treasury, if all of the compensation and expenses in connection with the representation of such defendant were paid from the county treasury, and remittance to the Office of State Public Defender, if such compensation and expenses were paid partly from moneys appropriated to the Office of State Public Defender and the money received exceeds the amount of compensation and expenses paid from the county treasury.

 - iii. The date by which the terms and conditions must be completed by the defendant, which must not be more than 18 months after the date of the order;
 - iv. A requirement that the defendant appear before the court at least one time every 3 months for a status hearing on the progress of the defendant toward completion of the terms and conditions set forth in the order; and
 - v. A notice relating to the provisions of subsection 3 of NRS 174.033.
- 6. A defendant assigned to a preprosecution diversion program shall pay the cost of any program of treatment required by this section to the extent of his or her financial resources. The court shall not refuse to place a defendant in a program of treatment if the defendant does not have the financial resources to pay any or all of the costs of such program.
- 7. If restitution is ordered to be paid pursuant to subsection 5, the defendant must make a good faith effort to pay the required amount of restitution in full. If the justice court or municipal court determines that a defendant is unable to pay such restitution, the court must require the defendant to enter into a judgment by confession for the amount of restitution.

(c) Discharge of defendant upon fulfillment of terms and conditions; termination of participation of defendant and order to appear for arraignment."

- 1. If the justice court or municipal court determines that a defendant has successfully completed the terms and conditions of a preprosecution diversion program ordered pursuant to subsection 5 of NRS 174.032, the court must discharge the defendant and dismiss the indictment, information, complaint or citation.
- 2. Discharge and dismissal pursuant to subsection 1 is without adjudication of guilt and is not a conviction for purposes of employment, civil rights or any statute or regulation or license or questionnaire or for any other public or private purpose. Discharge and dismissal restores the defendant, in the contemplation of the law, to the status occupied before the indictment, information, complaint or citation. The defendant may not be held thereafter under any law to be guilty of perjury or otherwise giving a false statement by reason of failure to recite or acknowledge the indictment, information, complaint or citation in response to an inquiry made of the defendant for any purpose.

3. If the justice court or municipal court determines that a defendant has not successfully completed the terms or conditions of a preprosecution diversion program ordered pursuant to subsection 5 of NRS 174.032, the court must issue an order terminating the participation of the defendant in the preprosecution diversion program and order the defendant to appear for an arraignment to enter a plea based on the original indictment, information, complaint or citation pursuant to NRS 174.015.

(d) Sealing of records after discharge.⁵⁰

- 1. If the defendant is discharged and the indictment, information, complaint or citation is dismissed pursuant to NRS 174.033, the justice court or municipal court must order sealed all documents, papers and exhibits in the record of the defendant, minute book entries and entries on dockets, and other documents relating to the case in the custody of such other agencies and officers as are named in the order of the court. The court shall order those records sealed without a hearing unless the district attorney petitions the court, for good cause shown, not to seal the records and requests a hearing thereon.
- 2. If the justice court or municipal court orders the record of a defendant sealed, the defendant must send a copy of the order to each agency or officer named in the order. Each such agency or officer shall notify the court in writing of its compliance with the order.

Rule 18 Pleas

(a) Types of pleas; procedure for entering plea.⁵¹

- A defendant may plead not guilty, guilty, guilty but mentally ill or, with the consent of the court, nolo contendere. The court may refuse to accept a plea of nolo contendere, guilty or guilty but mentally ill. In all cases involving a misdemeanor, the prosecution and defense may also agree to a plea in abeyance, wherein the defendant pleads guilty to the offense or offenses in the Complaint.
- 2. A plea in abeyance means that an order by a court, upon motion of the prosecution and the defendant, accepting a plea of guilty or of no contest from the defendant but not, at that time, entering judgment of conviction against him nor imposing sentence upon him on condition that he comply with specific conditions as set forth in a plea in abeyance agreement. In accordance with the order, the proceedings are suspended allowing the defendant to comply with terms and conditions set forth in the plea and abeyance agreement. Any such agreement requires that the defendant waive the right to a speedy trial while the agreement is in place. If at the end of the agreement, the defendant has completed the terms and conditions of the agreement, the agreement shall bind the parties to the terms of the agreement. If the defendant fails to successfully complete the agreement within the timeframe agreed to by the parties, the prosecuting attorney may request that the plea be entered and sentencing proceed. The Court shall require the prosecutor to put on evidence of a violation of the agreement or non-completion of the agreement by the defendant before proceeding to sentencing and shall allow the defendant to contest the prosecutors evidence. In such a hearing, the rules of evidence applicable to a sentencing hearing are applicable.
- 3. If a plea of guilty or guilty but mentally ill is made in a written plea agreement, the agreement must be in substantially the form prescribed in NRS 174.063. If a plea of guilty or guilty but mentally ill is made orally, the court shall not accept such a plea or a plea of nolo contendere without first addressing the defendant personally and determining that the plea is made voluntarily with understanding of the nature of the charge and consequences of the plea.
- 4. With the consent of the court and the district attorney, a defendant may enter a conditional plea of guilty, guilty but mentally ill or nolo contendere, reserving in writing the right, on appeal from the judgment, to a review of the adverse determination of any specified pretrial motion. A defendant who prevails on appeal must be allowed to withdraw the plea.
- 5. Upon an unconditional waiver of a preliminary hearing, a defendant and the district attorney may enter into a written conditional plea agreement, subject to the court accepting the recommended sentence pursuant to the agreement.
- 6. A plea of guilty but mentally ill must be entered not less than 21 days before the date set for trial. A defendant who has entered a plea of guilty but mentally ill has the burden of establishing the defendant's mental illness by a preponderance of the evidence. Except as otherwise provided by specific statute, a defendant who enters such a plea is subject to the same criminal, civil and administrative penalties and procedures as a defendant who pleads guilty.

NRS 174.035.

- 7. The defendant may, in the alternative or in addition to any one of the pleas permitted by subsection 1, plead not guilty by reason of insanity. A plea of not guilty by reason of insanity must be entered not less than 21 days before the date set for trial. A defendant who has not so pleaded may offer the defense of insanity during trial upon good cause shown. Under such a plea or defense, the burden of proof is upon the defendant to establish by a preponderance of the evidence that:
 - i. Due to a disease or defect of the mind, the defendant was in a delusional state at the time of the alleged offense; and
 - ii. Due to the delusional state, the defendant either did not:
 - A. Know or understand the nature and capacity of his or her act; or
 - B. Appreciate that his or her conduct was wrong, meaning not authorized by law.
- 8. If a defendant refuses to plead or if the court refuses to accept a plea of guilty or guilty but mentally ill or if a defendant corporation fails to appear, the court shall enter a plea of not guilty.
- 9. A defendant may not enter a plea of guilty or guilty but mentally ill pursuant to a plea bargain for an offense punishable as a felony for which:
 - i. Probation is not allowed; or
 - ii. The maximum prison sentence is more than 10 years,
 - unless the plea bargain is set forth in writing and signed by the defendant, the defendant's attorney, if the defendant is represented by counsel, and the prosecuting attorney.
- 10. If the court accepts a plea of guilty but mentally ill pursuant to this section, the court shall cause, within 5 business days after acceptance of the plea, on a form prescribed by the Department of Public Safety, a record of that plea to be transmitted to the Central Repository for Nevada Records of Criminal History along with a statement indicating that the record is being transmitted for inclusion in each appropriate database of the National Instant Criminal Background Check System.
- 11. As used in this section:
 - i. "Disease or defect of the mind" does not include a disease or defect which is caused solely by voluntary intoxication.
 - ii. "National Instant Criminal Background Check System" has the meaning ascribed to it in NRS 179A.062.

(b) Proceedings on plea of guilty or guilty but mentally ill in justice court or municipal court.³⁹ In a justice court or municipal court, if the defendant pleads guilty or guilty but mentally ill, the court may, before entering such a plea or pronouncing judgment, examine witnesses to ascertain the gravity of the offense committed. If it appears to the court that a higher offense has been committed than the offense charged in the complaint, the court may order the defendant to be committed or admitted to bail or to answer any indictment that may be found against the defendant or any information which may be filed by the district attorney.

(c) Plea bargaining: General requirements; prohibited agreements.⁵⁰

1. If a prosecuting attorney enters into an agreement with a defendant in which the defendant agrees to testify against another defendant in exchange for a plea of guilty, guilty but mentally ill or nolo contendere to a lesser charge or for a recommendation of a reduced sentence, the agreement:

- i. Is void if the defendant's testimony is false.
- ii. Must be in writing and include a statement that the agreement is void if the defendant's testimony is false.
- 2. A prosecuting attorney shall not enter into an agreement with a defendant which:
 - i. Limits the testimony of the defendant to a predetermined formula.
 - ii. Is contingent on the testimony of the defendant contributing to a specified conclusion.

(d) Written plea agreement for plea of guilty or guilty but mentally ill: Form; contents.⁵⁴

1. If a plea of guilty or guilty but mentally ill is made in a written plea agreement, the agreement must be substantially in the following form:

Case No. Dept. No.

IN THE JUDICIAL DISTRICT COURT OF THE STATE OF NEVADA IN AND FOR THE COUNTY OF......,

The State of Nevada, PLAINTIFF,

(Name of defendant), DEFENDANT.

GUILTY OR GUILTY BUT MENTALLY ILL PLEA AGREEMENT

I hereby agree to plead guilty or guilty but mentally ill to: (List charges to which defendant is pleading guilty or guilty but mentally ill), as more fully alleged in the charging document attached hereto as Exhibit 1.

My decision to plead guilty or guilty but mentally ill is based upon the plea agreement in this case which is as follows:

(State the terms of the agreement.)

CONSEQUENCES OF THE PLEA

I understand that by pleading guilty or guilty but mentally ill I admit the facts which support all the elements of the offenses to which I now plead as set forth in Exhibit 1.

I understand that as a consequence of my plea of guilty or guilty but mentally ill I may be imprisoned for a period of not more than (maximum term of imprisonment) and that I (may or will) be fined up to (maximum amount of fine). I understand that the law requires me to pay an administrative assessment fee.

I understand that, if appropriate, I will be ordered to make restitution to the victim of the offenses to which I am pleading guilty or guilty but mentally ill and to the victim of any related offense which is being dismissed or not prosecuted pursuant to this agreement. I will also be ordered to reimburse the State of Nevada for expenses relating to my extradition, if any.

I understand that I (am or am not) eligible for probation for the offense to which I am pleading guilty or guilty but mentally ill. (I understand that, except as otherwise provided by statute, the question of whether I receive probation is in the discretion of the sentencing judge, or I understand that I must serve a mandatory minimum term of (term of imprisonment) or pay a minimum mandatory fine of (amount of fine) or serve a mandatory minimum term (term of imprisonment) and pay a minimum mandatory fine of (amount of fine).)

I understand that if more than one sentence of imprisonment is imposed and I am eligible to serve the sentences concurrently, the sentencing judge has the discretion to order the sentences served concurrently or consecutively.

I understand that information regarding charges not filed, dismissed charges or charges to be dismissed pursuant to this agreement may be considered by the judge at sentencing.

I have not been promised or guaranteed any particular sentence by anyone. I know that my sentence is to be determined by the court within the limits prescribed by statute. I understand that if my attorney or the State of Nevada or both recommend any specific punishment to the court, the court is not obligated to accept the recommendation.

I understand that the Division of Parole and Probation of the Department of Public Safety may or will prepare a report for the sentencing judge before sentencing. This report will include matters relevant to the issue of sentencing, including my criminal history. I understand that this report may contain hearsay information regarding my background and criminal history. My attorney (if represented by counsel) and I will each have the opportunity to comment on the information contained in the report at the time of sentencing.

WAIVER OF RIGHTS

By entering my plea of guilty or guilty but mentally ill, I understand that I have waived the following rights and privileges:

1. The constitutional privilege against self-incrimination, including the right to refuse to testify at trial, in which event the prosecution would not be allowed to comment to the jury about my refusal to testify.

2. The constitutional right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury, free of excessive pretrial publicity prejudicial to the defense, at which trial I would be entitled to the assistance of an attorney, either appointed or retained. At trial, the State would bear the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt each element of the offense charged.

3. The constitutional right to confront and cross-examine any witnesses who would testify against me.

4. The constitutional right to subpoena witnesses to testify on my behalf.

5. The constitutional right to testify in my own defense.

6. The right to appeal the conviction, with the assistance of an attorney, either appointed or retained, unless the appeal is based upon reasonable constitutional, jurisdictional or other grounds that challenge the legality of the proceedings and except as otherwise provided in subsection 3 of NRS 174.035.

VOLUNTARINESS OF PLEA

I have discussed the elements of all the original charges against me with my attorney (if represented by counsel) and I understand the nature of these charges against me.

I understand that the State would have to prove each element of the charge against me at trial.

I have discussed with my attorney (if represented by counsel) any possible defenses and circumstances which might be in my favor.

All of the foregoing elements, consequences, rights and waiver of rights have been thoroughly explained to me by my attorney (if represented by counsel).

I believe that pleading guilty or guilty but mentally ill and accepting this plea bargain is in my best interest and that a trial would be contrary to my best interest.

I am signing this agreement voluntarily, after consultation with my attorney (if represented by counsel) and I am not acting under duress or coercion or by virtue of any promises of leniency, except for those set forth in this agreement.

I am not now under the influence of intoxicating liquor, a controlled substance or other drug which would in any manner impair my ability to comprehend or understand this agreement or the proceedings surrounding my entry of this plea.

My attorney (if represented by counsel) has answered all my questions regarding this guilty or guilty but mentally ill plea agreement and its consequences to my satisfaction and I am satisfied with the services provided by my attorney.

Dated: This day of the month of of the year

Agreed to on this day of the month of of the year

Deputy District Attorney.

2. If the defendant is represented by counsel, the written plea agreement must also include a certificate of counsel that is substantially in the following form:

1. I have fully explained to the defendant the allegations contained in the charges to which guilty or guilty but mentally ill pleas are being entered.

2. I have advised the defendant of the penalties for each charge and the restitution that the defendant may be ordered to pay.

3. All pleas of guilty or guilty but mentally ill offered by the defendant pursuant to this agreement are consistent with all the facts known to me and are made with my advice to the defendant and are in the best interest of the defendant.

4. To the best of my knowledge and belief, the defendant:

(a) Is competent and understands the charges and the consequences of pleading guilty or guilty but mentally ill as provided in this agreement.

(b) Executed this agreement and will enter all guilty or guilty but mentally ill pleas pursuant hereto voluntarily.

(c) Was not under the influence of intoxicating liquor, a controlled substance or other drug at the time of the execution of this agreement.

(e) When plea may specify degree of crime or punishment.⁴⁵ Except as otherwise provided in NRS 174.061:

- 1. On a plea of guilty or guilty but mentally ill to an information or indictment accusing a defendant of a crime divided into degrees, when consented to by the prosecuting attorney in open court and approved by the court, the plea may specify the degree, and in such event the defendant shall not be punished for a higher degree than that specified in the plea.
- 2. On a plea of guilty or guilty but mentally ill to an indictment or information for murder of the first degree, when consented to by the prosecuting attorney in open court and approved by the court, the plea may specify a punishment less than death. The specified punishment, or any lesser punishment, may be imposed by a single judge.

- 1. If a defendant was formerly acquitted on the ground of a variance between the indictment, information or complaint and proof, or the indictment, information, or complaint was dismissed upon an objection to its form or substance, or in order to hold a defendant for a higher offense without a judgment of acquittal, it is not an acquittal of the same offense.
- 2. If a defendant is acquitted on the merits, the defendant is acquitted of the same offense, notwithstanding a defect in the form or substance in the indictment, information, or complaint on which the trial was had.
- 3. When a defendant is convicted or acquitted, or has been once placed in jeopardy upon an indictment, information or complaint, except as otherwise provided in subsections 5 and 6, the conviction, acquittal or jeopardy is a bar to another indictment, information or complaint for the offense charged in the former, or for an attempt to commit the same, or for an offense necessarily included therein, of which the defendant might have been convicted under that indictment, information or complaint.

- ii. Rule 20 Motions

(a) In General

- 1. Requirement of writing and signature. A pretrial motion shall be in writing and signed by the party making the motion or the attorney for that party. Pretrial motions shall be filed within the time set forth in subdivision (d) of this rule. The writing and signature requirements may be waived by: (1) The opposing party; or (2) by Order of the Court after the moving party has demonstrated good cause as to why the Motion could not have been made in writing with the required notice to the opposing party[®].
- 2. Grounds and Affidavit. A pretrial motion shall state the grounds on which it is based and shall include in separately numbered paragraphs all reasons, defenses, or objections then available, which shall be set forth with particularity. If there are multiple charges, a motion filed pursuant to this rule shall specify the particular charge to which it applies. Grounds not stated which reasonably could have been known at the time a motion is filed shall be deemed to have been waived, but a judge for cause shown may grant relief from such waiver. In addition, an affidavit detailing all facts relied upon in support of the motion and signed by a person with personal knowledge of the factual basis of the motion shall be attached.
- 3. Service and Notice: A copy of any pretrial motion and supporting affidavits shall be served on all parties or their attorneys pursuant to Rule 32 at the time the originals are filed. Opposing affidavits shall be served not later than one day before the hearing. For cause shown the requirements of this subdivision may be waived by the court and the time for notice may be shortened.³⁹
- 4. Memoranda of Law: The court may require the filing of a memorandum of law, in such form and within such time as the court may direct, as a condition precedent to a hearing on a motion or interlocutory matter. A dispositive motion may not be filed unless accompanied by a memorandum of law, except when otherwise ordered by the court.
- 5. Renewal: Upon a showing that substantial justice requires and good cause similar to the require showing for a Rule 60(b) Motion under the Nevada Rules of Civil Procedure, the court may permit a pretrial motion which has been heard and denied to be renewed.
- 6. Certificate of Good Faith: A certificate of good faith ("certificate") must be filed with any motion, any opposition to a motion, or any reply to an opposition. The certificate shall be signed by the attorney representing the party. If the party is self-represented, the self-represented party must personally sign the certificate. The certificate must indicate that the pleading is filed in good faith and, to the best of the signer's knowledge, information, and belief, formed after an inquiry reasonable under the circumstances, that:

- i. The Motion is not being presented for any improper purpose, such as to harass or to cause unnecessary delay or needless increase in the cost of litigation; and
- ii. The claims asserted within the Motion are warranted by existing law or by a non-frivolous argument for the extension, modification, or reversal of existing law or the establishment of new law; and
- iii. The allegations and other factual contentions within the Motion have evidentiary support or, if specifically so identified, are likely to have evidentiary support after a reasonable opportunity for further investigation or discovery.

In the event that the Court or a party believes that the party/attorney has violated the representations in the certificate, the court may follow the procedure under Rule 11(c) of the Nevada Rules of Civil Procedure ("NRCP") in relation to sanctions and may impose such sanctions identified in NRCP Rule 11(c) against the party who violated the representations set forth in the certificate in filing a Motion, Opposition, or Reply.

(b) Procedure for Submission Of Motions

- 1. Response/Opposition to Motion: Unless otherwise ordered by the court, any response to a motion filed under NRS 174.105 shall be filed on or before the first business day which falls 10 calendar days, excluding holidays, after service of the motion.
- 2. Reply: Unless otherwise ordered by the court, any reply shall be filed on or before the judicial day which falls 5 calendar days after service of the response.
- 3. Request for Submission: If neither party has advised the court of the filing nor requested a hearing, when the time for filing a response to a motion and the reply has passed, either party may file a request that the motion be submitted for decision ("Request to Submit for Decision"). If a Request to Submit for Decision is filed, the pleading shall be a separate pleading so captioned. The Request to Submit for Decision shall state the date on which the motion was filed, the date on which any reply was filed. If no party files a written Request to Submit, or the motion has not otherwise been brought to the attention of the court, the motion will not be considered submitted for decision.

(c) Timing of Motions.

- 1. Thirty Days Rule: Unless otherwise ordered by the Court or set forth in these rules, all motions in a criminal prosecution that if granted will delay or postpone the time of trial, must be made at least 30 days before trial or prior to the pre-trial conference whichever occurs earlier, or at such time as otherwise order by the court, unless an opportunity to make such a motion before trial did not exist or the moving party was not aware of the grounds for the motion at least 45 days prior to the first day of trial.⁶⁰
- 2. Motion for Leave to file Untimely Motion: In the event that an opportunity to make such a motion before trial did not exist or the moving party was not aware of the grounds for the motion at least 45 days prior to the first day of trial:

⁶⁰ Based upon NRS 174.095 and replaces the distinction between single and multiple judge districts in NRS 174.125.

- If the basis or grounds for such a Motion are discovered prior to trial, a written Motion seeking leave to file the Untimely Motion, which complies with Rule 16, must be filed setting forth the justification for not raising the issue at an earlier date, together with the Motion; or
- ii. If the basis or grounds for such a Motion are discovered at trial, a verbal motion for leave may be made, which shall be supported by a statement made under oath, setting forth the justification for not filing a written Motion prior to trial.
- 3. Ruling on Motion for Leave to file Untimely Motion: In ruling on a Motion for Leave, the Court shall determine if the grounds exist to allow the untimely Motion by determining: (1) If the moving party exercised reasonable due diligence prior to seeking leave to file the motion⁶⁴; and (2) Good cause exists which justifies the proposed Motion being brought in an untimely manner. In analyzing the good cause grounds, the Court shall examine the adequacy of the moving party's reasons for failure to comply with applicable rules of procedure and whether the opposing party will be unfairly or unduly prejudiced by the untimely motion.

(d) Pre-Trial Motions For Self-Represented Defendants. Whenever an issue concerning the constitutionality of the use of specific evidence against the defendant raises before trial, and the defendant is not represented by counsel, the court shall inform the defendant that:

- 1. The defendant may, but need not, testify at a pretrial hearing regarding the circumstances surrounding the acquisition of the evidence;
- 2. If the defendant testifies at the hearing, he or she will be subject to cross-examination by the opposing party;
- 3. If the defendant does testify at the hearing, he or she does not waive his or her right to remain silent by so testifying; and
- 4. If the defendant does testify at the hearing, neither this fact nor his or her testimony at the hearing shall be mentioned to the jury unless he or she testifies at trial concerning the same matter.

(e) Defense Motions⁶².

- 1. All defenses available to a defendant by plea, other than not guilty, shall only be raised by a motion to dismiss or by a motion to grant appropriate relief.
- 2. Any defenses and objections based on defects in the institution of the prosecution or in the indictment, information, or complaint must be raised by motion before entry of plea, unless the Court permits the defendant to make file a written motion within a reasonable time thereafter.⁶⁵ This provision is subject to the following⁶⁴:

Based upon NRS 174.105.

⁶⁴ The good cause justification required by the rule are soundly based. A defendant waives the right to make certain motions (i.e. Motions to Suppress) if the Motion is not brought before trial commences. The purpose behind such a rule is centered on due process for the State and Defendant to have the issue properly before the Court and considered on its merits. For example, if the court grants a suppression motion and excludes evidence, the rule avoids having the prosecution's appeal rights inadvertently extinguished by double jeopardy protections. Trial courts must adjudicate any suppression issues prior to trial, absent good cause for delaying such rulings until trial. Cf. Jones v. State, 395 Md. 97, 909 A:2d 650, 659 (2006) (noting the Maryland procedural rule providing that suppression motions "shall be determined before trial" (citation omitted)). See also Hill v. State, 67862, 2016 WL 1616577, at *2 (Nev. App. Apr. 20, 2016) discussing that due diligence must be exercised.

- i. If a motion is determined adversely to the defendant, the defendant shall be permitted to plead if the defendant had not previously pleaded. A plea previously entered shall stand.
- ii. If the court grants such a motion, the court may also order that bail be continued for a reasonable and specified time pending the filing of a new indictment, information, or complaint.
- iii. Nothing in this provision shall be deemed to permit the relating back of a newly filed indictment, information, or complaint to the original filing date of the indictment, information, or complaint for purposes of a statute of limitations.
- 3. Any other defenses, objections or motions that are capable of determination without trial of the general issue must be raised by motion at least 30 days prior to the commencement of the trial, unless the moving party can demonstrate good cause in that either: (1) An opportunity to make such a motion before trial did not exist; or (2) The moving party was not aware of the grounds for the motion prior to trial.
- 4. Failure to present any such defense or objection as herein provided constitutes waiver thereof, but the court may, for good cause shown, grant relief from the waiver and permit them to be raised within a reasonable time thereafter.
- 5. Lack of jurisdiction or the failure of the indictment, information or complaint to charge an offense shall be noticed by the court at any time during the pendency of the proceeding.
- 6. TBD

(f) Amendment of Charging Document. If prior to the close of the State's Case In Chief, the prosecution discovers that the Information or Complaint needs to be amended because there exists a material variance between the evidence and the allegations of the pleading, the prosecutor may move to amend the pleadings to conform to the evidence. The Court may order that the Complaint or Information be amended to conform to the evidence or grant such other relief as justice requires.

(g) Dispositive Motions.

- 1. The following are considered Dispositive Motions and shall be raised by motion at least 30 days prior to trial, or at such time as otherwise ordered by the court if good cause exists to allow the Motion to be raised later:
 - i. Motions to suppress evidence on the grounds that the evidence was illegally obtained;
 - ii. Requests for a severance of charges or defendants;
 - iii. Matters which go to legality of arrest;
 - iv. All motions in limine to exclude or admit evidence;
 - v. Motions to dismiss based on former jeopardy;

⁶⁴ NRS 174.145 Effect of Determination.

- vi. Motion for the withdrawal of counsel;
- vii. Motions to admit other act evidence under NRS 48.035 or 48.045;
- viii. Motion to declare that Defendant is intellectually disabled; or
- ix. Motions which by their nature, if granted, delay or postpone the time of trial.
- 2. Motion to Suppress Evidence: A motion to suppress evidence under shall:
 - Describe with particularity the evidence and/or testimony sought to be suppressed;
 - ii. Set forth the standing of the movant to make the motion; and
 - iii. Provide specific sufficient legal and factual grounds for the motion to give the opposing party reasonable notice of the issues and enable the court to determine what proceedings are appropriate to address the issues and grounds so raised.
- 3. Motions to admit other act evidence under NRS 48.035 or 48.045. A Motion seeking to have a defendant declared intellectually disabled shall:
 - i. The party seeking to introduce the evidence must file a Motion which states with particularity the evidence and/or testimony sought to be introduced;
 - ii. The motion must state why the evidence is relevant to the crime charged and the particular portion of the statute that would allow its admission;
 - iii. At the hearing on the Motion, the party seeking to introduce the evidence must prove by clear and convincing evidence the particular act(s); and
 - iv. The motion and evidence must establish that the probative value is not substantially outweighed by the danger of unfair prejudice.
- 4. *Motion to declare that Defendant is intellectually disabled.*⁶⁶ A Motion seeking to have a defendant, who is charged with murder in the first degree and the State is seeking to impose the death penalty, declared intellectually disabled shall be subject to the following:
 - i. Be filed not less than 60⁶⁶ days prior the date set for the pre-trial conference⁶⁷, file a motion to declare that the defendant is intellectually disabled.
 - ii. If a defendant files a motion pursuant to this section, the court shall:
 - A. Stay the proceedings pending a decision on the issue of intellectual disability; and
 - B. Hold a hearing within a reasonable time before the trial to determine whether the defendant is intellectually disabled.
 - iii. The court shall order the defendant to:
 - A. Provide evidence which demonstrates that the defendant is intellectually disabled not less than 30 days before the date set for a hearing conducted pursuant to subsection (d)(ii); and ⁶⁶ NRS 174.098. This portion of the rule should be decided by the committee that is analyzing these issues and maybe a section of special death penalty case provisions should be created by a separate rule.

⁶⁷ Statute provides trial. One of the goals of the Motion committee was to have these issues addressed at earlier dates.

- B. Undergo an examination by an expert selected by the prosecution on the issue of whether the defendant is intellectually disabled at least 15 days before the date set for a hearing pursuant to subsection (d)(ii).
- iv. For the purpose of the hearing conducted pursuant to subsection (d)(ii), there is no privilege for any information or evidence provided to the prosecution or obtained by the prosecution pursuant to subsection (d)(iii).
- v. At a hearing conducted pursuant to subsection (d)(ii):
 - A. The court must allow the defendant and the prosecution to present evidence and conduct a cross-examination of any witness concerning whether the defendant is intellectually disabled; and
 - B. The defendant has the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that the defendant is intellectually disabled.
- vi. If the court determines based on the evidence presented at a hearing conducted pursuant to subsection 2 that the defendant is intellectually disabled, the court must make such a finding in the record and strike the notice of intent to seek the death penalty. Such a finding may be appealed pursuant to NRS 177.015.
- vii. For the purposes of this section of the Rule, "intellectually disabled" means significant subaverage general intellectual functioning which exists concurrently with deficits in adaptive behavior and manifested during the developmental period.

Rule 21 Joinder/Consolidation of Cases and Relief Therefrom

(a) Trial together of indictments or informations.⁶⁸ The court may order two or more indictments or informations or both to be tried together if the offenses, and the defendants if there is more than one, could have been joined in a single indictment or information. The procedure shall be the same as if the prosecution were under such single indictment or information.

(b) A motion to consolidate cases.⁴⁹ A motion to consolidate cases shall be heard by the judge assigned to the first case filed. Notice of a motion to consolidate cases shall be given to all parties in each case. The order denying or granting the motion shall be filed in each case.

(c) Case number.⁷⁰ If a motion to consolidate is granted, the case number of the first case filed shall be used for all subsequent papers and the case shall be heard by the judge assigned to the first case. The presiding judge may assign the case to another judge for good cause.

(d) Relief from prejudicial joinder."

- 1. If it appears that a defendant or the State of Nevada is prejudiced by a joinder of offenses or of defendants in an indictment or information, or by such joinder for trial together, the court may order an election or separate trials of counts, grant a severance of defendants or provide whatever other relief justice requires.
- 2. In ruling on a motion by a defendant for severance the court may order the district attorney to deliver to the court for inspection in chambers any statements or confessions made by the defendants which the State intends to introduce in evidence at the trial.

(b) When taken.⁷⁸

- 1. If it appears that a prospective witness is an older person or a vulnerable person or may be unable to attend or prevented from attending a trial or hearing, that the witness's testimony is material and that it is necessary to take the witness's deposition in order to prevent a failure of justice, the court at any time after the filing of an indictment, information or complaint may, upon motion of a defendant or of the State and notice to the parties, order that the witness's testimony be taken by deposition and that any designated books, papers, documents or tangible objects, not privileged, be produced at the same time and place. If the motion is for the deposition of an older person or a vulnerable person, the court may enter an order to take the deposition only upon good cause shown to the court. If the deposition is taken upon motion of the State, the court shall order that it be taken under such conditions as will afford to each defendant the opportunity to confront the witnesses against him or her.
- 2. If a witness is committed for failure to give bail to appear to testify at a trial or hearing, the court, on written motion of the witness and upon notice to the parties, may direct that the witness's deposition be taken. After the deposition has been subscribed, the court may discharge the witness.
- 3. This section does not apply to the prosecutor, or to an accomplice in the commission of the offense charged.

The notice shall state the name and address of each person to be examined. On motion of a party upon whom the notice is served, the court for cause shown may extend or shorten the time.

(d) Defendant's counsel and payment of expenses.⁷⁸ If a defendant is without counsel the court shall advise the defendant of his or her right and assign counsel to represent the defendant unless the defendant elects to proceed without counsel or is able to obtain counsel. If it appears that a defendant at whose instance a deposition is to be taken cannot bear the expense thereof, the court may direct that the expenses of the court reporter and of travel and subsistence of the defendant's attorney for attendance at the examination must be paid as provided in NRS 7.135.

 - ii. A prospective witness in any criminal prosecution if the witness is less than 14 years of age; or
 - iii. A victim of sex trafficking as that term is defined in subsection 2 of NRS 201.300. There is a rebuttable presumption that good cause exists where the district attorney seeks to take the deposition of a person alleged to be the victim of sex trafficking.

The court may specify the time and place for taking the deposition and the persons who may be present when it is taken.

- 2. The district attorney shall give every other party reasonable written notice of the time and place for taking the deposition. The notice must include the name of the person to be examined. On the motion of a party upon whom the notice is served, the court:

 - i. Before the deposition is taken, a hearing is held by a justice of the peace or district judge who finds that:
 - A. The use of the videotaped deposition in lieu of testimony at trial is necessary to protect the welfare of the victim; and
 - B. The presence of the accused at trial would inflict trauma, more than minimal in degree, upon the victim; and
 - ii. At the time a party seeks to use the deposition, the court determines that the conditions set forth in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of paragraph (a) continue to exist. The court may hold a hearing before the use of the deposition to make its determination.
 - 2. In the case of a victim of sex trafficking as that term is defined in subsection 2 of NRS 201.300:
 - i. Before the deposition is taken, a hearing is held by a justice of the peace or district judge and the justice or judge finds that cause exists pursuant to paragraph (c) of subsection 1 of NRS 174.227; and

(f) Place of service.⁹⁵ A subpoena requiring the attendance of a witness at a hearing or trial may be served at any place within the State of Nevada.

(g) Subpoena for taking depositions; place of examination.⁹⁶

- 1. An order to take a deposition authorizes the issuance by the clerk of the court for the county in which the deposition is to be taken of subpoenas for the persons named or described therein.
- 2. A resident of this state may be required to attend an examination only in the county wherein the resident resides or is employed or transacts business in person. A nonresident of this state may be required to attend only in the county where the nonresident is served with a subpoena or within 40 miles from the place of service or at such other place as is fixed by the court.

(h) Contempt.⁹⁷ Failure by any person without an adequate excuse to obey a subpoena of a court, a prosecuting attorney or an attorney for a defendant served upon the person or, in the case of a subpoena issued by a prosecuting attorney or an attorney for a defendant, delivered to the person and accepted, shall be deemed a contempt of the court from which the subpoena issued or, in the case of a subpoena issued by a prosecuting attorney or an attorney for a defendant, of the court in which a preliminary hearing is to be held, an investigation is pending or an indictment, information or complaint is to be tried.

Rule 25 Attendance of Witness Outside State

(a) Definitions.⁹⁸ As used in NRS 174.395 to 174.445, inclusive:

- 1. "State" shall include any territory of the United States and the District of Columbia.
- 2. "Summons" shall include a subpoena, order or other notice requiring the appearance of a witness.
- 3. "Witness" shall include a person whose testimony is desired in any proceeding or investigation by a grand jury or in a criminal action, prosecution or proceeding.

(b) Summoning witness in this State to testify in another state.⁹⁹

- 1. If a judge of a court of record in any state which by its laws has made provision for commanding persons within that state to attend and testify in this State certifies under the seal of such court that there is a criminal prosecution pending in such court, or that a grand jury investigation has commenced or is about to commence, that a person being within this State is a material witness in such prosecution, or grand jury investigation, and that the person's presence will be required for a specified number of days, upon presentation of such certificate to any judge of a court of record in the county in which such person is, such judge shall fix a time and place for a hearing, and shall make an order directing the witness to appear at a time and place certain for the hearing.
- 2. If at a hearing the judge determines that the witness is material and necessary, that it will not cause undue hardship to the witness to be compelled to attend and testify in the prosecution or a grand jury investigation in the other state, and that the laws of the state in which the prosecution is pending, or grand jury investigation has commenced or is about to commence (and of any other state through which the witness may be required to pass by ordinary course of travel), will give the witness protection from arrest and the service of civil and criminal process, the judge shall issue a summons, with a copy of the certificate attached, directing the witness to attend and testify in the court where the prosecution is pending, or where a grand jury investigation has commenced or is about to commence at a time and place specified in the summons. In any such hearing the certificate shall be prima facie evidence of all the facts stated therein.
- 3. If the certificate recommends that the witness be taken into immediate custody and delivered to an officer of the requesting state to assure the witness's attendance in the requesting state, such judge may, in lieu of notification of the hearing, direct that such witness be forthwith brought before the judge for hearings; and the judge at the hearing being satisfied of the desirability of such custody and delivery, for which determination the certificate shall be prima facie proof of such desirability, may, in lieu of issuing subpoena or summons, order that the witness be forthwith taken into custody and delivered to an officer of the requesting state.
- 4. If the witness, who is summoned as above provided, after being paid or tendered by some properly authorized person the amount required by NRS 50.225 for subsistence and travel expenses, fails without good cause to attend and testify as directed in the summons, the witness shall be punished in the manner provided for the punishment of any witness who disobeys a summons issued from a court of record in this State.

(c) Witness from another state summoned to testify in this State.¹⁰⁰

- 1. If a person in any state, which by its laws has made provision for commanding persons within its borders to attend and testify in criminal prosecutions, or grand jury investigations commenced or about to commence, in this State, is a material witness in a prosecution pending in a court of record in this State, or in a grand jury investigation which has commenced or is about to commence, a judge of such a court may issue a certificate under the seal of the court stating these facts and specifying the number of days the witness will be required. The certificate may include a recommendation that the witness be taken into immediate custody and delivered to an officer of this State to ensure the witness's attendance in this State. This certificate must be presented to a judge of a court of record in the county in which the witness is found.
- 2. If the witness is summoned to attend and testify in this State the witness is entitled to receive the amount required by NRS 50.225 for subsistence and travel expenses. A witness who has appeared in accordance with the provisions of the summons shall not be required to remain within this State a longer period of time than the period mentioned in the certificate unless otherwise ordered by the court. If such witness, after coming into this State, fails without good cause to attend and testify as directed in the summons, the witness shall be punished in the manner provided for the punishment of any witness who disobeys a summons issued from a court of record in this State.

(d) Exemption from arrest and service of process.¹⁰¹

- If a person comes into this state in obedience to a summons directing the person to attend and testify in this state the person shall not while in this state pursuant to such summons be subject to arrest or the service of process, civil or criminal, in connection with matters which arose before the person's entrance into this state under the summons.
- 2. If a person passes through this state while going to another state in obedience to a summons to attend and testify in that state or while returning therefrom, the person shall not while so passing through this state be subject to arrest or the service of process, civil or criminal, in connection with matters which arose before the person's entrance into this state under the summons.

Rule 26 Pre-trial Conference¹⁰³

(a) Pre-trial Conference. Unless otherwise ordered by the trial court, the trial court shall hold a scheduled mandatory pre-trial conference with trial counsel present at least 30 days prior to a trial to consider such matters as will promote a fair and expeditious trial. The defendant shall be present unless he waives his right to appear and the Court orders that the Defendant not be required to appear.

(b) Dispositive Motions. Any motion, defense or objection not previously raised by motion prior to the pre-trial conference as required under the Nevada Rules of Criminal Procedure shall be precluded, unless the basis thereof was not then known, and by the exercise of reasonable diligence could not then have been known, and the party raises the issue promptly upon learning of it.

(c) Issues, Jury Instructions. The parties shall identify the issues of fact which must be determined at trial by the trier of fact and, if a jury trial is to be held, provide the Court with written jury instructions for consideration.

(d) Pretrial Order. At the conclusion of the conference, a pretrial order shall set out the matters ruled upon. Any stipulations made shall be signed by counsel, approved by the court and filed, and shall be binding upon the parties at trial, on appeal, and in postconviction proceedings unless set aside or modified by the court.

TITLE V. VENUE

Rule 29 Disability/Disqualification Of A Judge

(a) Disability After Start Of Trial. If, by reason of death, sickness, or other disability, the judge before whom a trial has begun is unable to continue with the trial, any other judge of that court or any judge assigned by the Administrative Office of the Courts, upon certifying that the judge is familiar with the record of the trial, may, unless otherwise disqualified, proceed with and finish the trial, but if the assigned judge is satisfied that neither he nor another substitute judge can proceed with the trial, the judge may, in his discretion, grant a new trial.

(b) Disability After Trial Completed, Prior To Sentencing. If, by reason of death, sickness, or other disability, the judge before whom a defendant has been tried is unable to perform the duties required of the court after a verdict of guilty, any other judge of that district or township or any other judge assigned by the Administrative Office of the Courts may perform those duties.

(c) Disqualification of Judge:

- Disqualification of a Judge is governed by NRS 1.230 et. seq. and the Nevada Code of Judicial Conduct ("NCJC"). The party seeking disqualification must file a Motion to Disqualify and shall comply with the provisions in Rule  pertaining to Motions.
- 2. If a Motion to Disqualify is filed, the other parties to the action may not file an opposition to the motion and if any response is filed it will not be considered. The moving party need not file a Request to Submit for Decision. The motion will be submitted for decision upon filing in accordance with the NRS 1.235 and may be decided under the statutory provision in chapter 1 of the NRS or under NCJC.
- Should the assigned judge file an answer in response to the Motion for Disqualification in accordance with NRS 1.235(6), no party is allowed to file a responsive pleading to the Answer filed by the judge.

Rule 30 Change of Judge As A Matter of Right¹⁰⁴

(a) Notice of change. In any criminal action commenced after July 1, 2019 in any district or justice court, all parties joined in the action may, by unanimous agreement and without cause, change the judge assigned to the action by filing a written notice of a peremptory challenge and request for change of judge.

(b) Contents of Notice. The parties shall send a copy of the notice to the assigned judge, and, in districts with more than one judge, to the presiding judge. The notice shall be signed by: The district attorney or assigned deputy district attorney; The Defendant(s) personally; and By each attorney appearing in the action as a representative of a defendant to the action. The notice shall state in separate clearly identified sections:

- 1. The name of the assigned judge;
- 2. The date on which the action was commenced through the filing of a complaint in the justice's court;
- 3. That all parties joined in the action have agreed to the change;
- 4. That no other persons are expected to be named as parties;
- 5. Either:
 - i. The date of the advisement/arraignment of the charges on a misdemeanor in justice's court;
 - ii. The date of the bindover/indictment on a felony or gross misdemeanor charge in a single judge district; or
 - iii. The date of arraignment in a multiple judge district; and
 - That a good faith effort has been made to serve all parties named in the pleadings.

Failure to follow the exact requirements of this subsection renders the notice invalid and precludes any change of judge under this rule.

(c) Restrictions. The notice shall not specify any reason for the change of judge. Under no circumstances shall more than one change of judge be allowed under this rule in any action. A change of judge under this rule is available only after a judge has been assigned to the case for arraignment or for preliminary hearing. A notice of change may not be filed during a preliminary examination.

(d) Time. The notice shall be filed: (1) To remove the assigned justice of the peace: (i) Ten days after the filing in the Justice's Court of a complaint alleging a felony or gross misdemeanor charge; or (ii) Within ten calendar days after the arraignment on a misdemeanor in the justice's court; and (2) To remove the assigned district judge: (i) No later than fourteen (14) days after bind-over from justice's court to the district court, or the indictment, in a single judge district; and (ii) No later than ten (10) days after arraignment in a district with more than one judge. Failure to file a timely notice renders the notice invalid and precludes any change of judge under this rule.

(c) Assignment of Action. Upon the filing of a timely, valid, and complete notice of change, the assigned judge shall take no further action in the case and shall transfer the case accordingly. If the assigned judge determines that the notice is invalid, the judge shall make specific findings as to the assigned judge's determination as to why the notice is invalid. The judge shall refer the matter for ruling as to whether the notice is invalid to another judge. In a single judge district court, the referral shall be to a consenting judge in another district. In multi-judge district court or justice's court, the matter shall be referred to another judge in either the district or township. In a single judge justice's court, the referral shall either be referred to the district judge or to a justice of the peace in another township. If the second judge determines that the notice is valid, the matter shall be assigned to another judge. If the second judge determines that the notice is invalid, the matter shall continue to be heard by the judge assigned prior to the notice being filed.

(f) Nondisclosure to Court. No party shall communicate to the court, or cause another to communicate to the court, the fact of any party's seeking consent to a notice of change.

(f) Rule * Unaffected. This rule does not affect any rights under Rule **.

Rule 31 Transfer of Venue

(a) Transfer of Venue: In the District Courts, if a party believes that a fair and impartial jury trial cannot be had in the court location or in the county where the action is pending, that party may move to have the trial of the case take place with a jury from another county or the case transferred to a court location in a county where a fair trial may be held.¹⁰⁵ Such motion may not be granted until after the voir dire examination of the jury has concluded and it is apparent to the court that the selection of a fair and impartial jury cannot be had in the county where the indictment, information or complaint is pending.¹⁰⁶

(b) Application for removal: Making and service; hearing and determination in absence of defendant.¹⁰⁷

- 1. The application for removal must be made in open court, and in writing, verified by the affidavit of the defendant or district attorney, and a copy of the affidavit must be served on the adverse party, at least 1 day prior to the hearing of the application.
- 2. The application may be supported or opposed by other affidavits or other evidence, or other witnesses may be examined in open court.
- 3. Whenever the affidavit of the defendant shows that the defendant cannot safely appear in person to make such application, because popular prejudice is so great as to endanger the defendant's personal safety, and such statement is sustained by other testimony, such application may be made by the defendant's attorney and must be heard and determined in the absence of the defendant, notwithstanding the charge then pending against the defendant be a felony, and the defendant has not, at the time of such application, been arrested or given bail, or been arraigned, or pleaded to the indictment or information.

(c) Grounds. The party seeking a change of venue must prove to the judge at a hearing on the motion, through competent and admissible evidence, that:

- 1. The community hosting the trial will not yield a jury qualified to deliberate impartially, and solely upon competent trial evidence, the guilt or innocence of the accused;¹⁰⁸
- 2. The extent of inflammatory pretrial publicity and demonstrate that such publicity would corrupt the trial; and
- 3. Jurors harbor preconceived notions of guilt or innocence that existed prior to their call to jury service and that such notions cannot be set aside, and that the Jurors cannot fairly and impartially render a verdict based upon the trial evidence.¹⁰⁹
- 4. If the court is satisfied that the evidence presented demonstrates that a change of jury pool or location is justified, the court shall enter an order transferring the case, or ¹⁰⁵ NRS § 174.455 (1): A criminal action prosecuted by indictment, information or complaint may be removed from the court in which it is pending, on application of the defendant or state, on the ground that a fair and impartial trial cannot be had in the county where the indictment, information or complaint is pending.

NRS § 174.455 (2): An application for removal of a criminal action shall not be granted by the court until after the voir dire examination has been conducted and it is apparent to the court that the selection of a fair and impartial jury cannot be had in the county where the indictment, information or complaint is pending.

selecting a jury from a county free from prejudice. If the court is not satisfied that the evidence demonstrates that a change of jury pool or location is justified, the court shall either enter an order denying the motion. or order a hearing to receive further evidence with respect to the alleged prejudice and resolve the matter.¹¹⁰

5. In the justice courts, if a party believes that a fair and impartial trial cannot be had in the court location or in the county where the action is pending, that party may move to have the trial of the case take place with a jury from another county or in a court location where a fair trial may be held. Such motion shall be supported by an affidavit setting forth facts. If the trial involves a jury, the rules applicable to the District Court should be followed.

(d) Time for Filing. A motion filed pursuant to this Rule 30 shall be filed not later than 14 days after the party learns or with the exercise of reasonable diligence should have learned of the grounds upon which the motion is based. If the party fails to allege facts and circumstances that would justify the Court in concluding that the motion was timely under this subsection, the Court may consider said failure in making a ruling on the Motion.

(e) Entry of order of removal; transmittal of papers.¹¹¹ The order of removal must be entered on the minutes, and the clerk must immediately make out and transmit to the court to which the action is removed a certified copy of the order of removal, record, pleadings, and proceedings in the action, including the undertakings for the appearance of the defendant and of the witnesses.

(f) Proceedings on removal when defendant is in custody.¹¹² If the defendant is in custody, the order must direct the defendant's removal and the defendant must be forthwith removed by the sheriff of the county where the defendant is imprisoned, to the custody of the sheriff of the county to which the action is removed.

(g) Authority of court to which action is removed; transmission of original papers.¹¹³ The court to which the action is removed must proceed to trial and judgment therein as if the action had been commenced in such court. If it is necessary to have any of the original pleadings or other papers before such court, the court from which the action is removed must, at any time, on the application of the district attorney or the defendant, order such papers or pleadings to be transmitted by the clerk, a certified copy thereof being retained.

TITLE VI. TRIAL

Rule 34 Time of Trial

(a) Right of State to trial within 60 days after arraignment; exceptions.¹¹⁴ The State, upon demand, has the right to a trial of the defendant within 60 days after arraignment. The court may postpone the trial if:

- 1. It finds that more time is needed by the defendant to prepare a defense; or
- 2. The number of other cases pending in the court prohibits the acceptance of the case for trial within that time.

(b) Postponement: When and how ordered; court may require depositions of and undertakings by witnesses; court may consider adverse effect upon child who is victim or witness.¹¹⁵

- 1. When an action is called for trial, or at any time previous thereto, the court may, upon sufficient cause shown by either party by affidavit, direct the trial to be postponed to another day. In all cases where a continuance is granted upon the application of either party the court may require, as a condition of granting such continuance, that the party applying therefor consent to taking, forthwith, or at any time to be fixed by the court, of the deposition of any witness summoned by the opposite party whose deposition has not previously been taken.
- 2. The court also may require all witnesses to enter into undertakings in such sum as the court may order, with or without sureties, to appear and testify on the day to which the case may be continued, but any witness who is unable to procure sureties for the witness's attendance may be discharged on the witness's own recognizance, upon giving a deposition in the manner prescribed in NRS 174.175 and 174.205.
- 3. If the trial involves acts committed against a child less than 16 years of age or involving acts witnessed by a child less than 16 years of age, the court may consider any adverse effect a continuance or other postponement might have upon the mental or emotional health or well-being of the child. The court may deny a continuance or other postponement if the delay will adversely affect the mental or emotional health or well-being of the child.

(c) Request for preference in setting date for trial where child is victim or witness; court may consider effect on child of delay in commencement of trial.¹¹⁶ If the trial involves acts committed against a child less than 16 years of age or involving acts witnessed by a child less than 16 years of age, the prosecuting attorney shall request the court, in its discretion, to give preference in setting a date for the trial of the defendant. In making a ruling, the court may consider the effect a delay in the commencement of the trial might have on the mental or emotional health or well-being of the child.

Rule 35 Selection Of The Jury

(a) Trial by Jury.¹¹⁷

- 1. In a district court, cases required to be tried by jury must be so tried unless the defendant waives a jury trial in writing with the approval of the court and the consent of the State. A defendant who pleads not guilty to the charge of a capital offense must be tried by jury.
- In a Justice Court, a case must be tried by jury only if the defendant so demands in writing not less than 30 days before trial. Except as otherwise provided in NRS 4.390 and 4.400, if a case is tried by jury, a reporter must be present who is a certified court reporter and shall report the trial.

(b) Formation of jury; number of jurors.¹¹⁸

- 1. Trial juries for criminal actions are formed in the same manner as trial juries in civil actions.¹¹⁹
- 2. Except as provided in subsection 3, juries must consist of 12 jurors, but at any time before verdict, the parties may stipulate in writing with the approval of the court that the jury consist of any number less than 12 but not less than six.
- 3. Juries must consist of six jurors for the trial of a criminal action in a Justice Court.

(c) Examination of trial jurors.¹³⁰ The court shall conduct the initial examination of prospective jurors, and defendant or the defendant's attorney and then the district attorney are entitled to supplement the examination by such further inquiry as the court deems proper. Any supplemental examination must not be unreasonably restricted. Examination may be limited by the Court to issues regarding grounds for disqualification.

(d) Challenges for cause for individual jurors: Grounds; trial of challenge.¹⁹¹

- 1. Either side may challenge an individual juror for disqualification or for any cause or favor which would prevent the juror from adjudicating the facts fairly, including:¹²²
 - i. Want of any of the qualifications prescribed by law.
 - ii. Any mental or physical infirmity which renders one incapable of performing the duties of a juror.
 - iii. Consanguinity or affinity within the fourth degree to the person alleged to be injured by the offense charged, or on whose complaint the prosecution was instituted.
 - iv. The existence of any social, legal, business, fiduciary or other relationship between the prospective juror and any party, witness or person alleged to have been victimized or injured by the defendant, which relationship when viewed objectively, would suggest to reasonable minds that the prospective juror would be unable or unwilling to return a verdict which would be free of favoritism. prospective juror shall not be disqualified solely because the juror is indebted to or employed by the state or a political subdivision thereof.

- Having been or being the party adverse to the defendant in a civil action, or having complained against or having been accused by the defendant in a criminal prosecution.
- vi. Having served on the grand jury which found the indictment.
- vii. Having served on a trial jury which has tried another person for the particular offense charged.
- viii. Having been one of a jury formally sworn to try the same charge, and whose verdict was set aside, or which was discharged without a verdict after the case was submitted to it.
- ix. Having served as a juror in a civil action brought against the defendant for the act charged as an offense.
- x. If the offense charged is punishable with death, the juror's views on capital punishment would prevent or substantially impair the performance of the juror's duties as a juror in accordance with the instructions of the court and the juror's oath in subsection (*).
- xi. Because the juror is or, within one year preceding, has been engaged or interested in carrying on any business, calling or employment, the carrying on of which is a violation of law, where defendant is charged with a like offense.
- xii. Because the juror has been a witness, either for or against the defendant on the preliminary examination or before the grand jury.
- xiii. Having formed or expressed an unqualified opinion or belief as to whether the defendant is guilty or not guilty of the offense charged.
- xiv. Conduct, responses, state of mind or other circumstances that reasonably lead the court to conclude the juror is not likely to act impartially. No person may serve as a juror, if challenged, unless the judge is convinced the juror can and will act impartially and fairly.
- 2. Challenges for cause shall be tried by the court. The juror challenged and any other person may be examined as a witness on the trial of the challenge. Challenges for cause shall be completed before peremptory challenges are taken.

(e) Limitation of defendants' right to sever in challenges.¹²⁸ When several defendants are tried together, they cannot sever their peremptory challenges, but must join therein.

(f) Number of peremptory challenges.¹⁴ A peremptory challenge is an objection to a juror for which no reason need be given. If there is more than one defendant the court may allow the defendants additional peremptory challenges and permit them to be exercised separately or jointly.

- 1. If the offense charged is punishable by death or by imprisonment for life, each side is entitled to eight peremptory challenges.
- 2. If the offense charged is punishable by imprisonment for any other term or by fine or by both fine and imprisonment, each side is entitled to four peremptory challenges.
- 3. The State and the defendant shall exercise their challenges alternately, in that order. Any challenge not exercised in its proper order is waived.

¹²⁴ NRS 175.051.

(g) Alternate jurors.¹²⁵

- 1. The court may direct that not more than six jurors in addition to the regular jury be called and impaneled to sit as alternate jurors.
- 2. Alternate jurors, in the order in which they were called, shall replace jurors who become unable or disqualified to perform their duties.
- 3. Alternate jurors shall:
 - i. Be drawn in the same manner;
 - ii. Have the same qualifications;
 - iii. Be subject to the same examination and challenges;
 - iv. Take the same oath; and
 - v. Have the same functions, powers, facilities and privileges, as the regular jurors.
- 4. If an alternate juror is required to replace a regular juror after the jury has retired to consider its verdict, the judge shall recall the jury, seat the alternate and resubmit the case to the jury.
- 5. Each side is entitled to one peremptory challenge in addition to those otherwise allowed by law if one or two alternate jurors are to be impaneled, two peremptory challenges if three or four alternate jurors are to be impaneled, and three peremptory challenges if five or six alternate jurors are to be impaneled. The additional peremptory challenges may be used against an alternate juror only, and the other peremptory challenges allowed by statute may not be used against an alternate juror.
- (h) Oath of jurors.¹⁸⁶ When the jury has been impaneled, the court shall administer the following oath:

Do you and each of you solemnly swear that you will well and truly try this case, now pending before this court, and a true verdict render according to the evidence given, so help you God.

(i) Personal knowledge of jurors.¹²⁷

- 1. The judge shall then admonish the jury that:
 - i. No juror may declare to any fellow jurors any fact relating to the case as of the juror's own knowledge; and
 - ii. If any juror discovers during the trial or after the jury has retired that he or she or any other juror has personal knowledge of any fact in controversy in the case, the juror shall disclose such situation to the judge out of the presence of the other jurors.
- 2. When any such disclosure is made, the judge shall examine the juror who admits or is alleged to have personal knowledge, under oath, in the presence of counsel for the parties, and may allow such counsel to examine the juror.
- 3. If the juror has disclosed the juror's own knowledge to the judge and it appears that the juror has not declared any fact relating to the case to any fellow jurors as of the juror's own knowledge, the judge shall after the examination decide whether the juror shall remain or shall be replaced by an alternate juror.

¹²⁵ NRS 175.061.

4. If it appears that the juror has declared any fact relating to the case to any fellow jurors as of the juror's own knowledge, or that the juror's vote was influenced by such knowledge undisclosed, the judge shall declare a mistrial.

(j) Judge to inform jury of right to take notes.¹³⁸ Before any evidence has been introduced the judge may inform the jury they may individually take notes during the trial, but the judge shall further caution them not to rely upon their respective notes in case of conflict among them, because the reporter's notes contain the complete and authentic record of the trial.

(k) Discharge of juror where juror dies or unable to perform duty.¹⁹⁹ If, before the conclusion of the trial, and there being no alternate juror called or available, a juror dies, or becomes disqualified or unable to perform the juror's duty, the court may duly order the juror to be discharged and a new juror may be sworn and the trial begun anew, or the jury may be discharged and a new jury then or afterward impaneled.

(l) Discharge of jury after retirement upon accident or cause.¹⁸⁰ If, after the retirement of the jury, any accident or cause occurs to prevent their being kept for deliberation, the jury may be discharged.

- 1. In prosecutions of misdemeanors and infractions, the defendant may consent in writing to trial in his absence;
- 2. In prosecutions for offenses not punishable by death, the defendant's voluntary absence from the trial after notice to defendant of the time for trial shall not prevent the case from being tried and a verdict or judgment entered therein shall have the same effect as if defendant had been present; and
- 3. The court may exclude or excuse a defendant from trial for good cause shown which may include tumultuous, riotous, or obstreperous conduct.

Upon application of the prosecution, the court may require the personal attendance of the defendant at the trial.

(b) Calendar Priorities.¹⁸⁹ Cases shall be set on the trial calendar to be tried in the following order:

- 1. misdemeanor cases when defendant is in custody;
- 2. felony cases when defendant is in custody;
- 3. felony cases when defendant is on bail or recognizance; and
- 4. misdemeanor cases when defendant is on bail or recognizance.

(c) Order of trial.¹³⁸ The jury having been impaneled and sworn, the trial shall proceed in the following order:

- 1. If the indictment or information be for a felony or gross misdemeanor, the clerk must read it and state the plea of the defendant to the jury. In all other cases this formality may be dispensed with.
- 2. The district attorney, or other counsel for the State, must open the cause. The defendant or the defendant's counsel may then either make the defendant's opening statement or reserve it to be made immediately prior to the presentation of evidence in the defendant's behalf.
- 3. The State must then offer its evidence in support of the charge, and the defendant may then offer evidence in his or her defense.
- 4. The parties may then respectively offer rebutting testimony only, unless the court, for good reasons, in furtherance of justice, permit them to offer evidence upon their original cause.
- 5. When the evidence is concluded, unless the case is submitted to the jury on either side, or on both sides, without argument, the district attorney, or other counsel for the State, must open and must conclude the argument.

(d) Number of counsel who may argue case.¹⁸⁴ If the indictment or information be for an offense punishable with death, two counsel on each side may argue the case to the jury, but in such case, as well as in all others, the counsel for the State must open and conclude the argument. If it be for any other offense, the court may, in its discretion, restrict the argument to one counsel on each side.

- (e) Presumption of innocence: Acquittal in case of reasonable doubt.¹⁸⁵ A defendant in a criminal action is presumed to be innocent until the contrary is proved; and in case of a reasonable doubt whether the defendant's guilt is satisfactorily shown, the defendant is entitled to be acquitted.
- (f) Presumption of innocence: Conviction of lowest degree of offense.¹⁸⁶ Every person charged with the commission of a crime shall be presumed innocent until the contrary is proved by competent evidence beyond a reasonable doubt; and when an offense has been proved against the person, and there exists a reasonable doubt as to which of two or more degrees the person is guilty, the person shall be convicted only of the lowest.
- (g) Definition of reasonable doubt; no other definition to be given to juries.¹³⁷ The jury must be instructed on the definition of reasonable doubt.
 - 1. Definition of Reasonable Doubt A reasonable doubt is one based on reason. It is not mere possible doubt, but is such a doubt as would govern or control a person in the more weighty affairs of life. If the minds of the jurors, after the entire comparison and consideration of all the evidence, are in such a condition that they can say they feel an abiding conviction of the truth of the charge, there is not a reasonable doubt. Doubt to be reasonable must be actual, not mere possibility or speculation.
 - 2. No other definition of reasonable doubt may be given by the court to juries in criminal actions in this State.

(h) Evidence.188

- 1. In all trials the testimony of witnesses shall be taken orally in open court, unless otherwise provided by statute.
- 2. The admissibility of evidence and the competency and privileges of witnesses shall be governed by:
 - i. The general provisions of title 4 of NRS;
 - ii. The Rules of Evidence;
 - iii. The specific provisions of any other applicable statute; and
 - iv. Where no statute applies, the principles of the common law as they may be interpreted by the courts of the State of Nevada in the light of reason and experience.

(i) Proof of corporate existence generally.¹⁹⁹ If, upon a trial or proceeding in a criminal case, the existence, constitution or powers of any corporation shall become material, or be in any way drawn in question, it is not necessary to produce a certified copy of the articles or acts of incorporation, but the same may be proved by general reputation, or by the printed statutes of the state, or government, or country by which such corporation was created.

(j) Conspiracy: Allegation and proof of overt act; evidence of overt acts not alleged.¹⁴⁰ Upon a trial for conspiracy, in a case where an overt act shall be necessary to constitute the offense, the defendant shall not be convicted unless one or more overt acts shall be expressly alleged in the indictment or information, nor unless one of the acts alleged shall have been proved; but other overt acts not alleged may be given in evidence.

(k) False pretenses: What evidence necessary.¹⁴ Upon a trial for having, with an intent to cheat or defraud another designedly, by any false pretense, obtained the signature of any person, to a written instrument, or having obtained from any person any money, personal property, or valuable thing, the defendant shall not be convicted if the false pretense shall have been expressed in language, unaccompanied by a false token or writing, unless the pretense or some note or memorandum thereof be in writing, subscribed by or in the handwriting of the defendant, or unless the pretense be proved by the testimony of two witnesses, or that of one witness and corroborating circumstances; but this section shall not apply to a prosecution for falsely representing or personating another, and, in such assumed character, marrying, or receiving any money or property.

(l) Plea bargain: Inspection by jury; instruction of jury; cross-examination of defendant.¹⁴ If a prosecuting attorney enters into an agreement with a defendant in which the defendant agrees to testify against another defendant in exchange for a plea of guilty, guilty but mentally ill or nolo contendere to a lesser charge or for a recommendation of a reduced sentence, the court shall:

- 1. After excising any portion it deems irrelevant or prejudicial, permit the jury to inspect the agreement;
- 2. If the defendant who is testifying has not entered a plea or been sentenced pursuant to the agreement, instruct the jury regarding the possible related pressures on the defendant by providing the jury with an appropriate cautionary instruction; and
- 3. Allow the defense counsel to cross-examine fully the defendant who is testifying concerning the agreement.

${\rm (m)}$ Testimony of accomplice must be corroborated; sufficiency of corroboration; accomplice defined. $^{\mbox{\tiny 143}}$

- 1. A conviction shall not be had on the testimony of an accomplice unless the accomplice is corroborated by other evidence which in itself, and without the aid of the testimony of the accomplice, tends to connect the defendant with the commission of the offense; and the corroboration shall not be sufficient if it merely shows the commission of the offense or the circumstances thereof.
- 2. An accomplice is hereby defined as one who is liable to prosecution, for the identical offense charged against the defendant on trial in the cause in which the testimony of the accomplice is given.

(n) Testimony of person upon or with whom abortion was allegedly committed.¹⁴ Upon a trial for procuring or attempting to procure an abortion, or aiding or assisting therein, the defendant must not be convicted upon the testimony of the person upon or with whom the offense has allegedly been committed, unless:

- 1. The testimony of that person is corroborated by other evidence; or
- 2. The person giving the testimony is, and was at the time the crime is alleged to have taken place, a police officer or deputy sheriff who was performing his or her duties as such.

(o) Procedure when higher offense is shown by evidence.¹⁴⁵ If it appears by the testimony that the facts proved constitute an offense of a higher nature than that charged in the indictment or information, the court may direct the jury to be discharged, and all proceedings on the indictment or information to be suspended, and may order the defendant to be committed, or continued on, or admitted to bail, to answer any new indictment or information which may be found or filed against the defendant for the higher offense.

(p) Procedure if higher offense ignored.¹⁴⁶ If an indictment for the higher offense be dismissed by the grand jury, or be not found at its next session, or if an information be not filed before the next session of the grand jury, the court shall again proceed to try the defendant on the original indictment or information.

(q) When defendant on bail appears for trial defendant may be committed and held.¹⁴⁷ When a defendant who has given bail appears for trial, the court may, in its discretion, at any time after the defendant's appearance for trial, order the defendant to be committed to the custody of the proper officer, to abide the judgment or further order of the court, and the defendant must be committed and held in custody accordingly.

(r) Mistake in charging proper offense: Defendant not discharged; commitment or bail.⁴⁶ When it appears, at any time before verdict or judgment, that a mistake has been made in charging the proper offense, the defendant must not be discharged, if there appears good cause to detain the defendant in custody; but the court must commit the defendant, or require the defendant to give bail for his or her appearance to answer to the offense; and may also require the witnesses to give bail for their appearance.

(s) Discharge of defendant when jury discharged for want of jurisdiction.¹⁴⁰ If the jury is discharged because the court has not jurisdiction of the offense charged, and it appears that it was committed out of the jurisdiction of this state, the defendant must be discharged, unless the court orders that the defendant be detained for a reasonable time, to be specified in the order, to enable the district attorney to communicate with the chief executive officer of the country, state, territory or district where the offense was committed.

(t) Offense committed in other county: Commitment to await warrant; admission to bail; transmittal of papers to district attorney of proper county; expense of transmission.¹⁰⁰ If the offense was committed within the jurisdiction of another county of this state, the court may direct the defendant to be committed for such time as it deems reasonable, to await a warrant from the proper county for the defendant's arrest, or it may admit the defendant to bail in an undertaking, with sufficient sureties that the defendant will, within such time as the court may appoint, render himself or herself amenable to a warrant for arrest from the proper county; and, if not sooner arrested thereon, will attend at the office of the sheriff of the county where the trial was had, at a certain time particularly specified in the undertaking, to surrender himself or herself upon the warrant, if issued, or that the defendant's bail will forfeit such sum as the court may fix, to be mentioned in the undertaking; and the clerk must forthwith transmit a certified copy of the indictment or information, and of all the papers filed in the action, to the district attorney of the proper county, the expenses of which transmission are chargeable to that county.

(u) Discharge where defendant not arrested on warrant from other county; proceedings in case of arrest. 101

- 1. If the defendant is not arrested on a warrant from the proper county, as provided in NRS 175.361, the defendant must be discharged from custody, or the defendant's bail in the action is exonerated, or money deposited instead of bail must be refunded, as the case may be, and the sureties in the undertaking, as mentioned in that section, must be discharged.
- 2. If the defendant is arrested, the same proceedings must be had thereon as upon the arrest of a defendant in another county on a warrant issued by a magistrate.

(v) Court may advise jury to acquit defendant when evidence on either side closed; motion for judgment of acquittal after verdict of guilty or guilty but mentally ill; subsequent motion for new trial.¹³⁸

- 1. If, at any time after the evidence on either side is closed, the court deems the evidence insufficient to warrant a conviction, it may advise the jury to acquit the defendant, but the jury is not bound by such advice.
- 2. The court may, on a motion of a defendant or on its own motion, which is made after the jury returns a verdict of guilty or guilty but mentally ill, set aside the verdict and enter a judgment of acquittal if the evidence is insufficient to sustain a conviction. The motion for a judgment of acquittal must be made within 7 days after the jury is discharged or within such further time as the court may fix during that period.
- 3. If a motion for a judgment of acquittal after a verdict of guilty or guilty but mentally ill pursuant to this section is granted, the court shall also determine whether any motion for a new trial should be granted if the judgment of acquittal is thereafter vacated or reversed. The court shall specify the grounds for that determination. If the motion for a new trial is granted conditionally, the order thereon does not affect the finality of the judgment. If the motion for a new trial is granted conditionally and the judgment is reversed on appeal, the new trial must proceed unless the appellate court has otherwise ordered. If the motion is denied conditionally, the defendant on appeal may assert error in that denial, and if the judgment is reversed on appeal, subsequent proceedings must be in accordance with the order of the appellate court.

(w) Withdrawal, discharge or change of defense counsel; limitations.¹⁸⁹ If a counsel seeks to withdraw from the case or is discharged by the defendant for the purpose of delaying the trial, the court shall not allow the counsel to be changed. The counsel for a defendant may not be changed after a trial has commenced except upon good cause shown to the court.

(x) Misconduct of defendant; sanctions.¹⁵⁴

- 1. Whenever a defendant interferes with the orderly course of a trial by disruptive, disorderly or disrespectful conduct, the court may:
 - i. Order the defendant bound and gagged.
 - ii. Cite the defendant for contempt.
 - iii. Order the defendant removed from the courtroom and proceed with the trial.
- 2. No such order or citation shall issue except after the defendant has been fully and fairly informed that the defendant's conduct is wrong and intolerable and has been warned of the consequences of continued misconduct.
- 3. A defendant who has been removed from the courtroom may be returned upon the defendant's promise to discontinue such misconduct. If the defendant's misconduct continues after the defendant's return the court may proceed as provided in subsection 1.

Rule 37 Conduct of the Jury

1. Separation or custody of jury before submission.¹⁵⁵ The jurors sworn to try a criminal action may, at any time before the submission of the case to the jury, in the discretion of the court, be permitted to separate, depart for home overnight or be kept in charge of a proper officer. Upon commencing deliberation, the jurors shall be kept in charge of a proper officer, unless at the discretion of the court they are permitted to depart for home overnight. When the jurors are kept together, the officer in charge shall keep the jurors in some private and convenient place and separate from other persons. The officer shall not permit any communication to be made to them, or make any personally, unless by order of the court, except to ask them if they have agreed upon their verdict. The officer shall not, before the verdict is rendered, communicate to any person the state of their deliberations or the verdict or when ordered by the court.

2. Jury to be admonished at each adjournment.¹⁵⁶ At each adjournment of the court, whether the jurors are permitted to separate or depart for home overnight, or are kept in charge of officers, they must be admonished by the judge or another officer of the court that it is their duty not to:

- 1. Converse among themselves or with anyone else on any subject connected with the trial;
- 2. Read, watch or listen to any report of or commentary on the trial or any person connected with the trial by any medium of information, including without limitation newspapers, television and radio; or
- 3. If they have not been charged, form or express any opinion on any subject connected with the trial until the cause is finally submitted to them.

3. Accommodations for jury upon retirement; power of court to furnish.¹⁸⁷ A room shall be provided by the sheriff of each county for the use of the jury upon their retirement for deliberation, with suitable furniture, fuel, lights and stationery, unless such necessaries have been already furnished by the county. The court may order the sheriff to do so, and the expenses incurred by the sheriff in carrying the order into effect, when certified by the court, shall be a county charge.

4. Jury provided food and lodging when kept together.¹⁸ While the jury are kept together, either during the progress of the trial or after their retirement for deliberation, they shall be provided, at the expense of the county, with suitable and sufficient food and lodging.

5. Questions by jurors.¹⁵⁹ A judge may invite jurors to submit written questions to a witness as provided in this section.

1. If the judge permits jurors to submit questions, the judge shall control the process to ensure the jury maintains its role as the impartial finder of fact and does not become an investigative body. The judge may disallow any question from a juror and may discontinue questions from jurors at any time.

- If the judge permits jurors to submit questions, the judge should advise the jurors that they may write the question as it occurs to them and submit the question to the bailiff for transmittal to the judge. The judge should advise the jurors that some questions might not be allowed.
- 3. The judge shall review the question with counsel and unrepresented parties and rule upon any objection to the question. The judge may disallow a question even though no objection is made. The judge shall preserve the written question in the court file. If the question is allowed, the judge shall ask the question or permit counsel or an unrepresented party to ask it. The question may be rephrased into proper form. The judge shall allow counsel and unrepresented parties to examine the witness after the juror's question.

6. Jury may take written instructions, materials received in evidence, certain papers and own notes of trial on retiring for deliberation.¹⁶⁰ Upon retiring for deliberation, the jury may take with them:

- 1. All papers and all other items and materials which have been received as evidence in the case, except depositions or copies of such public records or private documents given in evidence as ought not, in the opinion of the court, to be taken from the person having them in possession.
- 2. The written instructions given, and notes of the testimony or other proceedings on the trial, taken by themselves or any of them, but none taken by any other person.

(f) Juries visiting off-site places.¹⁶¹ When in the opinion of the court it is proper for the jury to view the place in which the offense is alleged to have been committed, or in which any other material fact occurred, it may order them to be conducted in a body under the charge of an officer to the place, which shall be shown to them by some person appointed by the court for that purpose. The officer shall be sworn that while the jury are thus conducted, the officer will suffer no person other than the person so appointed to speak to them nor shall the officer speak to the jury on any subject connected with the trial and to return them into court without unnecessary delay or at a specified time. The judge and all parties shall attend any on-site visits with the jury.

(g) Admonition prior to recess.¹⁶⁸ At each recess of the court, whether the jurors are permitted to separate or are sequestered, they shall be admonished by the court that it is their duty not to converse among themselves or to converse with, or suffer themselves to be addressed by, any other person on any subject of the trial, and that it is their duty not to form or express an opinion thereon until the case is finally submitted to them.

(h) Return of jury for information.¹⁶⁸ After the jury have retired for deliberation, if there is any disagreement between them as to any part of the testimony, or if they desire to be informed on any point of law arising in the cause, they must require the officer to conduct them into court. Upon their being brought into court, the information required shall be given in the presence of, or after notice to, the district attorney and the defendant or the defendant's counsel.

(i) Deliberations.¹⁶⁴ Upon retiring for deliberation, the jury may take with them the instructions of the court and all exhibits which have been received as evidence, except exhibits that should not, in the opinion of the court, be in the possession of the jury, such as exhibits of unusual size, weapons or contraband. The court shall permit the jury to view exhibits upon request. Jurors are entitled to take notes during the trial and to have those notes with them during deliberations. As necessary, the court shall provide jurors with writing materials and instruct the jury on taking and using notes.

(j) Jury under officer's charge.¹⁶⁵ When the case is finally submitted to the jury, they shall be kept together in some convenient place under charge of an officer until they agree upon a verdict or are discharged, unless otherwise ordered by the court. Except by order of the court, the officer having them under the officer's charge shall not allow any communication to be made to them, nor shall the officer speak to the jury except to ask them if they have agreed upon their verdict, and the officer shall not, before the verdict is rendered, communicate to any person the state of their deliberations or the verdict agreed upon.

(k) Juror questions during deliberations.¹⁶⁶ After the jury has retired for deliberation, if they desire to be informed on any point of law arising in the cause, they shall inform the officer in charge of them, who shall communicate such request to the court. The court may then direct that the jury be brought before the court where, in the presence of the defendant and both counsel, the court shall respond to the inquiry or advise the jury that no further instructions shall be given. Such response shall be recorded. The court may in its discretion respond to the inquiry in writing without having the jury brought before the court, in which case the inquiry and the response thereto shall be entered in the record.

(l) Jury not to be discharged after cause submitted; exceptions.⁴⁷ Except as provided in NRS 175.081, the jury shall not be discharged after the cause is submitted to them, until they have agreed upon their verdict and rendered it in open court, unless by the consent of both parties, entered upon the minutes, or unless, at the expiration of such time as the court may deem proper, it satisfactorily appears that there is no reasonable probability that the jury can agree.

(m) Incorrect verdict.¹⁶⁸ If the verdict rendered by a jury is incorrect on its face, it may be corrected by the jury under the advice of the court, or the jury may be sent out again.

(n) Directed verdict.¹⁶⁹ At the conclusion of the evidence by the prosecution, or at the conclusion of all the evidence, the court may issue an order dismissing any information or indictment, or any count thereof, upon the ground that the evidence is not legally sufficient to establish the offense charged therein or any lesser included offense.

(o) Adjournment of court during absence of jury.¹⁷⁰ While the jury are absent, the court may adjourn from time to time, as to other business, but it shall nevertheless be deemed to be open for every purpose connected with the cause submitted to the jury, until a verdict be rendered or the jury discharged.

Rule 38 Expert Witnesses And Interpreters

(a) Expert witnesses.¹⁷ The court may appoint any expert witness agreed upon by the parties or of its own selection. An expert so appointed shall be informed of his duties by the court in writing, a copy of which shall be filed. An expert so appointed shall advise the court and the parties of his findings and may thereafter be called to testify by the court or by any party. He shall be subject to cross-examination by each party. The court shall determine the reasonable compensation of the expert and direct payment thereof. The parties may call expert witnesses of their own at their own expense. Upon showing that a defendant is financially unable to pay the fees of an expert whose services are necessary for adequate defense, the witness fee shall be paid as if he were called on behalf of the prosecution.

(b) Interpreters.¹⁷⁹ The court may appoint an interpreter of its own selection and shall determine reasonable compensation and direct payment thereof. The court may allow counsel to question the interpreter before he is sworn to discharge the duties of an interpreter.

Rule 39 Out Of Court Statement And Testimony Of Child Victims Or Child Witnesses Of Sexual Or Physical Abuse - Conditions Of Admissibility

(a) Previously recorded statements.¹⁷⁸ In any case concerning a charge of child abuse or of a sexual offense against a child, the oral statement of a victim or other witness younger than 14 years of age which was recorded prior to the filing of an information or indictment is, upon motion and for good cause shown, admissible as evidence in any court proceeding regarding the offense if all of the following conditions are met:

- 1. the child is available to testify and to be cross-examined at trial, either in person or as provided by law, or the child is unavailable to testify at trial, but the defendant had a previous opportunity to cross-examine the child concerning the recorded statement, such that the defendant's rights of confrontation are not violated;
- 2. no attorney for either party is in the child's presence when the statement is recorded;
- the recording is visual and aural and is recorded on film, videotape or other electronic means;
- 4. the recording is accurate and has not been altered;
- 5. each voice in the recording is identified;
- the person conducting the interview of the child in the recording is present at the proceeding and is available to testify and be cross-examined by either party;
- the defendant and his attorney are provided an opportunity to view the recording before it is shown to the court or jury; and
- 8. the court views the recording before it is shown to the jury and determines that it is sufficiently reliable and trustworthy and that the interest of justice will best be served by admission of the statement into evidence.

(b) Remote transmission of testimony.¹⁷⁴ In a criminal case concerning a charge of child abuse or of a sexual offense against a child, the court, upon motion of a party and for good cause shown, may order that the testimony of any victim or other witness younger than 14 years of age be taken in a room other than the court room, and be televised by closed circuit equipment to be viewed by the jury in the court room. All of the following conditions shall be observed:

- 1. Only the judge, attorneys for each party and the testifying child (if any), persons necessary to operate equipment, and a counselor or therapist whose presence contributes to the welfare and emotional well-being of the child may be in the room during the child's testimony. A defendant who consents to be hidden from the child's view may also be present unless the court determines that the child will suffer serious emotional or mental strain if required to testify in the defendant's presence, or that the child's testimony will be inherently unreliable if required to testify in the defendant's presence. If the court makes that determination, or if the defendant consents:
 - i. the defendant may not be present during the child's testimony;
 - ii. the court shall ensure that the child cannot hear or see the defendant;
 - iii. the court shall advise the child prior to his testimony that the defendant is present at the trial and may listen to the child's testimony;

173 174

- iv. the defendant shall be permitted to observe and hear the child's testimony, and the court shall ensure that the defendant has a means of two-way telephonic communication with his attorney during the child's testimony; and
- v. the conditions of a normal court proceeding shall be approximated as nearly as possible.
- 2. Only the judge and an attorney for each party may question the child.
- 3. As much as possible, persons operating the equipment shall be confined to an adjacent room or behind a screen or mirror so the child cannot see or hear them.
- 4. If the defendant is present with the child during the child's testimony, the court may order that persons operating the closed circuit equipment film both the child and the defendant during the child's testimony, so that the jury may view both the child and the defendant, if that may be arranged without violating other requirements of Subsection (b)(1).

(c) Remote recording of testimony.¹⁷⁵ In any criminal case concerning a charge of child abuse or of a sexual offense against a child, the court may order, upon motion of a party and for good cause shown, that the testimony of any victim or other witness younger than 14 years of age be taken outside the courtroom and be recorded. That testimony is admissible as evidence, for viewing in any court proceeding regarding the charges if the provisions of Subsection (b) are observed, in addition to the following provisions:

- the recording is visual and aural and recorded on film, videotape or by other electronic means;
- 2. the recording is accurate and is not altered;
- 3. each voice on the recording is identified; and
- 4. each party is given an opportunity to view the recording before it is shown in the courtroom.

(d) Presence of child when recording is used.¹⁷⁶ If the court orders that the testimony of a child be taken under Subsection (b) or (c), the child may not be required to testify in court at any proceeding where the recorded testimony is used.

Rule 40 Instructions

- (a) Instructions before opening statements.¹⁷⁷ After the jury is sworn and before opening statements, the court may instruct the jury concerning the jurors' duties and conduct, the order of proceedings, the elements and burden of proof for the alleged crime, and the definition of terms. The court may instruct the jury concerning any matter stipulated to by the parties and agreed to by the court and any matter the court in its discretion believes will assist the jurors in comprehending the case. Preliminary instructions shall be in writing and a copy provided to each juror. At the final pretrial conference or at such other time as the court directs, a party may file a written request that the court instruct the jury on the law as set forth in the request. The court shall inform the parties of its action upon a requested instruction prior to instructing the jury, and it shall furnish the parties with a copy of its proposed instructions, unless the parties waive this requirement.
- (b) Instructions during trial.¹⁷⁸ During the course of the trial, the court may instruct the jury on the law if the instruction will assist the jurors in comprehending the case. Prior to giving the written instruction, the court shall advise the parties of its intent to do so and of the content of the instruction. A party may request an interim written instruction.

(c) Instructions at the close of trial.¹⁷⁹

- 1. Upon the close of the argument, the judge shall charge the jury. The judge may state the testimony and declare the law, but may not charge the jury in respect to matters of fact. The charge must be reduced to writing before it is given, and no charge or instructions may be given to the jury otherwise than in writing, unless by the mutual consent of the parties. If either party requests it, the court must settle and give the instructions to the jury before the argument begins, but this does not prevent the giving of further instructions which may become necessary by reason of the argument.
- 2. In charging the jury, the judge shall state to them all such matters of law the judge thinks necessary for their information in giving their verdict.
- 3. Either party may present to the court any written charge, and request that it be given. If the court believes that the charge is pertinent and an accurate statement of the law, whether or not the charge has been adopted as a model jury instruction, it must be given. If the court believes that the charge is not pertinent or not an accurate statement of law, then it must be refused.
- 4. An original and one copy of each instruction requested by any party must be tendered to the court. The copies must be numbered and indicate who tendered them. Copies of instructions given on the court's own motion or modified by the court must be so identified. When requested instructions are refused, the judge shall write on the margin of the original the word "refused" and initial or sign the notation. The instructions given to the jury must be firmly bound together and the judge shall write the word "given" at the conclusion thereof and sign the last of the instructions to signify that all have been given. After the instructions are given, the judge may not clarify, modify or in any manner explain them to the jury except in writing unless the parties agree to oral instructions.

- 5. After the jury has reached a verdict and been discharged, the originals of all instructions, whether given, modified or refused, must be preserved by the clerk as part of the proceedings.
- 6. Conferences with counsel to settle instructions must be held out of the presence of the jury and may be held in chambers at the option of the court.
- 7. When the offense charged carries a possible penalty of life without possibility of parole a charge to the jury that such penalty does not exclude executive clemency is a correct and pertinent charge, and must be given upon the request of either party.

(d) No special instructions to be given relating exclusively to defendant's testimony.¹⁸⁰ In the trial of all indictments, complaints and other proceedings against persons charged with the commission of crimes or offenses, the person so charged shall, at the person's own request, but not otherwise, be deemed a competent witness, the credit to be given the person's testimony being left solely to the jury, under the instructions of the court, but no special instruction shall be given relating exclusively to the testimony of the defendant.

(e) Restriction on comments of evidence.¹⁸¹ The court shall not comment on the evidence in the case, and if the court refers to any of the evidence, it shall instruct the jury that they are the exclusive judges of all questions of fact.

- 1. A sentence of death is stayed if an appeal or a petition for other relief is pending. The defendant shall remain in the custody of the warden of the Utah State Prison until the appeal or petition for other relief is resolved.
- 2. When an appeal is taken by the prosecution, a stay of any order of judgment in favor of the defendant may be granted by the court upon good cause pending disposition of the appeal.
- 3. Upon the filing of a notice of appeal, and motion of the defendant, the court may stay any sentenced amount of fines, conditions of probation (other than incarceration) pending disposition of the appeal, upon notice to the prosecution and a hearing if requested by the prosecution.
- 4. A party dissatisfied with the trial court's ruling on such a motion may petition for relief in the court in which the appeal is pending.

(b) Staying sentence terms of incarceration. A defendant sentenced, or required as a term of probation, to serve a period of incarceration in jail or in prison, shall be detained, unless released by the court in conformity with this rule.

- 1. In general. Before a court may release a defendant after the filing of a notice of appeal, the court must:
 - i. issue a certificate of probable cause; and
 - ii. determine by clear and convincing evidence that the defendant:
 - A. is not likely to flee; and
 - B. does not pose a danger to the safety of any other person or the community if released under any conditions as set forth in subsection (c).
- 2. A defendant shall file a written motion in the trial court requesting a stay of the sentence term of incarceration.
 - i. That motion shall be accompanied by a copy of the filed notice of appeal; a written application for a certificate of probable cause; and a memorandum of law. The memorandum shall identify the issues to be presented on appeal and support the defendant's position that those issues raise a substantial question of law or fact reasonably likely to result in reversal, an order for a new trial or a sentence that does not include a term of incarceration in jail or prison. The memorandum shall also address why clear and convincing evidence exists that the defendant is not a flight risk and that the defendant does not pose a danger to any other person or the community.
 - ii. A copy of the motion, the application for a certificate of probable cause and supporting memorandum shall be served on the prosecuting attorney. An opposing memorandum may be filed within 14 days after receipt of the application, or within a shorter time as the court deems necessary. A hearing on the application shall be held within 14 days after the court receives the opposing memorandum, or if no opposing memorandum is filed, within 14 days after the application is filed with the court.

- 3. The court shall issue a certificate of probable cause if it finds that the appeal:
 - i. is not being taken for the purpose of delay; and
 - ii. raises substantial issues of law or fact reasonably likely to result in reversal, an order for a new trial or a sentence that does not include a term of incarceration in jail or prison.
- 4. If the court issues a certificate of probable cause it shall order the defendant released if it finds that clear and convincing evidence exists to demonstrate that the defendant is not a flight risk and that the defendant does not pose a danger to any other person or the community if released under any of the conditions set forth in subsection (c).
- 5. The court ordering release pending appeal under subsection (b)(4) shall order release on the least restrictive condition or combination of conditions set forth in subsection (c) that the court determines will reasonably assure the appearance of the person as required and the safety of persons and property in the community.
- 6. Review of trial court's order. A party dissatisfied with the relief granted or denied under this subsection may petition the court in which the appeal is pending for relief.
 - i. If the petition is filed by the defendant, a copy of the petition, the affidavit and papers filed in support of the original motion shall be served on the Utah Attorney General if the case involves any felony charge, and on the prosecuting attorney if the case involves only misdemeanor charges.
 - ii. If the petition is filed by the prosecution, a copy of the petition and supporting papers shall be served on defense counsel, or the defendant if the defendant is not represented by counsel.

(c) If the court determines that the defendant may be released pending appeal, it may release the defendant on the least restrictive condition or combination of conditions that the court determines will reasonably assure the appearance of the person as required and the safety of persons and property in the community, which conditions may include, without limitation, that the defendant:

- 1. is admitted to appropriate bail;
- 2. not commit a federal, state or local crime during the period of release;
- 3. remain in the custody of a designated person who agrees to assume supervision of the defendant and who agrees to report any violation of a release condition to the court, if the designated person is reasonably able to assure the court that the person will appear as required and will not pose a danger to the safety of any other person or the community;
- 4. maintain employment, or if unemployed, actively seek employment;
- 5. maintain or commence an educational program;
- 6. abide by specified restrictions on personal associations, place of abode or travel;

- 9. comply with a specified curfew;
- 10. refrain from possessing a firearm, destructive device or other dangerous weapon;
- refrain from possessing or using alcohol, or any narcotic drug or other controlled substance except as prescribed by a licensed medical practitioner;

- 12. undergo available medical, psychological or psychiatric treatment, including treatment for drug or alcohol abuse or dependency;
- 13. execute an agreement to forfeit, upon failing to appear as required, such designated property, including money, as is reasonably necessary to assure the appearance of the defendant as required, and post with the court such indicia of ownership of the property or such percentage of the money as the court may specify;
- 14. return to custody for specified hours following release for employment, schooling or other limited purposes; and
- 15. satisfy any other condition that is reasonably necessary to assure the appearance of the defendant as required and to assure the safety of persons and property in the community.

(d) A party dissatisfied with the findings made by the justice court judge in staying a sentence under this rule shall utilize the procedure outlined in rule  to obtain relief in the district court.

(e) A court may at any time for good cause shown amend its order granting release to impose additional or different conditions of release. However, the justice court may only act under this subsection (f) if the district court has not docketed or held any hearings pursuant to this rule.

Otherwise the defendant shall be discharged and bail exonerated.

An order of dismissal based upon unconstitutional delay in bringing the defendant to trial or based upon the statute of limitations, shall be a bar to any other prosecution for the offense charged.

(e) Dismissal by compromise. In misdemeanor cases, upon motion of the prosecutor, the court may dismiss the case if it is compromised by the defendant and the injured party. The injured party shall first acknowledge the compromise before the court or in writing. The reasons for the order shall be set forth therein and entered in the minutes. The order shall be a bar to another prosecution for the same offense; provided however, that dismissal by compromise shall not be granted when the misdemeanor is committed by or upon a peace officer while in the performance of his duties, or riotously, or with an intent to commit a felony.

(a) The prosecuting agency shall inform all victims and subpoenaed witnesses of their responsibilities during the criminal proceedings.

(b) The prosecuting agency shall inform all victims and subpoenaed witnesses of their right to be free from threats, intimidation and harm by anyone seeking to induce the victim or witness to testify falsely, withhold testimony or information, avoid legal process, or secure the dismissal of or prevent the filing of a criminal complaint, indictment or information.

(c) If requested by the victim, the prosecuting agency shall provide notice to all victims of the date and time of scheduled hearings, trial and sentencing and of their right to be present during those proceedings and any other public hearing unless they are subpoenaed to testify as a witness and the exclusionary rule is invoked.

(d) The informational rights of victims and witnesses contained in paragraphs (a) through (c) of this rule are contingent upon their providing the prosecuting agency and court with their current telephone numbers and addresses.

(e) In cases where the victim or the victim's legal guardian so requests, the prosecutor shall explain to the victim that a plea agreement involves the dismissal or reduction of charges in exchange for a plea of guilty and identify the possible penalties which may be imposed by the court upon acceptance of the plea agreement. At the time of entry of the plea, the prosecutor shall represent to the court, either in writing or on the record, that the victim has been contacted and an explanation of the plea bargain has been provided to the victim or the victim's legal guardian prior to the court's acceptance of the plea. If the victim or the victim's legal guardian has informed the prosecutor that he or she wishes to address the court at the change of plea or sentencing hearing, the prosecutor shall so inform the court.

(f) The court shall not require victims and witnesses to state their addresses and telephone numbers in open court.

(g) Judges should give scheduling priority to those criminal cases where the victim is a minor in an effort to minimize the emotional trauma to the victim. Scheduling priorities for cases involving minor victims are subject to the scheduling priorities for criminal cases where the defendant is in custody.
